Farmer Gives Money To Kin Says He Hates Government

GALLATIN, Mo. (AP) — "I've hated the government ever since I was old enough to know anything," says farmer John William Knight.

That's why Knight, a 90-year-old bachelor, is giving his estate to 12 nieces and nephews, four churches and the Salvation Army. So far he says he has passed out $15,000. He still has $45,000 to go.

Knight, who lives on a 160-acre farm near this northwest Missouri town, got the money from the sale of 300 acres of farmland.

"So I knew I had this big lump of money," he explained. "I knew I wasn't going to need it except some to live on and I didn't want to die and leave it in one piece and have taxes get most of it. I never held with lawyers and wills. Decided I'd make sure it goes where I want."

Knight traces his antipathy for tax collectors to his young manhood.

"I was raised in a log house on a ridge about three miles west of here. First farm I bought was the old Blake place. Drove $200 worth of cattle and hogs up there to make the first payment.

"Right off they wanted $45 taxes on the place and it still mortgaged. It don't hardly seem right a man has to pay taxes on a farm he don't even own. So I've hated the government ever since I was old enough to know anything."

Knight said he expects to give away the remainder of his estate next year—"if I live to get the chance."

"All I want left when I die is a clean heart and clear head."

Outside Duties Given Teacher

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The teacher who took a sex survey among his students has been given duties outside the classroom.

Cecil M. Cook, who had his Van Nuys High School students fill out a questionnaire pertaining to their sex life, was cleared last week by the State Board of Education of any implication of immoral conduct. His informal leave from the school system started last June.

School Supt. Ellis A. Jarvis said Cook's duties will be outside the classroom for the present. While on leave he has been a drug salesman.

Lena Refuses To Apologize For Tossing Of Ash Trays

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Negro singer Lena Horne said today she had no intention of apologizing for throwing ash trays, dishes and a hurricane lamp at a man she claims made insulting remarks about her race.

"My anger is directed against something that is wrong, not at something I have to apologize for," she said.

"I really don't like to make scenes like that but sometimes people push you too far."

Miss Horne opened a small cut above the left eye of engineering executive Harvey S. Vincent when one of the conch shell ash trays she hurled hit him Monday night at the Luau restaurant in Beverly Hills. Vincent, 30, vice president of Consultants & Designers Inc., declined to press charges but said he has consulted his attorney about suing Miss Horne.

"I am sorry if he feels that way," said the torch singer. "I could also sue him for defamation of character."

Miss Horne, obviously upset about the incident, spoke about it in quiet tones. Asked what Vincent said that touched off what was for her an unusual demonstration in public, she said:

"He was anti-Negro. That's all I can say."

Vincent said: "I was shocked to note that the statements of Miss Horne, as reflected by the newspaper accounts and the stories, impute to me the role of a heckler and a bigot. I am neither."

He said he wasn't aware of Miss Horne's presence in the restaurant until she was "standing over my table, raging and screaming profanity."

"As far as I am concerned, the attack was entirely unprovoked," he said.

Neither he nor Miss Horne would elaborate on the remarks that started the incident.

But Police Capt. P.R. Smith said investigating officers at the scene reported:

"He (Vincent) said something about not liking niggers, and she asked him to stop. But he said it again and that's when the action started."

The officers at the scene asked Vincent if he had said that, Smith reported, and Vincent replied:

"Well, she is a nigger."

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at drug counters everywhere.

Group Eyes Aid Altering

PORTLAND (AP) — A legislative interim committee says it wants to alter a bit the method of caring for welfare patients in nursing homes in Multnomah County.

The committee, investigating welfare practices, recommended the state provide doctors for the nursing home patients on welfare, and pay for the house calls.

The unanimous vote was made after John Misko of the Oregon Nursing Home Assn. said some nursing homes now pay for the house calls themselves.

The committee also was told that a rehabilitation program is reaping dividends.

Dr. Robert Heilman of the state Board of Health said that under the pilot program at a county convalescent hospital, 79 per cent of persons suffering strokes have been brought back to the point of self care. Prior to the program, he said, only five per cent of the stroke victims were able to make that much progress.

4-H NEWS

FORESTERS CLUB

Bly's 4-H Foresters Club met after school on February 11. The meeting was called to order by Jon Murphy, president. Jack Pruitt, secretary, called the roll. Eight members were present. Our leaders, Earl Fishburn and Harry McCoy, explained to members what they would be doing at our next meetings.

At our next meeting we will be making our plant presses. Jackie O'Neil led the group in songs. Then the meeting was adjourned.

Money Expended For Babe, Bribe Not Deductible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Any money spent for "babes and bribes" at that fancy disc jockeys' convention in Miami last year won't be tax deductible, Internal Revenue Service (IRS) officials said today.

But expenditures for the "booze" part of the entertainment could qualify as a legitimate business expense, they added.

The revenue service does not permit deductions for anything which violates federal, state or local law or public policy. This would cover call girls and bribes, both illegal everywhere in this country.

The "babes, bribes and booze" description of the Miami convention was given by a House investigator who heard of the affair during the current payola hearings.

Testimony before the Legislative Oversight subcommittee has brought out that record manufacturers spent more than $100,000 on the convention, attended by disc jockeys from throughout the country.

Investigators were reported to be digging into rumors that girls were flown to the convention from New York and Chicago.

IRS officials said any deductions claimed for expenses found to involve illegal activities would be thrown out without hesitation.

END OF COALBURNERS

WILHELMSHAVEN, Germany, (UPI) — The last coal-fired warship in the navies of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was decommissioned here Monday.

German naval officers said the minesweeper Seeschlange (Seasnake) built in World War II to burn coal in order to save oil, would be converted into a stationary naval headquarters. They said the ship was the last warship in NATO navies to use coal.
