Pastry Without Butter.

Light, flaky and digestible pie crust and all kinds of fine pastry can be made with Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder without butter or with one half the usual portion, if preferred, or with a small quantity of lard or other shortening as desired. Pie crust made in this way is more wholesome and digestible besides being more economical and easier prepared in addition to saving all the butter if desired. One-third the flour is also dispensed with, and the crust is rolled that much thinner, the raising qualities of Dr. Price's Powder swelling it to the requisite thickness. Those who enjoy the appetizing qualities of the delicious home made pie will rejoice to know this secret.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is the only powder that contains the white of eggs.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is reported by all authorities as free from Ammonia, Alum, or any other adulterant. In fact, the purity of this ideal powder has never been questioned.

WILLING TO ACCOMMODATE.

But Not Until All the Rules of the Office Had Been Complied With.

The sole clerk in that real estate office in an obscure corner of St. Paul street had apparently very little to do yesterday afternoon. The broker was away and not likely to return that evening; so he lighted his cigarette, brought out a copy of The News and sprawling back on a chair in a comfortable fashion, with his heels on the mantelpiece, he proceeded to absorb himself in the reading.

Presently a nervous looking stranger entered in a hurried manner. Leaning over the begrimed counter he inquired:

"Is General Bulhampton about?"

"General Bulhampton?" respended the clerk, without glancing up to see who asked the question.

"Yes," said the stranger.

"General H. L. Bulhampton?" asked the representative.

"Yes, yes!"

"The boss of this office?"

"Yes, yes, yes!"

"You seem a trifle impatient," said the clerk, turning over to another page.

"None of your comments," replied the stranger tartly, with a shade of annoyance deepening on his countenance, "but answer my question. Is General Bulhampton in?"

"General H. L. Bulhampton?"

"See here, you blanked idiot—what do you mean by such conduct?"

"Rule of the office to be exact and explicit, you know."

"Well, I don't care a rap what your rules are. I want to know if General Bulhampton is in."

"The boss of this"——

"If you repeat that again," shouted the now thoroughly enraged stranger, "I'll fracture you in 68,000 pieces and distribute the fragments to the winds."

"Is that so?" and here the clerk carefully folded his paper and removed his feet from the mantelpiece. "Let's see: 'Rule number one—Exactness and explicitness. Rule number two—Be ever obliging to patrons.' Maybe you would like to try."

The stranger jumped up and howled.

"Come from behind that counter, you incarnation of stupidity," he shouted, "till I make you look like a defeated silver bill."

"Suppose I have to accommodate you," mused the clerk thoughtfully, "in consideration of rule number two."

He climbed over the counter.

In less time than it takes to tell it the fun began.

It wasn't that quiet kind of fun either that conduces to the repose of the soul. Even the furniture seemed to take a hand, and flew about in a whirlwind to take refuge in the corner.

Pretty soon things quieted down slightly, and then it was found that the clerk sat astride the prostrate form of the stranger, plying with muscular and machinelike regularity with his physiognomy.

"Got enough?" inquired the clerk.

"Yes," replied the stranger feebly. "I think I have."

"Perfectly sure?" with a show of anxiousness.

"Perfectly."

The clerk arose, passed around the counter and resumed his former position and paper.

"Say," said the stranger meekly as he climbed painfully to his feet and felt of himself to ascertain what was missing, "will you kindly answer one question for me—Is General Bulhampton in?"

"General Bulhampton?"

"Yes."

"General H. L. Bulhampton?"

"Yes."

"The boss of this office?"

"Yes."

"No, he's out. Anything else I can do for you?"

"No."

"Well, good day. Hospital is just around the corner."

"Thanks. Good day."—Baltimore News.

Good School at Home.

To Our Student Friends of Tillamook County, Greeting:—Allow us to persuade you to attend school at home instead of going away from home. We can save you about $100 a year. We are making every effort to furnish the public a good school and at a moderate cost. Within reasonable limits, advanced pupils may select their own studies.

Your questions will be carefully answered. Direct all inquiries to E. K. Barnard, Tillamook, Oregon.

Quick Transportation.

The Steamer Elmore sails from Astoria to Tillamook bay on Monday and Thursday mornings, on arrival of the Union Pacific steamer leaving Portland on Sunday and Wednesday nights at 11:30. Through tickets can be had at U. P. ticket office, 254 Washington St., corner Third. Sails from Tillamook bay Tuesdays and Fridays. Good passenger accommodations and through freight rates, as low as by any other line. This is by all odds the quickest way to get from Tillamook to Portland, and enables our merchants to telegraph for goods and get them here on short notice. No such time has ever before been made between Tillamook and the outside world. tf.
