AGGIES BATTERED BY OREGON GAME

Remnant of Broken Machine Hobbles on Field to Prepare for Syracuse.

THREE OUT FOR SEASON

Yeager, Dutton and Bissett Unable to Play More and Abraham and Hofer Are Laid Up for Repairs, With 3 Others Badly Bruised.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—On a flooded and soggy gridiron lashed by driving rain and surrounded by gloom, Doc Stewart last night assembled those men of his shattered and broken machine who could walk or hobble to the field, and under these unfavorable circumstances the business of rebuilding the Aggie unit for the Syracuse game went on.

Abraham, Yeager, Dutton, Bissett and Hofer were unable to appear on the field, and most of this quintet of Stewart's most dependable men have, according to their physicians, laid away the moleskins for the year. Yeager played 16 minutes of the affair at Eugene with a broken collarbone, and only the examination of the men taking place between halves brought the injury to light. The plucky center will be out of the game for the year. Dutton, who was kneed by Mitchell of Oregon in the last half, was found upon examination to have a rib torn loose and the speedy athlete from Kansas has also laid away the togs for the season.

Bissett Out for Season.

Bissett dislocated his arm and is also out of the game permanently, leaving the Orange and Black without a center about which to build their attack.

Abraham is suffering from injuries to his neck, which was first injured in the Washington State game, and has weakened him since that time, and is due to take a vacation from gridiron labors, but will be in condition to play Syracuse. Hofer also will appear on the gridiron in a few days.

Not for years has a gridiron battle taken such toll from the Aggie ranks as did the great struggle at Eugene last Saturday, and the task which Stewart has to face in preparing the machine for the important intersectional game with Syracuse, scheduled for December 1 in Portland, is the hardest which has faced the local coach in several years.

Many Others Bruised.

Many of the athletes reporting for practice were suffering from bruises, strains and every kind of soreness known to athletics. Allen, Locey and Allworth, who entered the big game in poor condition, were terribly punished in the fray, and while not severely injured, will require days to regain their dash and fight.

A complete reorganization of the machine will take place this week, and a stiff practice each night is promised. Anderson will be forced to play center. The big Albany athlete played center for two years on the orange and black, but is erratic in his passing and a better man at guard. Locey, the big freshman fullback, will be moved up to the guard position vacated by Anderson, which will leave a big hole in the backfield to be filled by bringing Captain Billie from end to fullback as a future.

VERNON KNOCKS OUT TURKEY

Centralia Boxer Floored in Third and Put Clear Out in Fourth.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Nov. 22.—(Special.)—"Tex" Vernon won an easy victory over Young Turkey, of Centralia, here last night in the fourth round of what was to have been a 10-round go. He floored Turkey in the last of the third and in the opening of the fourth knocked him out.

This is Vernon's third successive knockout, similar victories having been won over Arthur Denny, Australian featherweight, at Raymond, in the first round, and over Kid Trish last week in Astoria. Vernon and his manager, Dick Hitlman, left today for Portland, where Vernon meets Billy Mascott Wednesday night at the Moose smoker.

ABERDEEN HAS HAIL AND SNOW

Terrific Thunder Storm Also Lasts for Hour.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—One of the worst storms of the season passed over the harbor between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning. Terrific thunder, lightning, flashes, hail, rain and wind were the features, and for about an hour the elements were as wild as imagination could picture.

About 9 A. M. the hail was repeated, probably half an inch falling in the downtown districts. It melted, however, within the hour. Toward the hills there was some evidence of snow. The rainfall yesterday was .9 of an inch. Three schoopers are barbound.

WENATCHEE TO PLAY PULLMAN

Eleven Reported in Fine Condition for Game Tomorrow.

WENATCHEE, Wash., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Pullman, champion of Southeastern Washington, will be the Thanksgiving treat to Wenatchee football fans and high school supporters. Wenatchee High School will meet Pullman at Recreation Park Thanksgiving afternoon.

Since the North Central game the high school squad has been practicing hard, endeavoring to overcome the glaring faults which appeared. Gill, Pendergast, Foster, Gillis, Anderson and Jensen are in fine shape.

Dallas Off for Lebanon Today.

DALLAS, Or., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The Dallas High School football team will leave Dallas Thursday morning on a special train for Lebanon, where the hardest game of the year for the Dallas team is expected to be played. Dallas tied Lebanon High in this city two weeks ago. About 250 Dallas fans will attend. The Dallas band will also go. The Dallas team has been defeated but one this season, and that by McMinnville High School, with a score of 13 to 7.

Chehalis to Play at Centralia.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Nov. 22.—(Special.)—The Centralia and Chehalis High School football teams will play their last game of the season here on Thursday morning. The first game between the rival elevens resulted in an 18-to-7 victory for Chehalis, but the locals are working hard in hope of retrieving themselves.

Navy Holds Gruelling Practice.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 22.—Navy's football squad continued its secret practice this afternoon, scrimmaging of somewhat shorter duration than that of yesterday but of a gruelling character being given the men by the coaches. The line bucking tactics and hard work were interspersed with efforts at smoothing down the fancy plays designed to trick the Army cadets at New York on Saturday.

BOWLING LEAGUE ORGANIZES

Opening of Alleys in Baker Paves Way for New Circuit.

BAKER, Or., Nov. 22.—(Special.)—What is planned to be first step toward organizing an Eastern Oregon Bowling League is the opening game at the Newton & Flegel alleys here Saturday night, when La Grande bowlers will meet a Baker team composed of J. H. Torgler, C. L. Baldwin, Everett Jones, Willard Stoddard and either Curtis Strong or Harry Newton.

The Eastern Oregon League is to be composed of teams from Baker, La Grande, Pendleton and another city, to be selected by the three. A city league is also being formed and 50 have applied for berths on teams. The league will start with at least 10 teams.

La Grande to Play Walla Walla.

LA GRANDE, Or., Nov. 22.—(Special.)—Coach Reynolds will take his unbeaten high school gladiators to Walla Walla tomorrow morning to play a return game with the high school there. Recently La Grande defeated Walla Walla, 22 to 12 here, and Walla Walla offered a handsome bonus for a return match there.

Gridiron Gossip.

By Roscoe Fawcett.

Yale Would Like Sharpe.

YALE men are clamoring for the Elis' athletic association to get Al Sharpe, a former wearer of the blue, for coach of all athletic teams, but those who are counting upon securing the Cornell coach are building false hopes. Sharpe signed a new contract at Cornell last spring, which calls for his services until the Spring of 1920. The former Yale star will have charge of the baseball, football and basketball teams and signed the contract at his own figure. Since Sharpe has been in charge of Cornell's teams the Ithacans have been coming rapidly to the front in every branch of athletics, and if the material is as good as is expected for baseball and basketball, don't be surprised if two more major sports championships are captured by Cornell.

World's Record for Field Goals.

Alfred Griggs, of the Exeter High School, California, recently broke all field goal kicking records when he registered 13 goals from the field in one game. The score of the game was 127 to 0, in favor of Exeter, against Hanford High School, of San Francisco. During the course of the game Griggs tried 17 placement goals and made 13 from distances ranging from 15 to 42 yards. This is the greatest performance ever recorded in one game. The high score and lack of opposition gave Griggs his many chances, but nevertheless the record is remarkable.

Schoolboy Country's Best Punter.

The greatest punter the writer has ever seen is playing with the Haverford School, just outside Philadelphia. They may talk about Mahan, Barrett, Driggs and others, who can boot the ball, but this lad has them all beaten ten yards. It is a common thing to tell about a man who punts 50 yards, this expression being carelessly used to describe kicks that range anywhere from 35 yards up to 50, but when the distance is measured you will find that few of them actually punt 50 yards and none of them boot any further, figuring the punt from the line of scrimmage, and not from the kicker's position. But this lad, Jimmy Moore, who is a left-footed kicker, can go over the 50-yard average without trouble and has not averaged under 50 yards in any game. Against Mill School, one of the biggest prep school teams in the country, Moore averaged 61 yards for 12 punts, this distance being measured from the scrimmage line, and not from kicking position. Of the 12 punts, but one was caught by the Mill backs, all of them sailing over their heads, or being temporarily fumbled. Moore kicks entirely differently than any other star in the East, and the ball seldom spirals, but has a peculiar end over end and twist, very much like the ball Bill Hallenbeck kicked. Perhaps you have not seen Moore are inclined to doubt Moore's ability. One of the doubters was Bob Maxwell, the well-known officials of big college games, but he has been confounded. Maxwell was the referee of the Haverford-Mill game and afterwards expressed the belief that Moore was the greatest punter he had ever seen. Maxwell was an All-American guard in 1906, and is known as one of the brightest football men in the country, and, therefore, has seen quite a few great punters. Moore is only 17 years old, but stands 6 feet in height and weighs 170 pounds. He has another year at Haverford school, and there will be a mad scramble to secure his matriculation. It is said that he will decide upon either Princeton or Penn.

Football Players Get Rewards.

Would you call the men who played in the Iowa—University and Northwestern game professionals because many of them played for something besides their expenses. Prior to the game, Iowa City merchants got together a list of rewards for the players who made star plays during the game and nobody prevented the mudsquig from taking the prizes. Here are some of the things offered the players of the Iowa team: Fall suits, gloves, hats, scarfs, gold cuff links, free meals, free tonsorial work for the balance of the school term, season ticket to the leading theaters, etc.

A Comparison With Rugby.

In view of the fact that colleges in the Far West and on the Pacific Coast are rapidly getting up Rugby for the American college football game, after playing the English game for 10 years, a comparison of the two games by a man who has been prominent in both is interesting. The parallel presented below is drawn by J. H. Glasscock, coach of the University of Nevada eleven, which recently gave up the Rugby game for our good old American game. His remarks follow:

"The question of American football versus Rugby is a very vital and interesting subject. Were I able to discuss the absolute merits of both games pro and con it would indeed comprise a volume of no small dimensions. The average American youth demands for his recreation a game that introduces all the principles of strength, courage and skill. American football embodies these three principles to a nicety. Like Rugby, the present American game does not need weight as an essential to a perfect fighting machine. The boy who thinks quickly, acts upon his own impulse in all emergencies is worth 10 times his weight as more weight goes. In Rugby possession of the ball meant very little, the ball changed hands constantly and the ground gain was usually on long runs, kicks to touch, or high centers or dribbling rushes. It is not the long runs that count in the American game, but the consistent gaining of three or four yards through the enemy's weak places, and to do this we must have the ability to concentrate and mobilize rapidly at points where the attack is least expected. In Rugby the forces were too scattered to do this effectively."

Glenn Warner's Escape From Army.

Nobody would ever accuse Glenn Warner of being a slow thinker, but according to his own admission this failure to think quickly enough is responsible for him being one of the greatest football coaches instead of an Army officer. Here's the way Warner tells it: "Funny how little things often turn your whole career. When I was a boy I wanted to go to West Point and be a soldier. I took the physical examination and passed, and then the other exams were started. I did my arithmetic problems all right, but I was too slow, for I did not hustle to put them on the examination papers after working them on scratch paper. Before I could get started I heard the party giving the examination cry out: 'Hand in your papers, examination over.'"

Kansas Has Compulsory Football.

If Kansas University does not have powerful elevens in the future it will not be the fault of its physical training instructor, H. A. Lovett. Instead of having the usual gymnastic exercises the members of the sophomore class at Kansas have been ordered to play football for an hour each afternoon this Fall. Two or three men who were not candidates for the eleven have been discovered who are not in the varsity squad and Kansas is very much in favor of the system. Regulation football suits were given to 100 men, instead of gymnastic suits, and as a result almost everybody in college is a candidate for the team.

Syracuse a Globe Trotter.

Syracuse has the hardest schedule of any team in the entire country, and the New York state eleven will never more ground than any team has ever covered, barring possibly the Indians of 1908. Almost all of Syracuse's games have been played away from home, and the team has already taken a long jaunt to Michigan to play Michigan, and will take a still longer one to meet the Oregon Aggies in Portland on December 1. The orange is represented by one of its greatest teams and has lost only to Princeton, which was by a 3-to-0 score. Among the teams beaten are Michigan, Rutgers, Brown and Rochester.

CUPID DEFIES COURT AND FOILS DIVORCE

Attorney, Who Journeyed to Boise for Separation, Leaves With Wife.

CASE HANGS FIRE, MISSES

Elmore Franklin Elmore Is Forgiven for Alleged Slapping Until Mate "Saw All Sorts of Stars" and Reunion Follows.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 22.—(Special.)—Elmore Franklin Elmore, formerly of Washington, D. C., now of Plattsburg, N. Y., a prominent attorney, came to Boise, now aspiring to the title of the Reno of the Northwest, to obtain a divorce from Katherine R. Elmore on the grounds of desertion.

He has just left Boise reunited with Mrs. Elmore. It was a case of the lion and the lamb after the reconciliation.

The divorce mill of Idaho, where only six months' residence is required, was cheated of its victims.

Evidence was introduced by Elmore

D. W. Griffith, the Wizard Who Created "Birth of a Nation," and Now Presents "Avenging Conscience" With the Same Cast of Stars.

Franklin Elmore to show cause why he should be legally separated from his wife and some highly entertaining family history was dragged into the records, only to find Cupid, with his darts, still on the job.

Reunion Occurs During Trial.

One day Mr. and Mrs. Elmore left the courtroom arm in arm. The divorce proceedings were forgotten.

It was in March, 1914, so the testimony introduced at the trial, which so suddenly terminated the other day, showed, that Mrs. Elmore left Summerville, N. C., where the Elmores were then living, for Washington, D. C. Letters introduced showed that she had her husband's consent to go.

Letters passed back and forth, until Mrs. Elmore became hurt at the tone of one of her husband's letters. She wrote to him and informed him he had placed a bar between them and that she would only return on certain conditions. One of these was that they live apart.

About this time Mr. Elmore and his mother left Summerville to go north. He says he wrote Mrs. Elmore where he would stop en route. In the meantime Mrs. Elmore wrote her husband announcing the conditions on which she would return to him. The letter miscarried.

Wife's Brother Promises Aid.

The misunderstanding continued. Mr. Elmore thereupon left the East and came to Boise, taking up his residence here. Papers for a legal separation were prepared at the end of the term of legal residence.

Mrs. Elmore wrote to her brother, Thomas Riggs, a member of the Alaska Commission, informing him of the action taken by her husband and also of alleged cruelties. Her brother replied he would back her in any action and regretted that the sentiment of the times would not permit him to go farther.

The divorce case was postponed from time to time. Finally, the legal preliminaries were cleared away and the case called.

In her own defense, Mrs. Elmore took the stand and told of her married life without a tremor of voice or trace of emotion. From the beginning, she said it was a struggle with her mother-in-law.

Slapping by Husband Charged.

Mrs. Elmore declared that her husband was rude and even cruel to her at times; that in July, 1912, her husband slapped her until she "saw all sorts of stars"; that in August, 1912, she thought to console her husband while he was in the garden, and he taunted her because she was childless, to which she replied she was glad she had no children born in such a family, whereupon, she alleged, he kicked and slapped her. Once while they were in Peru, she testified, he choked her.

One day of the trial Mr. and Mrs. Elmore were seen talking together. They had refused to speak when the trial opened. The next day they left the courtroom arm in arm. And so the reconciliation cheated the court.

STAGE HUNTER ARRESTED

Man Buys Rabbit and Shoots it in Park to Display Prowess.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—Dorey Marks, 21 years old, of 1235 Mechanic street, Germantown, is locked up in the Sedgeley guardhouse, charged with discharging firearms in Wister Park, which is against the law. Marks went hunting in the park at sundown, but engaged in a sort of Belasco stage hunt for two white rabbits which he admitted he purchased at a bird and animal store in Germantown during the afternoon.

Marks oiled up his shotgun and entered the park at dusk. He had fired one shot and killed one rabbit, when Park Guard Downey ran up. The other rabbit was cowering in front of the hunter when Downey arrested the young man. The hunter, his gun, his one slain rabbit and the living one were taken to the Germantown Police Station and later transferred to the Sedgeley guardhouse.

Marks admitted having paid 75 cents apiece for the rabbits. He said he wished to convince his family and friends that he was an expert hunter.

HEILIG FILM GRIPS

"Avenging Conscience" Holds Audience in Spell.

CAST USED IS NOTEWORTHY

First Interpretation of Poe's Works, Produced by D. W. Griffith, Despite Rigid Censorship, Is Picture That Enwrapts All.

Large crowds at the Heilig Theater yesterday testified to the gripping powers of the D. W. Griffith masterpiece, "Avenging Conscience," which Griffith says is greater than his other achievement, "The Birth of a Nation." The picture began a five-day run, and will end Saturday night.

As early as 11 o'clock in the morning there were more than 50 persons waiting for the first performance, while at night even the capacity of the Heilig was taxed.

"Avenging Conscience" is notable not only as being the first picturization of Poe's works, but for the weighty cast, for every member of "The Birth of a Nation" cast has a role in "Avenging Conscience," with lovely Blanche Sweet thrown in for good measure.

Despite the rigid manner in which the picture was censored in Portland, whole scenes being deleted, yet "Avenging Conscience" remains a pictorial monument to Mr. Griffith. Who but Griffith would have thought of picturing mental impressions, those half-formed visions that fleet through the mind? Yet, presented with exquisite beauty, that is just the extent of Griffith's daring in the case of "Avenging Conscience."

Among the many wonderful scenes that might have been screened in an actual heaven and hell, is found one of Pan piping in the woods. From the trees come the tiny wood elves, rabbits come from their burrows, a leopard creeps from its lair, fairies and goblins answer the mystic call. Such a scene scarcely any but a Griffith could have impressed on celluloid.

No reservations are made for the performances, which are continuous, running from 11 A. M. until 11 P. M. The picture will be withdrawn Saturday night to make way for the Heilig's next attraction, "Twin Beds."

ONE WINK COSTS MAN $10

Masher Pays for Privilege of Eyeing Young Woman.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 18.—Ten dollars is the going price for a wink in Lynn as established in the Lynn Police Court.

The winker was William Hawkins. The woman was Miss Alice Grady. Miss Grady told the court she was passing through the Central Square when Hawkins looked at her. Then he followed her and on Market street winked at her. Miss Grady called Officer Hensen.

"Ten dollars," said the judge. Hawkins paid.

Rate on the above classifications is 7 cents a line each insertion.

On "charge" advertisements charges will be based on the number of lines appearing in the paper regardless of the number of words in each line. Minimum charge, two lines.

The Oregonian will accept classified advertisements over the telephone, provided the advertiser is a subscriber to either phone. No prices will be quoted over the phone, but bill will be rendered the following day. Whether subsequent advertisements will be accepted over the phone depends upon the promptness of payment of telephone advertisements. Situations Wanted and Personal advertisements will not be accepted over the telephone. Orders for one insertion only will be accepted for "Furniture for Sale," "Business Opportunities," "Rooming-Houses" and "Wanted to Rent." Telephone: Main 7070, A 6095.

Advertisements to receive proper classification must be in The Oregonian office before 9 o'clock at night, except Saturday. Closing hour for The Sunday Oregonian will be 7:30 o'clock Saturday night. The office will be open until 10 o'clock P. M., as usual, and all ads received too late for proper classification will be run under the heading "Too Late to Classify."
