A HAPPY COUPLE

'Squire Moore and his Estimable Wife Interest a Reporter.

They Speak of their Past Life, Their Trials and Hardships, and how Sickness once Entered their Home, and for a While it Looked as if it Would Prove Fatal—It was Averted, However, and they Dwell on the Means with Much Enthusiasm.

From the Tribune, Greely, Colorado.

As a Tribune representative was strolling about town the other day, looking up items of news, he dropped into Fezer's drug store. This, that and other medicines were talked of and their curative qualities analyzed, so far as lay in their power. The curative powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were talked of, when Mr. Falkner, a clerk in the store, mentioned that Mrs. Joseph Moore was a firm believer in their efficacy. Pursuing his quest, the Tribune man paid Mrs. Moore a visit the next day.

Among the many good people residing in Greeley, Colorado, 'Squire Moore and his amiable wife are the best known and the most respected. The 'Squire is carrying his seventy-six years as sturdily as many men who have not yet rounded their sixtieth mile post, and his wife, Ann, is a fitting companion, one of those pleasant faced, agreeable ladies, who make you feel perfectly at home when in their company. This happy couple were born in the same neighborhood, of the West Riding, of York, England, in 1820; the husband a few weeks his wife's senior and for over fifty years they have travelled the pathway of life together. In 1848 they emigrated to this country and settled in Derby, Conn., where they resided for a number of years. While there Mr. Moore, who was highly respected by his neighbors, was elected a member of the State Legislature in 1867.

During his residence in the United States he has been a constant reader of the New York Tribune, and was an ardent admirer of its founder and great editor, Horace Greeley, and a firm believer in that notable writer's opinions. Through those mediums he was influenced to come to Greeley in the early spring of 1871, and here he has resided ever since. During his residence in this beautiful section of northern Colorado, he has held many responsible public positions, notably that of Justice of the Peace, an office which he occupied uninterruptedly for eight years; and four years ago was re-elected to another term, his name being placed in nomination at the convention without his knowledge.

The newsgatherer was received cordially and in response to his inquiries, Mrs. Moore stated that her health commenced failing several years ago but like a great many women, she scarcely knew the meaning of the same sickness in relation to herself. She refused medical attendance or treatment of any kind, barring that which she drew upon from the family pharmacopœia or dispensary. Using Mrs. Moore's language: "For four years I was miserable, hardly a week passed during that time but what I suffered from extreme lassitude. The least exertion fatigued me. At times when I would be sewing or reading, I would be troubled with tingling sensations, like the pricking of pins in hands, feet, arms and legs. Occasionally I would suffer from profuse perspiration, the water fairly running from my face and hands. Then for days it would seem impossible for me to enjoy a minute of warmth. I would sit in a rocking chair alongside a roaring fire in the stove wrapped up in blankets, yet while my face would be scorched, the rest of my body would be chilled.

"Finally, despite my opposition, my husband called in a physician, who attributed my ailment to rheumatism and prescribed for that complaint. A day or two after he changed his opinion, saying I was attacked with la grippe; also changed his medicine, but to no purpose. I was going from bad to worse. The tingling sensations were resumed. At times I would be incapable of doing anything with my hands and my husband was fearful that I was suffering from partial paralysis.

"One evening, while reading the New York Tribune, he read to me a statement of a wonderful cure perfected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He and I had at times read similiar testimonials describing the great powers and virtue of these pills but had passed them over, doubting the truth of the statements. My husband's expression quackery indicating my opinion of them. But this night in particular, I was impressed with what he read and told him it wouldn't do any harm to try a box. The next morning he purchased a box of the Pink Pills and I commenced taking them according to directions, three times a day. Within a week I felt better, and when I had finished that box I asked my husband to get me another and he laughingly complied, saying, 'conceit is as bad as consumption, but even if you think they are doing you some good there is a great relief experienced.' After that he purchased for me about a dozen more boxes, and for nearly two years I continued taking them. The result was I regained my strength, the tingling in arms and legs, hands and feet ceased and the frequent sweats which I had been subject to left me. In all truth, I am forced to state that the Pink Pills made a new woman of me. That is," she laughingly remarked, "as new as you can make a woman who is now in her seventy-sixth year." And in truth, Mrs. Moore's closing remarks are well founded, for she is as hale and healthy looking as any woman could be who has lived her great age.

(Signed) ANN MOORE.

Subscribed and sworn to before me a Notary Public, this 23rd day of May, 1896.

My commission expires May 14th 1900.

MILTON A. LYONS, Notary Public.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were successfully used in general practice for many years before being offered to the public generally. They contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature.

They are not a patent medicine in the sense that name implies, but were first compounded as a prescription, and used as such in general practice by an eminent physician. So great was their efficacy that it was deemed wise to place them within the reach of all. They are now manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

A MAN OF PRINCIPLE.

Hon. C. M. Donaldson Is for the People.

A LIFELONG REPUBLICAN

Gives His Reasons Why He Cannot Support McKinley.

BAKER CITY, Oregon, October 26.—Since the National Republican convention was held in St. Louis, I have frequently been asked for my views upon the national issue.

As my health will not permit me to take an active part in the campaign now drawing to a close and as I have made it the rule of my political action not to occupy a doubtful position, a position that could in any way be misunderstood or misconstrued, and having deep and earnest conviction upon pending issues. I deem it but just to myself and due to my friends to frankly state thus publicly my position.

For thirty two years I have been an active, earnest, loyal Republican; I have worked for the Republican party and its candidates from the primaries to the national convention. No man living has been truer and more loyal to the party. I have followed the financial teachings of the great leader of the party in the nation, Lincoln, Blaine, Garfield, Logan, Allison and McKinley, to say nothing of Col. Robert G. Ingersol and Hon. Ben Butterworth, as well as trusted leaders in this state.

I was a delegate to the Republican national convention in 1888. Major McKinley was chairman of the committee on resolutions, and he reported the following financial plank:

"The Republican party is in favor of the use of both gold and silver as money and condemns the policy of the Democratic administrasion in its effort to demonetize silver."

I was also a delegate to the Republican national convention in 1892,

The financial plank unanimously adopted by the convention declares:

"The American people from tradition and interest favor bimetallism, and the Republican party demand the use of both gold and silver as standard money."

This clearly does not mean a single gold standard. The Republican state convention held in Portland, April 16, 1890, to which I was a delegate, adopted the following financial plank:

"That, recognizing the fact that the United States is the greatest silver producing country in the world, and that both gold and silver were equally the money of the constitution from the beginning of the republic until the hostile legislation against silver, which unduly contracted the circulating medium of the country, and, recognizing that the great interest of the people demand more money for use in the channels of trade and commerce, therefore, we declare ourselves in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and denounce any attempt to discriminate against silver as unwise and unjust."

Upon this platform the Republican party carried the state and re-elected Mitchell to the senate and Hermann to the house.

It is as true now, as in 1890, that we need more money for use in the channels of trade and commerce. Every man seeking a day's work, every one engaged in any line of production, every one engaged in trade or commerce, realize to the fullest extent the truth of this declaration.

Hon. C. M. Donaldson quotes Blaine, Carlisle, Garfield, Webster, and others on bimetallism, which have been printed in these columns.

For many years I have been an earnest, sincere believer in and advocate of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. It has seemed to me that I was in company with the best thought of my party, acting for and advocating the best interest of the whole people. I have on all proper occasions expressed firmly my belief upon this great question.

Two and a half years ago, when I was seeking the congressional nomination at the hands of the Republicans, I stated in every portion of this congressional district that I believed that the financial question was the great question before the people of the United States and would be the living, pressing and paramount issue in the present presidential campaign. Such, I believe, it is conceded to be by the press and people generally throughout the country.

Already it has sundered and revolutionized the two great leading parties of the country. It is today a momentous question, the most important that has come before the people of this country since 1860.

Twelve months ago not one in a thousand believed there was the slightest chance for the Democratic party to win this campaign. The declaration for a single gold standard in the St. Louis platform has wholly changed the situation, and today the most exciting and interesting campaign is in progress that the country has ever witnessed since Lincoln's first campaign, and the result of this mighty effort can, I think, fairly be held in doubt. That declaration in favor of a single gold standard has transferred the states of the great west, that have generally been loyally Republican, too, at least to the doubtful column, if not certainly to the party favoring the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

Believing as I most sincerely do, that there can be no permanent return of prosperity to the country until we have remonetized silver and that a single gold standard will be ruinous to the people, I cannot and will not be a party to fixing upon the people of this nation a single gold standard, being a friend of silver I can not play Brutus to Caesar, and in the hour of its peril stab silver to its death. I have been slow to give public expression to my views in the hope that McKinley might take such position as to allow those honestly opposed to a gold standard to vote for him, but as the campaign progresses it becomes more and more certain that he is, or circumstances by which he is surrounded, makes him a pronounced advocate of a single gold standard.

Therefore considering all the conditions of the campaign I am impelled by my conscience and an overwhelming sense of duty, to cast my vote on election day for the friends and advocates of free and unlimited coinage of silver—Bryan and Watson.

Very Respectfully,

C. M. DONALDSON.

Bryan and Free Silver Ralley.

Study the ticket, and take a MARKED sample ballot with you when you go to vote.

You can carry the little vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets right in the vest-pocket of your dress suit, and it will not make even a little lump. The "Pellets" are so small that 42 to 44 of them go in a vial scarcely more than an inch long, and as big round as a lead pencil.

They cure constipation.

One "Pellet" is a laxative; two a mild cathartic. One taken after dinner will stimulate digestive action and palliate the effects of over-eating. They act with gentle efficiency on stomach, liver and bowels. They don't do the work themselves. They simply stimulate the natural action of the organs themselves. That is where they differ from all other pills. That is what makes them better than all other pills. You don't become a slave to their use as with other pills, because their help lasts. Once used, they are always in favor.

CAUTION.—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—it's an easy name to remember. Don't let a designing druggist talk you into "something just as good." He makes more money on the "just as good" kind. That's why he would rather sell them. That's why you had better not take them.

For a free sample (4 to 7 doses) of "Pleasant Pellets," address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.
