PIPES A LAY TO THE NOTED HAREM SKIRT

BERKELEY, Cal., June 2.—Ceasing for the nonce piping his lays, Charles Keeler, Berkeley poet, has piped the harem skirt. With true poetic license he has voiced his admiration for the garment as the nearest approach of the American woman to the modest and beautiful dress of "the heathen Chinese." Sings the poet:

"The harem skirt is new to us and like every innovation, scoffed at. It embodies a principle of dress alike hygenic and artistic, a principle long recognized by Chinese women with their loose pantaloons and silk blouses. The Chinese women's dress is both modest and beautiful."
