Scholls notes: Work has commenced on the new Odd Fellow's Hall—F. H. Bower and son have commenced work on some buildings for R. E. Brooks.—Miss Lulu Foster is in Portland.—The boys are taking advantage of the open season, and the birds are fine, but not plentiful—John Shearer, of Mountaindale, visited this week with his sister, Mrs. O. H. Marrs.—The Misses Mary and Minnie Bower commenced their study at St. Mary's, near Beaverton, this week.—The new milk route by the Oregon Milk Company, Mr. Carter driver, started October 1.—O. H Marrs has moved his family back to the old Collier place.—J. D Wilson's mother is visiting here.

S. B Huston delivered an address before the Forest Grove Grange, last Saturday, and described the points of interest of his recent eastern trip, and also gave an outline of the big Fair, and its value to the country. Mr. Huston also touched upon the negro problem of the South, and gave his audience an idea of the terrible fear that haunt the bosoms of white men with families residing in the black belt The discourse was a revelation to those who have severely censured the Southern people for their treatment of the negro question.

Don't forget to ask for coupons to vote for the World's Fair contest. Remember that the lucky person will get a return ticket to St. Louis and $100 expense money, and, provided the winner does not desire to make the trip she will have a cash premium of $167 50 The firms giving out these coupons are: Patterson & Son, John Dennis, Bailey's Pharmacy, Hillsboro Argus, R H. Greer, Mrs. Vrooman, Jerome Palmateer, F. R. Dailey and the Second Street Harness Shop.

Schulmerich Bros. offer to plank Main street between their store and the court yard if the county will stand their half of the expense.

White Plymouth Rock and Buff Leghorn cockerels for breeding purposes, for sale by Mrs. W. A. Finney, Hillsboro.

Lewis Creps was down from Banks, today, and sent The Argus east to two of his friends for a year. Thanks.

H. H. Clark was down from Forest Grove yesterday, on business with the county court.

The city council is going to ditch Second street again, and bids are called for in the legal column.

J. E. Adkins Jr. and Miss Myrtle Taylor, of this city, will be married Sunday.

Dr. J. E. Adkins has gone to Eastern Oregon for a few weeks.
