REV. D. A. THOMPSON'S RESIGNATION ACCEPTED.—The resignation of Rev. David A. Thompson as pastor of the Spokane-Avenue Presbyterian Church was accepted by the congregation Tuesday night, and two commissioners were appointed to ask the Portland Presbytery to dissolve the pastoral relations. A special meeting of the Presbytery will be called for that purpose next month. Rev. Mr. Thompson was pastor of the Sellwood church for nine years. He will go to the First Presbyterian Church of Olympia, Wash., September 15. He left yesterday morning for the beach to rest during August. He will preach in the Sellwood church two Sundays in September.

POLICE LOSE IN RAID.—Forcing her 270 pounds of avoirdupois through a small second-story window and breaking her leg when she hit the ground outside, an unidentified negress escaped from Detectives Mallett and Craddock and Sergeant Roberts when they raided a rooming-house, at 323½ Flanders street, late yesterday. The house had been watched for some time and the raid was made when there were several men in the house, all of whom escaped when the inmates gave an alarm before the officers entered. Rose Williams, 37, the proprietress, was arrested and will appear in Municipal Court today.

EX-FIREMEN POSTPONE MEETING.—Owing to a misunderstanding with the proprietor of Drew's Hall, who rented the place for last night to a German society, the members of the ex-firemen's association which was to have adopted its constitution, elected its officers and effected a permanent organization last night, found no place left for their meeting but the curbstone outside. After a consultation, Fred Wagner, temporary chairman, put a vote to the members assembled and they decided to postpone the meeting until Wednesday, August 9.

OREGON PRODUCTS TO BEAR LABEL.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Manufacturers' Association Tuesday night a committee of six—Thomas Mann, John Montague, Henry Feldman, Charles Coopey, A. E. Gantenbien and Joseph Weber—was appointed to go into the matter of the proper labeling of "Made in Oregon" products. The object is not only to guarantee the consumer that he is buying goods actually made in Oregon, but to insure him that the goods purchased are exactly as represented in quantity and quality.

AUTO CLUB'S MEETING POSTPONED.—Inability on the part of several members of the board of directors of the Portland Automobile Club to attend caused last night's special meeting to be postponed by President Clemens. The directors will get together this afternoon or tonight. The purpose of the meeting is to arrange for the entertainment of the many autoists who will visit Portland to attend the annual meeting of the Pacific Highway Association August 4 and 5.

TRACCHIA THOUGHT COURT MADE LAWS.—When Carman O. Tracchia, a citizen who was naturalized by Federal Judge Bean yesterday, was asked who makes the laws in Oregon, he answered after a moment's meditation, "The Supreme Court." Tracchia satisfactorily answered all other questions, bearing upon the manner in which the United States Government is conducted. John Frainey and Thomas Gill were also naturalized.

30,000 ASK QUESTIONS

COMMERCIAL CLUB'S MAIL IS RECORD BREAKER.

Correspondents From Every Part of World Seek Specific Information About Oegon.

The mail of the Portland Commercial Club yesterday brought the total of inquiries about Oregon that have been received since January 1, up to 30,000. This breaks the record for all previous years since the organization of the club, and it is believed to beat records made by any other Commercial Club in the United States that has a bureau of publicity.

Questions were asked about every conceivable thing from prices of farm and cattle lands to openings for the installation of industrial enterprises or stores. They came from every part of the world. Every state in the Union was represented, many countries of Europe, and several remote provinces in Asia.

"All these letters were answered fully," said C. C. Chapman, manager of the publicity department, yesterday, "and every correspondent was referred to the commercial clubs of other towns and cities of Oregon for further information. All the questioners have received, besides our letters of information, from 10 to 20 booklets or other pieces of literature from other sections of Oregon. Our care in giving thorough answers to all questions and furnishing specific instead of general information has had great influence in bringing people to Oregon in preference to other Pacific Coast states."

SALEM THEATER IS SOLD

John Cordray Disposes of Grand to F. L. Waters, of Capital.

The Grand Opera-house at Salem, Or., was sold yesterday by John Cordray, manager of the Oaks, to F. L. Waters, a prominent Salem theatrical man. The consideration of the deal was not made public.

The sale of the Grand by Mr. Cordray marks the end of his theater ownership, which has covered a period of 20 years. He gives as his reasons for selling the last of what was formerly a long string of playhouses, that the Oaks requires all his attention.

The building covers property 100 by 125 feet. Mr. Cordray formerly owned a string of theaters in Portland, Seattle and other Coast cities. The last house sold before the Salem deal was the present Empress to the Sullivan & Considine Company. This sale was about five years ago.

OLD SITE IS LIKED

Second and Oak Preferred for New Police Building.

POINT FOUND CENTRAL

Chief Slover and Captain Moore Favor Present Location of Headquarters for Structure for City's Needs.

Chief of Police Slover and Captain of Detectives Moore believe that the proposed new police headquarters building should be situated on the city's property at Second and Oak streets, where the jail is at present.

Chief Slover and Captain Moore have no hesitancy in saying that the city has now the best location it can get for its police administrative building, and that they favor the present site above all others. There is a bond issue of $200,000 at hand for the construction of the building, and they point out that, should the Council use much of this for a site, it would leave an insufficient amount for the structure.

"In my opinion," said Chief Slover, "Second and Oak streets, where the present building is situated, is the best place for the proposed new building. It is the established police station, to start with, and has many advantages. All of the carlines are within easy reach; two pass on either side of it, and it is near the center of police activity.

Central Point Liked.

"Accidents happen, as a rule, within easy distance of the present site. With an emergency hospital at Second and Oak streets, these cases could receive prompt attention. The larger number of fires within a radius of the police headquarters zone, and the big fires of the future are bound to be in the business district, all of which is easily reached by the police from the present location of the station. I cannot think of a better place for the new building.

"My choice for the new building is at Second and Oak," said Captain Moore, senior captain and head of the detective force. "It fills all of the requirements nicely and already belongs to the city. If the strip lying north of it cannot be had for a reasonable sum, we can get along very well with what we already own.

Higher Building Proposed.

"If we can't get the ground space, we can build higher and provide everything necessary to the convenience, comfort and safety of the officers and men and the facilities for handling police business."

No definite action has as yet been taken by the authorities to determine the location of the site, but it is probable that the Council committee on health and police will take up the question when it meets tomorrow morning. The present headquarters and jail building has been condemned for years as unfit for human occupancy. Chief Slover is urging that every effort be made to hasten the construction of the new building. The department is handicapped by having inadequate facilities with which to work. Everyone is cramped and there is no room at all for the detective bureau at headquarters. It is housed more than one block from the central station and cripples the department, declared Chief Slover and Captain Moore.

ROAD AID IS PROMISED

REX - TIGARDVILLE HIGHWAY PROJECT EXPLAINED.

George E. Waggoner, of Dundee, Appeals to Portland Organizations to Build City Link.

Working to obtain money for the improvement of the Rex-Tigardville road across Washington County, to connect Portland with the main thoroughfares of the inner Willamete Valley, George E. Waggoner, of Dundee, visited the Ad Club, the Rotary Club and the Realty Board yesterday, laid his case before them and solicited their assistance. Without exception the three associations offered their help to raise the $7500 needed to complete the improvements. Committees will be appointed today from each club and will meet Mr. Waggoner at a luncheon at the Commercial Club at noon, to discuss plans for raising the money.

Mr. Waggoner represents a club formed three months ago in Yamhill County, to work for the improvement of the eight-mile strip of road between Rex and Tigardville, which alone, they assert, prevents travelers from having a satisfactory road leading from Portland into the valley districts of the west side. When the new club began soliciting, it was necessary to raise $16,000 to make the improvements satisfactorily. When Mr. Waggoner appeared before the clubs here yesterday, he said that they lacked but $7500 of the amount.

"I feel very hopeful since I have visited these three clubs, and received the promise of their support in the campaign to raise the remainder of the money," said Mr. Waggoner. "The Portland Ad Club was especially enthusiastic in its agreement to advocate the plan and help in raising the money. I believe now that we will easily have all of it available so that we can begin work September 14. When we begin, we will rush the road to completion this Fall. When it is finished it will be maintained and kept open during Summer and Winter, offering free access from Portland to the valley at all times.

"The new city boulevard that will run through the Terwilliger tract will connect with the Tigardville road, and will be the fourth good road leading out of Portland that converges toward this highway. It is clear, then, that this is the connecting link between Portland and the valley. In the past it has been in such condition as to shut off travel for several months every year. When we have it reconstructed, automobilists driving out of Portland at all seasons will find it an avenue opening into roads as good as they could desire in the interior of the valley, through Yamhill and other west side counties.

Mt. Hood Road Escapes Fire.

L. G. Holden, who passes over the Mount Hood automobile road between Portland and the Rhododendron Tavern twice a week, says there are no fires in districts adjoining the road or near the resorts. A small fire was noticed near the road between Boring and Sandy, at the cemetery, but burned out without doing great damage. Most of the territory on Zigzag Mountain was burned over last year, and a fire could not make much headway there or in the surroundings this year. Mr. Holden says from now on there will be some danger unless people going to the resorts at Mount Hood use every care to see that no fires are left.

Adeline Francis at the Empress in Clever Novelty Entitled "The Graphophone Girl"

The cleverest and most entertaining novelty at the Empress Theater this week is undoubtedly Miss Francis and her graphophone. It is one great big surprise and a rare delight. Miss Francis, who presents the act, is the originator of this clever idea. Graphophones, phonoraphs, Victrolas and Talking Tables have been in existence for several years, yet Miss Francis is the firt to come forward and employ the instrument to give the public what it is always clamoring for—something new!

In creating this act, Miss Francis has delivered the most entertaining and original novelty, which must have required the patience of a Job and a very considerable quantity of gray matter besides. The act is protected by copyright and consists of a clever duet and recitation, the phonograph enunciating both questions and answers, as well as songs and accompaniment. Miss Francis' own voice was used in recording the records that are employed in this act. It is said at the Columbia laboratory in New York that it will be a long time before records of equal distinctness and of such thoroughly human character or quality, as well as perfect enunciation, will be made again.

Miss Francis addresses her "other voice" as "sister," and between the two one hears dialogue, songs in duet form, comedy numbers and the shaping up of an entire act, which is really most interesting and thoroughly entertaining. Versatility and refinement reign throughout. The act is absolutely new.

In trying out all makes of machines and records, Miss Francis finally decided, after exhaustive tests, that the Columbia instruments are superior to all others because of the evenness with which the spring power operates and because of the tonal qualities and the durability and dependableness of the mechanism. Columbia machines and records are sold in Portland in the new Eilers Music House, second floor, at Seventh and Alder.

REASON WHY NO. 6

—why Certificates of Title furnish the BEST protection to buyers of and mortgagees of real estate

Think of having an abstract of 350 pages examined every time an $800 lot is transferred—think of the consequent delay, trouble and expense involved. That this is not an unusual occurrence in Portland was demonstrated by a similar case brought to our notice last week. A Certificate of Title tells it all on one page; and it never gets any larger — one examination serving as a basis for all future transfers. All of which necessarily means a great saving of time, labor and expense, and furnishes guaranteed protection that you cannot otherwise get. Investigate. Call for booklet.
