WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The North Pacific high-pressure area has increased greatly in magnitude, and it is central this evening over the Dakotas. A low-pressure area, apparently of decided character is advancing very slowly inland from the British Columbia coast. Rain has fallen in portions of Texas, in the District of Columbia and in the neighborhood of New York City, while snow has occurred in the Upper Mississippi Valley, Ohio Valley, lake region and New England states. A "norther" prevails in Texas, where in the northern portion of that state a fall in temperature of 50 degrees or more has taken place in the last 24 hours.

Conditions are favorable for fair weather Sunday in Eastern Oregon, Eastern Washington and Idaho, and for increasing cloudiness, probably followed by rain in Western Oregon and Western Washington.

FORECASTS.

Portland and vicinity—Sunday increasing cloudiness, followed by rain; southeasterly winds.

Oregon—Sunday fair east, increasing cloudiness followed by rain west portion; winds mostly southerly.

Washington—Sunday fair east, rain west portion; southerly winds, increasing along the coast.

Idaho—Sunday fair.

EDWARD A. BEALS, Forecaster.
