FARM NEWS AND NOTES.

Oregon wants more home cheese makers.

Western Oregon farmers remember your heavy clay loads can stand any amount of manure.

Farmers, don't engage in the sin of this age—talking about what ought to be done instead of doing it.

Whenever farmers begin to talk diversification and act as it matters not in what line they start they invariably rally around the dairy and poultry business.

Whidby Island ranchers in Puget Sound are shipping several hundred tons of potatoes to British Columbia. Most of them are purchased there by ranchers for seed.

Are you planting those fruit trees and trimming up what you have; cultivate only lightly close to the trees; prune off the soft, sappy growth; then you may expect fruit.

The Rock Island contributes $30,000 and free transportation for seed to Nebraska and Kansas farmers, the first of the railroads to contribute liberally.—Minneapolis Journal.

Farmers, you can save money by taking THE ONE CENT DAILY or THE ONE DOLLAR WEEKLY. Both papers defend the farmer's interests and advocates reasonable practical reforms in government.

The San Jose scale insect has been found as far east as Ohio, and it is claimed that it had already put in an appearance in some of the New Jersey nurseries last year, but which may be a mistake. It attacks peach, apple, pear, cherry and plum trees, and also rose bushes. The kerosene emulsion is used as a remedy.

The Ellensburg Capital urges the raising of more winter apples, as this fruit keeps well and commands from 75 cents to $1 a box, a tree averaging 10 boxes, so that an orchard of from five to twenty-five acres should yield a big income. February and March are good months for setting out fruit trees in Eastern Washington.

The crop report of the department of agriculture for March consists principally of estimates of the distribution of corn and wheat. The stocks remaining in the hands of farmers and the proportion merchantable and unmerchantable. The report is based on county estimates of the per centage of last year's product remaining in first hands, obvious errors and inconsistencies in statement being corrected and difference harmonized. All grain in the hands of farmers, including amounts remaining over from previous years, is embraced in the estimate given. The corn on hand as estimated aggregates, 475,564,450 bushels, or 39.2 per cent of the last crop, and is 39,000,000 less than last March. The explanation for this in a large measure, is to be found in the fact that large quantities have been fed to hogs and other stock. Returns from North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas indicate unprecedented exhaustion of last year's crops. Correspondents in many counties report not enough for spring seeding and the necessary food supply.

MORE ABOUT POTATO CULTURE.

Seed: Good seed is an important factor in potato growing, for without good, sound seed to commence with it is useless to expect a good crop of potatoes. There has been much discussion as to the size of seed, and number of eyes that should be used on each piece, or potato. This is the hard problem to solve and one that I have given much thought. From my long experience in this matter I feel warranted in stating that no man will ever be able to give any definite rule that will hold good for all soils and varieties; or will ever be able to say whether, in all cases, it is best to plant large or small pieces of potatoes, or how many sprouts it is desirable to have to a hill. The number of sprouts to the hill will depend on the distance apart of the hills and the growing habits of the variety. The grower must know his land, the variety he uses, and how the seed has been kept, and judge from these facts before him as to how many eyes to leave to the piece.

There is no experiment station that can help us out on these questions. My rule in this matter is to select from the medium to the large sized potatoes and to cut pieces to have two or three eyes on large sized pieces. In cutting there must be substance enough left on the pieces must be large enough to contain food to support the bud or eye until it gets a start. Nature has provided this substance for the young bud to feed on until it is able to take care of itself, and if it is deprived of this food we have to suffer the consequence in a diminished crop. I know that there are many who still contend that it is just as well to use the small potatoes for seed as the large ones, but I want to say here that I have made many attempts to grow a crop of potatoes from small seed or cuttings, and every effort of this kind has been a failure in some respect. Most generally a failure to get a stand, or a light crop, or a crop of inferior potatoes.

One or all of these failures have been the result of such efforts. The fact that some one has, under favorable conditions, been able to grow a good crop of potatoes from small seed does not argue that this plan is a good and safe one by any means. We have certain fixed laws in both animal and vegetable kingdoms, and the laws are very similar in their action. So there is just as much good reason for a farmer to select the smallest scrub chicken or pig on the farm, to breed from, as to select the small potatoes. Who ever saw a farmer selecting the small nubbins out of his corn for seed? Yet there is just as good reason in that as in the selection of small potatoes for seed.—[Professor Budd, in Iowa State Register.]

Rich Red Blood

In the body of an adult person there are about 18 pounds of blood.

The blood has in its most important elements, small round corpuscles, red and white, in proportion of about 200 red to 1 white one.

If the number of red corpuscles becomes diminished and the white ones increased the blood is impure, thin, lacking in the nutrition necessary to sustain the health and nerve strength of the body.

Then That Tired Feeling, Nervousness, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, or others of the long train of ills, according to the temperament and disposition, attack the victim.

The only permanent remedy is found in a reliable blood medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts upon the red corpuscles, enriching them and increasing their number. It thus restores the vital fluid to healthy condition, expels all impurity, cures Nervousness, That Tired Feeling, Scrofula and all other disease arising from or promoted by low state of the blood.

That these statements are true we prove not by our own statements, but by what thousands of perfectly reliable people say about Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read the testimonial in the next column from a beloved clergyman. Then take

"In view of the benefit I have had from Hood's Sarsaparilla I wish to give the following testimonial. I have several times been badly

Poisoned With Creeping Ivy.

As the old school of medicine simply tried to remove the symptoms instead of the sources of them, much of the poison was left in my system to appear in an itching humor on my body with every violent exertion in warm weather. At all times there were more or less indications of poison in my blood, up to a year ago last winter, when

Large Sores Broke Out on my body. I then purchased a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after using that and a half of another bottle, the sores and humor disappeared. I attended the Christian Endeavor Convention in Montreal and also visited the World's Fair in the hottest weather of the summer. Was on the go all the time, but of the burning and itching sensation which had marred every previous summer's outing. I have reason, therefore, to be enthusiastic in my praises of Hood's Sarsaparilla." SAMUEL S. SCHNELL, pastor of Free Baptist Church, Apalachin, N. Y.

Had No Recurrence

Rules For Stout Women.

Firstly.—Avoid fats, bringing materials. Leave heavy stuffs and fluffy stuffs to the slim.

Secondly.—Don't line your skirts. Crinoline is for the willows.

Thirdly—Don't put balloons on your arms. Full drooping sleeves expose you to less ridicule and are just as fashionable.

Fourthly.—Don't tighten the waist. It makes you look stouter. Moreover, it gives you tremendous hips and a big bust, and these this winter are out of fashion.

Fifthly.—Don't wear a velvet bodice. It increases the apparent size.

Sixthly.—Try satin. It lessens the size.

Seventhly.—Wear dark colors.

Eighthly and Lastly (for long sermons have gone out).—Try always for up and down lines. Eschew cross effects.

An Indian Schoolteacher.

Miss Lucinda Gore of Lackharabad was standing in her schoolhouse one day when, turning around, she saw in the open doorway the glaring eyes of a tiger. She did not scream or faint, but seized a broom and drove it full in the tiger's face, brush foremost. Some of the bristles entered the tiger's eyes, and with a howl of pain he drew back to make a spring at her. Then she slammed the door in his face. The supports of the door were but slender and would not resist the tiger's attacks long, but while he banged his head against it she lowered one of her boys through the window to alarm the neighbors. Assistance soon arrived, and the tiger was shot.—Times of India.

Lady Charlotte Screiber.

Lady Charlotte Screiber, just now dead in London at the age of 82, was an indefatigable but most discriminating collector. Her valuable collection of English porcelain she gave in life to the South Kensington museum, and her collection of English fans was bestowed on the British museum. Besides these splendid displays she possessed a superb collection of foreign fans and an exhaustive and interesting showing of playing cards of all nations.

Merit Won.

The American Board Journal publishes the portraits of a considerable number of state school superintendents who have lately been elected. In North Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming these high officials are ladies, and we add with satisfaction that there is not a single pretty one among them. They all owe their places to their educational merits and not to personal beauty or any flirtatious abilities.—New York Sun.

South Carolina Women.

The South Carolina Equal Rights association has elected as president Mrs. Virginia D. Young, Fairfax; vice president at large, Mrs. Viola Noblett, Greenville; secretary, Mrs. Marion Morgan, Buckner; treasurer, Mrs. Georgia Bailey, Greenville; press reporter, Miss Mary Hemphill, Abbeyville. General Hemphill's paper, the Abbeyville Medium, was made the organ of the state society.

Pretty Good Guess.

The New Orleans Picayune says that a teacher, in explaining to her pupils the difference between civilized and uncivilized races, insisted upon three things as requisite for civilization—food, clothing and shelter.

The next day she brought the subject up again by way of review.

"What are the three things necessary to a civilized man?" she asked.

Several of the children remembered food and clothing, but the third requisite seemed to have escaped their recollection entirely. Finally, after the question had been repeated two or three times, one little fellow lifted his hand and said:

"A wife."

Whether the teacher sent him to the head of the class we are not informed.

Women Win In South Australia.

Word has come from the president of the W. C. T. U., Mrs. Nichols of Prospect, that in Adelaide, South Australia, adult suffrage has been carried, giving the women a right to vote on the same terms as men and with no barrier to assist to parliament. The bill now only awaits the queen's signature.

Mrs. Nichols says: "It is a grand victory for a hard and well fought battle of seven years."

A NEW DEAL

NEWSPAPER.

Prospectus of the Salem Capital Journal.

The One Cent Daily and the $1 Weekly.

Strongly and Aggressively on the Side of the People.

This is Not the Goldbug Organ From Goldbugville.

A Program of Earnest Reforms on Great Public Questions.

THE JOURNAL is a Republican paper, but it independently advocates the interests of the people at all times. It places the public welfare above party interests, and believes thereby it serves its party and the people best.

A LEADER IN THE FIGHT.

For two years THE JOURNAL has led in the fight for a new deal. THE JOURNAL has been a leader in the fight against ring policies and the corrupt methods of the old machine. It is a recognized champion of the people's interests on the Pacific Northwest. It fights its battles consistently within practical limits, and wastes no time or space on impracticable theories. It is not pessimistic, but firmly believes in the capacity of the people for self-government when acting intelligently and fully aroused to the necessity of so doing.

NOT A GOLDBUG FROM GOLDBUGVILLE.

A young lawyer in the legislature, who is still voting for Dolph, boasts that he is a "Goldbug from Goldbugville." He must be strangely ignorant of the temper of the people of Oregon, who have very little use for a Goldbug of any kind. But his remark is evidence of considerable courage of an insane kind, because the man does not live who can go before the American people anywhere, declaring that he is opposed to any kind of money other than gold for purposes of ultimate redemption of debts, and receive an endorsement.

FOR FINANCIAL REFORM.

THE JOURNAL advocates a national monetary system, uncontrolled by corporations:

"One Country, One Flag, One Money" should be
The watchword of this, the land of the free.
One money that's good for the rich and the poor,
One standard of worth, no matter its name,
Be it gold, silver or paper, 'twill ever endure
If stamped by the nation and backed by its fame!
One money for all men! Let that be the best,
Be it paper, or silver, or copper or gold;
For the northland, the southland, the east and the west
It should by the people held and controlled.

THE JOURNAL is not a bourbon organ of the Wall street stripe, nor a partisan paper for bankers only. It does not believe in gold alone as the only means of ultimate redemption. We need gold and silver coined on equal terms and abundant national paper currency. Our country must pay all its obligations according to the terms of its contracts, but no more public obligations must be created payable in gold only.

In addition to all the gold possible in circulation, silver must be restored to its rightful place as primary metal currency where it had stood for over eighty years before it was fraudulently demonetized in 1873. It was the regret of the Patriot President Grant's life that he allowed that bill to become a law, and it is the duty of all patriots to labor to repeal that law at the earliest moment. Our country should not wait for an international bimetallic conference with England, Germany or any other country controlled by the Rothchilds, but we should remonetize silver at once as legal tender money.

THE CRIME OF 1873

in surreptitiously repealing free coinage 16 to 1 is only surpassed, in its depressing and devastating effects upon the producer, by the plutocratic policy of the present administration which insists on contracting the currency by retiring with gold bonds over 800,000,000 of paper money, redeemable in gold or silver, at the option of the government. The policy of President Cleveland in borrowing gold of England to redeem silver certificates, which by law are specifically redeemable in silver only, caps the climax of the financial conspiracy that is oppressing the masses so that ventably they are making bricks without straw.
