Another Draft Test May 22

WASHINGTON (AP) — College students who missed the last two selective service qualification tests will have one more chance to take a quiz that might defer them from military service.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, said Thursday the test will be held May 22 and that it's open to any college student who did not take the Dec. 13 or April 24 quizzes.

Application for taking the test must be postmarked no later than midnight Saturday and Hershey emphasized that interested students had better get their blanks at their draft boards by Friday. Most draft boards are closed Saturday.

Blanks are to be sent to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J.

College students making grades of 70 or higher on the tests or standing in the upper portion of their classes will meet selective service criteria for possible educational deferment by their local draft boards.
