PLAYGROUND IS SPREADING FAST

IN ALL PARTS OF UNITED STATES AND CANADA CITIES ARE TAKING UP THIS MOVE FOR THE CHILDREN

United Press Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—The Playground and Recreation Association of America has just completed its annual stock taking. Blanks to be filled out to give an adequate idea of recreation activities were sent to every community of 5,000 or over in the United States and Canada, and to every city under 5,000 which had indicated to the association that some effort toward public recreation has been made.

Ten hundred and fifty cities responded, and the result is a comprehensive survey of recreation in America today.

Six hundred and forty-two cities report themselves in various stages of activity. Of these, 242 have regular paid play leaders in their playgrounds and recreation centers; 22 have volunteer leaders and 59 have no play leaders.

One hundred and forty-nine school play grounds, often supervised by public school teachers at recess or after school, are reported.

Seventy cities that never before had playgrounds have taken initial steps, through appointing a recreation secretary, forming an association or a commission, securing land on bond issues or requesting appropriations. In addition, thirty-one other cities are working to establish play centers.

HIGH SCHOOL IS BARELY A VICTOR

GAME WITH TOWN TEAM IS WON BY TWO POINTS—SECOND HIGH SCHOOL TEAM IS WALLOPED BY CENTRAL SCHOOL.

In a fast and furious game, where the result was in doubt till the last quarter of minute of play, the high school team administered a third defeat to the Klamath Falls Athletics at Houston's opera house last night.

Endurance and team work on the part of the high school squad just barely overbalanced the weight and experience of the Athletics, giving the younger team a two-point lead out of 48 points made—a defeat so close that no sting remains.

The high school boys played team work throughout, and while Hurn deserves great credit for his playing, it was the faultless support and assistance of the entire team that made his work so scintillating. Both sides had plenty of supporters who "rooted" mightily throughout the game.

As a referee, Perry O. De Lap is in a class by himself, giving his decisions quick and snappy, and staying with them, despite the protests and complaints of the players.

The public school team made a runaway afair of their game with the high school second team, winning in easy fashion, 12 to 4. Graves starred for the public school, smooting baskets from any old position. Haines, for the high school, made all the points on his side, getting a pair of as pretty baskets as were ever made in any country.

Wooden pails are being displaced by steel receptacles, says the American Machinist. For the paint trade alone one plant turns out every year 4,500,000 steel pails to hold white lead.

The earliest use of the word "strike," in the sense of stopping work, occurs in the London Chronicle for September, 1765, in connection with a coal strike.
