FOREST SERVICE SEEKS NEW CASCADE AIRPORT

Another airport suitable for landing large planes is being sought in the Cascade forest by P. A. Thompson, supervisor, who made an inspection trip Friday. The forest service last summer completed an emergency airport high up above the South Fork of the McKenzie. They are now looking for another site near Oakridge which can be utilized in fire fighting work. Construction work will be carried on next summer if a suitable site is found.

The use of airplanes in combatting forest fires has been carried on for some time, but unsually only as a means of observation. In late years the forest service has launched a plan of developing emergency landing fields which prove to be a great advantage in combatting fires before they cover a very large area. By using planes a fire can be spotted and a crew of firefighters transported to within a comparatively few miles of the fire in the space of a few hours time whereas formerly days were required to pack in to the burning area.

Mrs. Georgia Nettleton was in charge of the devotionls at the meeting.

Salesman (showing customer some sports stockings): "Just the thing for you. Worth double the money. Latest pattern, fast colors, holeproof, won't shrink, and it's a good yarn."

Customer (politely): "Very well told, too."

VERY LATEST
by MARY MARSHALL

Way back in the eighteenth century they called these dainty accessories of lace or fine linen "modesty" pieces and now that they have been revived in present day fashions the simple old designation is still used.

Modesty pieces or simple modesties came as a natural outcome of the fashion of deep V necklines, which are usually more becoming than shorter V-s and which give an effect of slenderness that is not possible with a more abrupt neck line. If a modesty piece is to be added to the costume the V opening of the dress may be decidedly low without giving a glimpse of one's slip or bandeau.

Many of the new wool dresses are made with these dainty additions, but sometimes a dress designed to be worn without one is improved if one is added. If you are rather short and rather plump you may find that V neck lines which would otherwise be much too deep may be worn with the addition of these lace or lingerie additions.

You can buy these accessories ready made or you can make them yourself. But remember that they should be made of fine material, lace, fine linen, mull or organdie. The new idea is to make them in square shapes, arranging the lace or embroidery along one side where it will be seen at the V opening and finishing the other side of the square with a fine rolled hem and an edging of fine lace. This of course does not show but it does give a sense of daintiness that appeals to the well dressed woman.

Hints for the Home

Cauliflower Dumplings

Cauliflower dumplings can be made from left-over cauliflower. Put the pieces of cauliflower through a vegetable ricer and add a little salt, pepper, mace, melted butter and milk. Add a beaten egg and enough farina to make the mixture firm. Mould into small balls and boil them for six minutes in clear stock or bouillon. Serve half a dozen, as a vegetable, to each person or make them smaller and serve them instead of croutons in the soup in which they are boiled.

* * *

Stuffed Cauliflower

Stuffed cauliflower is made of a head of cauliflower boiled whole until it is tender. It should then be dropped in cold water to blanch and then the heart should be cut out and chopped with half a dozen mushrooms and some cayenne pepper. Put the stuffing in the cavity in the head and put the whole on a hot dish, covered with a piece of cheesecloth, in the oven for a moment to heat. Do the work quickly so that the cauliflower will not need much heating. Serve with white sauce.

* * *

Indian Bread

Mix thoroughly the following ingredients: One cup of white corn meal, one cup of yellow corn meal, one teaspoonful of cayenne and one cup of chopped suet. Add a cup of cold water and stir thoroughly. Form this batter into rolls about five inches long, roll in greased paper and bake moderately for an hour. They should be served hot. According to the government report it was the custom of the Indians to bake these cakes by rolling them in husks of corn, a practice which is recommended to campers.

Use Salt Discreetly

When there are to be guests at your table don't be too free with the salt shaker in cooking. Nowadays many people are moderating their use of salt—and some people have actually been told by their doctors to use very little in their diet. What you consider just enough salt in the soup or the vegetables or the gravy may make it almost inedible to the person who has become accustomed to using but little. Use salt very sparingly therefore in cooking. It is a simple thing for those who like it to add more.
