THE TARIFF IN BRITISH COLUMBIA. Within a short time, and that too since

Canada imposed a duty on all imports, Victoria alone has increased its popula-tion by about 3314 per cent., after tion by about 3314 per cent., after years and years of stagnation.—Enterprise, November, 8.

In British Columbia the burdens of a high tariff are causing vexation of spirit. Before annexation to the dominion when Victoria was a free port, number less craft were in her harbor. All the country back of that port was supplied from thence, and money was plenty. Now gloom has overcast the face of the merchant, for business is suffering. Every month, says a revenue officer re cently stationed at Victoria, $100,000 collected as revenue are sent to the Dominion government. British Columbia is in this manner drained of money, and its inhabitants obtain actually nothing in more benefit to themselves throw every month $100,000 into the ocean, as they would not be restricted in trade by the sacrifice, as they are now by the tariff.

British Columbia has nothing to protect. Free commerce with the world its tion of the flour it consumes, and butter in Victoria is 50 cents the whole summer. The island of Vancouver, on which Vicdoes the mainland; but, generally speakcountry at the present, and its manufachorses do well on its high and grassy plains and fish teem in its rivers; coal and valuable ores are dug from its mines, and its extensive forests abound with valuable wood. But beyond coal, ore, fish, cattle and lumber, British Colum-bis has nothing to sell, but a thousand things to buy.

The high duties are one of the main causes of the incipient rebellion against the Dominion government which is now being agitated in Manitoba and the Well nigh insurmountable. The passage is dangerous. An extra per centage of border are similarly situated as we are.

We buy seed of what we consume in a protected market, and sell, what we have obliged to lie off the mouth of the Columbia for several weeks before they can be all in a free market in competition.

Since the completion of the Northern Pacific, the condition of the merchants of Victoria has become much more favorable. Before, the amerchandise which came in fond from the Eastern portion of British America cost 15 per cent. of its value for freight, commissions, etc. They had then, as now, no duty to pay on Canadian goods, and the duty on direct from inal, but this is an advantage of small account, as little importation direct from Europe is done in Victoria. TRADE AND COMMERCE IN PORTLAND.

Trade in Portland is already undergoing the metamorphosis consequent upon the opening of the Northern Pacific. The 12 00 partial isolation which her wholesale merchants have enjoyed is at an end. Profits are becoming smaller on account of sharp competition, and the long credits granted heretofore to dealers will credits to the farmers will undoubtedly be curtailed in consequence.
