MURDERER JOHNSON TRIES TO KILL GUARD

Instead He Is Badly Beaten With His Own Weapon

HAS BEEN MOROSE OF LATE

Made no Effort to Escape While in Hillsboro Jail

Walter Johnson, the convicted murderer of Elmer Perdue, who is confined in the penitentiary at Salem, awaiting execution, yesterday assaulted M. C. Gage, a guard, in his cell with a poker. Gage was relieving the death watch, and grappled with the murderer, and wrested the weapon from him. He then gave Johnson a severe beating with the poker, and subdued him. Johnson seemed suddenly to fly into a fit of passion, and the guard, would no doubt have been killed, but for his prompt action. C. Y. Timmons, another murderer, from Salem, was in the cell with Johnson, but took no hand in the fight. Johnson is said to be morose, and has given the authorities considerable trouble, since he was sent up there. That Johnson made no attempt to break out from the Hillsboro jail, is thought to be due to a delusion he seemed to entertain that the Governor would for some reason, commute his sentence to life imprisonment. While here he was treated with kindness, but both Sheriff Hancock and Deputy Downs watched him carefully, and left no chance for him to escape. While incarcerated here, Johnson seemed to be in good spirits, so far as appearances went, and frequently expressed the belief that he would not hang even after his sentence by Judge McBride Johnson will pay the penalty for the murder of Perdue, on the 5th of next month.
