Home Group Gets $6,500

PORTLAND (AP)—The Oregon Centennial Commission Tuesday voted the Portland Home Builders Assn. $6,500 because it called off its annual show in order not to compete with the Centennial Exposition.

The association said it has netted between $10,000 and $12,000 on such a show.

The gift was opposed by two of the five commissioners.

Mrs. Monroe Sweetland of Milwaukie said it "is in the best public interest."

But Jack Lively of Springfield said a space sales contract between the commission and the association has obligations which reduced the $10,000 to $5,000, "even assuming $10,000 is a valid claim."

Lively said any amount more than $5,000 must be considered "a gift" and "I will carry this decision beyond the commission." He did not say where.

Ike Disobeyed By De Gaulle

PARIS (AP)—Gen Charles de Gaulle ordered his Free French forces in World War II to go against the wishes of the supreme Allied commander, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, and quickly occupy a substantial section of Germany.

De Gaulle said in the third and final volume of his memoirs that otherwise France would be left with "only a few shreds" of German territory.

The volume, titled "Le Salut" —The Salvation — was published today in France. It covers the years 1944-46, from the liberation of Paris to De Gaulle's resignation as premier of the provisional government.

De Gaulle said he wrote to Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny on March 29, 1945: "You must cross the Rhine, even if the Americans won't help you and you must use barges. Karlsruhe and Stuttgart are awaiting you, even if they don't want you."

American forces had crossed the Rhine on March 7.

Beginning April 4, some 130,000 French soldiers with 20,000 vehicles started across the Rhine. On the same day Karlsruhe was taken and on April 20 Stuttgart.

$18 Million Received For Building

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sold for $18,150,000!

The auctioneer's final cry echoed in New York real estate circles today. It was the winning bid for real estate tycoon William Zeckendorf for the 71-story 40 Wall St. Building which is the fourth tallest skyscraper in the world.

The skyscraper went on the auction block Tuesday with a required starting bid of 17 million dollars.

Only two prospective buyers stepped forward to deposit $200,000 to enable them to enter the bidding. Zeckendorf, president of Webb & Knapp, Inc., and Sidney R. Nussenfeld, an attorney representing a syndicate of real estate investors, began the bidding briskly with $25,000 jumps.

But at $17,175,000 the offerings began to drop to $1,000 and $5,000 bids and both men cautiously felt their way into the higher brackets.

Zeckendorf began to put the pressure on at $17,850,000 with jumps of $49,000. Nussenfeld kept in the running with $1,000 bids.

At $18,150,000, Nussenfeld said his group would have no other bid and the building was sold to Zeckendorf for that price.

Zeckendorf also owns the 77-story Chrysler Building, second tallest skyscraper in the world. The Empire State Building, which has 102 stories, is the tallest in the world.

"I think we bought a marvelous property and paid a fair price for it," Zeckendorf said, but added that the bid was "higher than I was cheerful about going."

"That was the last $1,000 I would have paid," he said.

The 40 Wall St. Building, constructed in 1929 for twenty four million dollars, is fully rented and brings in an annual rental of about five million dollars.
