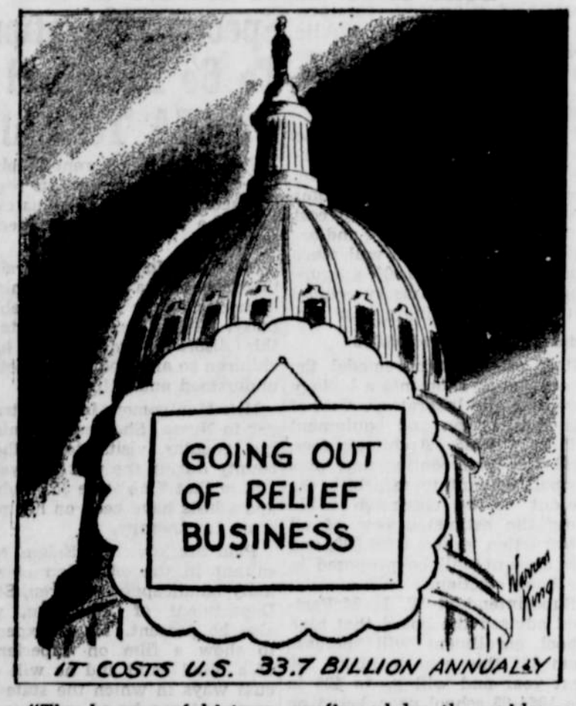
IF DREAMS COULD COME TRUE



"The lessons of history, confirmed by the evidence immediately before me, show exclusively that continued dependence upon relief induces a spiritual and moral disintegration fundamentally destructive of the national fibre.

"To dole out relief in this way is to administer a narcotic, a subtle destroyer of the human spirit. It is in violation of the traditions of America. Work must be found for able bodied but destitute workers. The federal government must and shall quit this business of relief."

You are bound to be surprised when you learn who made the above statement. It was President Franklin D. Roosevelt. But ever since he made it in 1935 the federal government has pursued the opposite course by getting deeper and deeper into the "business of relief." Welfare expenditures today are 10 times what they were in 1935.

During the last 11 years alone, these payments skyrocketed from $4.9 billion annually to $37.3 billion a year. Washington should lose no time in getting the government out of the relief business by restoring welfare responsibilities to states and communities.
