

When Did the Singer Stop?

RIGHT here in Oregon City, in the Liberty Theatre last Tuesday night, a large audience found itself unable to tell when the living artist stopped singing and the Re-Creation of his voice was begun by the New Edison. Only by watching his lips closely could the most critical music-lover distinguish which was singing, so perfectly did the phonograph Re-Create the artist's voice!

Harvey Hindermeyer, famous tenor, sang in the Liberty Theatre in direct comparison with the remarkable New Edison. If you were there, you know that there was no difference between the two voices—the song, alternately sung by Mr. Hindermeyer in person and Re-Created at intervals by the New Edison, flowed smoothly along with uniform quality of tone.

Similar tests were made by the celebrated Dann Trio with the same marvelous results.

No other phonograph dares to attempt such a test. Yet this is the only way in which the public can be sure beyond a doubt that there is a phonograph that actually Re-Creates the living voice.

By this drastic test, the New Edison has proved that it can give you the real performance of master-musicians.

The NEW EDISON "The Phonograph With a Soul"

The instrument used in the test at the Liberty Theatre was not a special model. Any Official Laboratory Model in our stock will absolutely meet the same test—it is guaranteed to do so.

Let us play this phonograph for you in further tests. And let us tell you how easy it is to own one, with a very small outlay of cash.

Barytone Sings of New Grocery.

The swaying notes of a jazz tune coming from the sky in a clear barytone voice caused hundreds of shoppers at Eighth avenue and Fifty-second street to gaze upward in wonderment. On the roof of one of the five-story buildings they glimpsed a man holding a megaphone to his mouth. When he had concluded the song the man announced to the world at large the opening of a new grocery and butcher shop on the ground floor of the building on which he stood.—New York Sun.
