LOGAN.

Only four more weeks to serve on that groundhog decree, then presto, spring, hooray! If the county would offer a bounty on his hogship we might exterminate the varmint and all his relatives, then once in a while could hope for an early spring.

Mr. Schuebel, who was to have talked single tax at Logan next Saturday, has called the meeting off indefinitely. Wise idea. Some of these old hayscuds are not as green as they appear. Many of them can recall hearing in their school days a little poem, "Walk into the parlor said the spider to the fly," and this single tax is along that line.

POWER.

Be patient. If you are patient you will have but little competition, because so few persons practice that virtue.

Be self poised. You will have but little rivalry here also, because so many persons get off their balance.

If you have both poise and patience you will have what every one is looking for—

Power.

If you are patient and poised you will be generous and kind to all, to the deserving and wise as well as to the undeserving and foolish.

You cannot be kind and patient to all men unless you are self forgetful, unselfish. If you are self forgetful and generous you will be both patient and kind.

See how the circle goes? Now, there is this about power—it goes to him who can properly use it.

And the greatest power in all the universe is love, and he who is poised and patient and kind will have that tremendous power.

How to get it? Are you to struggle and strain after it, grasp for it? If you do that you will be doing what so many are doing, and you will have competition. And if London's Highest Level. The highest part of the city of London is the middle of Palliser alley, running between Newgate street and Paternoster row. Ben Johnson tells us that in his day this was a stand for tripe-sellers and earlier still for bakers. The exact spot is indicated on the east wall by a stone monument consisting of a boy sitting upon a baker's basket, holding a bunch of grapes. On the pedestal is this inscription: When we have sought the city round, Yet still this is the highest ground. Aug. 25, 1608. Were we to include Greater London then Hempstead Heath would be the spot. It is 424 feet above sea level.—London Standard.

Workhouse Museums. Several of the great London workhouses have remarkable museums attached to them. In a south London union museum can be found a clergyman's letters of ordination the owner died in the house and a peculiar belt made by human teeth and brought from the west coast of Africa. But perhaps the most significant of all the things shown is a small pocket dice box. Upon the box is neatly cut "This box and other wadding cost me £200,000 and brought me to the workhouse."—London Telegraph.
