IT HAPPENED IN HOOD RIVER FRIDAY

HOOD RIVER GARDENS PELTED BY HAIL

THE DALLES, Ore., April 18.—Washed away by heavy rain and pelted by hail, a large amount of spring garden crop was destroyed by storm here. The fruit crop also was considerably damaged, it was reported by farmers and orchardists, as a result of Friday's hail storm, which was accompained by a near cloudburst. Garden truck on the lowlands was washed away when Mill creek was flooded. Hillside crops were washed away by torrents of rain and lettuce and spinach were cut to ribbons by hail.—Medford Sunday Sun.
