luck," said the man who has had his nose to the grindstone all his life.

"Now, there was Jack Shape of Tennessee, who drew $25,000 in a lottery. Jack didn't know enough to go in out of the wet, but he had a little money, and he bought a ticket that won, while I got ten and didn't fetch a cent. The winning number was 42, and when I saw Jack I asked him how he happened to take that number. 'Well,' he said, 'you see, it was this way: I had a dream one night, and I dreamed that the door of my room opened all of a sudden and a big number seven walked in. Then right after it came other sevens and more and more till the room was chuck full and I was about smothered under them. Then I woke up and began thinking it over. I knowed that one seven wasn't the number to draw, nor 77 nor 7,777, for there was a million of them, and no lottery had that many numbers. But I figured awhile and at last made up my mind that seven times seven was 42, and 42 was the number, so I drawed that one.' That was all there was to it.'

"Now," concluded the talker, "if that isn't a case of a fool for luck what the dickens is it?"—Washington Star.

Savage Crabs.

The most savage specimen of the crab species is found in Japan, seeming to dream of nothing but fighting—to delight in nothing half so much. The minute he spies another of his kind he scrapes his claws together in rage, challenging him to the combat. Not a moment is wasted in preliminaries, but at it they go, hammer and tongs. It sounds like two rocks grinding against one another as their claws rattle against the hard shell. The sand flies as the warriors push each other hither and thither until at last one of them stretches himself out in the sun, tired to death.

But he does not beg for mercy or attempt to run away, only feebly rubbing his claws together in defiance of the foe. That foe comes closer, and, with his claws trembling with joy at his victory, the conqueror catches hold of one claw of the vanquished crab, twists it until it comes off, and bears away the palpitating limb as a trophy of his prowess. Such is a battle between warrior crabs.

SOME TESTED RECIPES

Nuts and Cheese as Food

Tourists and American residents in foreign countries have long urged the value of nuts as a food in this country, but until recent years in vain, except as an after-dinner luxury. It has now been decided that their free use is healthful rather than harmful, therefore they are fast growing in favor.

In France, where chesnuts are grown in enormous quantities and reach great perfection, they are the luxury of the rich and the reliance of the poor man. Steamed or boiled, well salted and eaten with milk the best medical authorities claim that they are wholesome, nutritious and fattening. Walnuts are also used as food, but are more expensive because not as abundant in crop. In Italy chesnuts enter into the peasant diet, sometimes roasted, boiled or eaten raw as the taste inclines. Almonds, filberts and hazelnuts are eaten in the milk, in other words while yet unripe in France, Italy and other foreign countries to which they are indigenous. The expressed oils of the different nuts are rapidly taking the place of animal fats for culinary purposes and the raising of them is becoming an industry in this country. The wonderful size of the Pennsylvania chesnuts on the market the present season attests to the favorableness of the soil and climate for their cultivation as a successful and profitable crop.

Another market surprise are "fresh figs from Rhode Island." It seems passing strange that from New England should come this fruit conceded to be superior in quality to the imported or that raised in California. Naturally these Eastern figs command a high price because scarce, their culture is already looked to as a promising industry of the future.

Cheese, in the past condemned as "rich and indigestible," is another article of food now strongly recommended as beneficial. It is also claimed that all the foreign varieties of cheese except Roquefort are already successful products of the American dairy. The largest cheese factory in this country is near the town of Antwerp in the State of New York.

Good Manners.

As the story goes, a young girl through the "Inquiry" column of one of the leading daily papers recently requested Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox to recommend some reliable book as a guide to good manners. Her reply was undoubtedly a surprise to the questioner, but is a sermon in itself by which the world of women may profit if they will. According to Mrs. Wilcox "the best book on etiquette is a good, unselfish heart; necessarily good, because goodness is the very foundation of good manners; unselfish because selfishness is invariably bad form and will crop out unless thoroughly uprooted." Many fine points of good breeding were introduced in the title discourse that followed, all of them indicating that ignoring of self that sweet gracious thoughtfulness for others to which "the good unselfish heart" ever inclines. As if to impress more deeply the gentle, forcible lesson Mrs. Wilcox adds,

"The highest culture speaks no ill.
The best reformer is the man whose eyes
Are quick to see all beauty and all worth,
And by his own discreet well-ordered life
Alone reproves the erring,
When thy gaze
Turns on thine own self, be most severe;
But when it falls on fellow-man,
Let kindliness control it, and refrain
From the belittling censure which springs forth
From common lips like weeds from marshy soil."

Cream of Carrot Soup.

Scrape four large carrots and grate them; add one pint of boiling water and one small onion sliced, and simmer for half an hour, then press through a sieve. In a meantime scald one pint of milk and thicken with one tablespoonful of butter and two tablespoonfuls of flour rubbed together to a paste. Add the pulped carrot, season with salt and pepper to taste, and simmer for five minutes.

Stuffed Beef Heart.

Thoroughly wash the heart and cut out the tough central muscles. Cover it with vinegar and water in equal parts, add one teaspoonful of salt and six cloves and let stand for three or four days. Wash in clear water, wipe dry and stuff with seasoned bread stuffing. Heat two tablespoonfuls of drippings, lay in the heart and turn until nicely brown on all sides. Pour in about two inches of boiling water, cover and simmer gently until the heart is tender. Thicken the gravy, season to taste, simmer for five minutes and serve with the heart.

Cream Pie.

Cover two deep pie-plates with a rich paste, prick here and there and bake in a rather hot oven. Scald one pint of milk. Mix together one-third of a cupful of sifted flour, one scant cupful of sugar and a pinch of salt, add two well-beaten eggs, stir until smoothly mixed, add gradually the scalded milk, return to the double boiler and cook for fifteen minutes, stirring constantly until thickened. Set aside for ten minutes, add one teaspoonful of vanilla and fill the prepared crusts. When cold, grate thickly with powdered sugar.

Rice Croquettes.

Wash one-half cup rice and add to a quart of boiling water. Cook in double boiler until rice has absorbed all the water; then add one cup scalded milk, and cook until rice is soft. Remove from the fire, add the yolks of two eggs, one-half tablespoon of butter, one tablespoonful powdered sugar, and a few gratings from the rind of a lemon. Spread on a plate to cool. Cut in squares, dip in CHYLE, roll in egg, again in crumbs and fry in deep fat, and drain on brown paper. Serve on each a dab of currant jelly.

Raisin-Raisin Cake.

Dissolve half a square of compressed yeast in one large cup of milk, add to

A Mother's Duty
is to see to it that her children begin early in life to shampoo their heads regularly once a week. In each instance, after the hair is thoroughly dry, some mild, health-giving tonic should be applied to the scalp, to aid nature in creating the best possible growth of uniformly colored, lustrous, healthy hair—the most important feature in the make-up of beautiful women and handsome men. For more than fifteen years, the

in one pound of flour; let rise; when light beat together eight ounces each of butter and sugar, yoke of four eggs, one cup of stoned raisins, some citron cut fine, and the grated peel of one lemon; stir this into the dough, beating it very light (it is best to use the hand,) let rise again in a round cake pan and bake in an even but moderate oven.

Codfish With Cream.

Pick out carefully in flakes all the flesh from the remnants of some cold boiled codfish; melt a piece of butter in a saucepan, and add to it a large pinch of flour and a gill of milk or cream, with pepper, salt and grated nutmeg to taste, also the least bit of cayenne; stir well put in the fish, and gently heat it in this sauce until quite warm. If it seems too thick or dry, add a little milk or cream; then add, off the fire, the yolks of two eggs, beaten up with a little milk and serve.

Simple Custard.

Put eight crackers in a deep dish, pour enough warm water or milk over them to just cover them, and when soaked (about ten minutes) sprinkle with sugar, cover with cream, garnish with preserved peaches, pears or quinces and serve.

The Ordinary Sleeper--A New Feature in Western Travel.
The Pullman Company now operates two grades of sleeping cars via the Rio GRANDE WESTERN RAILWAY. The ordinary sleepers are entirely new, and the berths, both upper and lower, are fitted up complete with mattresses, blankets, sheets, pillows, curtains, etc., with stoves arranged for making tea, coffee, etc., requiring nothing to be furnished by passengers. Uniformed pullman porters are in charge of the cars, who are required to keep them in good order and attend to the wants and comforts of passengers. The cars are very handsome and commodious, and while not so elegant, are just as comfortable as standard or palace sleepers. Both first and second-class passengers are permitted to occupy these cars on payment of the Pullman berth rates, which are less than half of the rates charged in the regular palace sleeping cars.
The ordinary sleepers are carried daily on trains via RIO GRANDE WESTERN RAILWAY between Denver and San Francisco and Portland. On five days in each week the sleepers are run through between Los Angeles and San Francisco, or Portland and Denver, Omaha, Chicago and Boston.

Salt Lake City—An Important Factor in Transcontinental Travel.

No one crossing the continent can afford to cut Salt Lake City from his route. The attractions of the place, including the Mormon Temple, Tabernacle and Church institutions, the Great Salt Lake—larger and denser than the Dead Sea in the Holy Land—the picturesque environments and the Warm Sulphur and Hot Springs, are greater in the square yard than any locality on the American continent.

The RIO GRANDE WESTERN RAILWAY, connecting on the East with the Denver & Rio Grande and Colorado Midland Railways and on the West with the Southern Pacific (Central Route) and Oregon Short Line, is the only transcontinental line passing directly through Salt Lake City. The route through Salt Lake City via the RIO GRANDE WESTERN RAILWAY is famous all the year round.
