Anent the proposition of H. V. Gates to lease the city light and water plant for a term of years, we believe that the real sentiment of the people is to sell the plant, and apply the proceeds on the city's indebtedness. The matter, however, is up to the council, and as they have the power, the responsibility will rest upon them.

Henry Carstens, of near Roy, was in the city yesterday, attending county court.

Mrs Ballard, of Seattle, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Jas. A Imbrie.

The good roads meeting of the county supervisors will occur at the court house, next Saturday. A good attendance is looked for.

Wm Mahler and Chas. Krahmer, of Blooming, were callers, Tuesday. Mr. Krahmer has sold out and will soon leave for the East.

The following citizens of this county have been drawn on the Federal grand jury at Portland: H C Hayes, Sherwood; J. Kuratli, Hillsboro; W. W. Lewis, Dilley; Jas McGowan, Beaverton.

Ex-Assessor Geo Wilcox was this morning notified by the State Board of Equalization to appear before it at Salem, on the 9th inst. to give information in the matter of equalizing the state tax.

The Jew store is no more. The proprietors packed up their goods and departed this week. The people in Hillsboro believe in patronizing business houses that are permanently located, and whose proprietors pay taxes in the county.

President Benham of the United Railways, spent most of last week in the Centerville neighborhood looking after the company's interests. It is reported that he has been quite successful in getting right of way signed up. The farmers are satisfied that the United means business.

On Monday, a son of Fred Berger, of Bethany, while playing ball at the school house, was accidentally hit with a baseball bat in the hands of a playmate, and severely hurt. It was feared that brain fever would follow, but Dr. F. A. Bailey, who was called, thinks the little fellow will soon be all right.

The officers of the State Militia, through the Board of Trade, extend an invitation to those who have signed the Hillsboro militia roll to attend the drill at the Armory, Portland, on Tuesday night, Feb Come in a body and seats will be reserved. Inspection and drill.

The people in the Scholls neighborhood have not relinquished the idea of an electric railway for that section. Frank Rowell, who was in Hillsboro today, says that practically $2,000 have been subscribed on a survey from Greenburg to Farmington While the people have no definite assurance from S O E. Co, they are in hopes that the Company may be enlisted in the matter of building a road later on.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

The man who will invent a furnace that will keep the house warm in the morning without anybody execrating will be a benefactor to his race.

Whether it is better to bear the ills we have than to fly to others depends upon whether they consist of $5,000 or a choice assortment of toothaches.

After passing a pleasant half hour visiting with some people you sometimes suddenly feel as if you would like better for some sort of mental refectant.

Much daddy is more to be desired as a titled husband and often outshines the latter.

We expect too much of our friends. It may be that much of their energy is taken up with wondering just what you are going to do with us.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

ON BUSINESS PRINCIPLES.

Be gentle with the erring,
For you can never know
But what the man may quickly
Recover from the blow,
And if you try to soften
His lot perhaps a ten
Or better you may borrow
When he's on top again.

Mistakes are more than common,
And, as for every crime,
Not every person guilty
Is busy doing time.
Man is so very human,
He sometimes makes a slip,
But by judicious boosting
He may regain his grip.

No one can read the future,
You cannot always tell
Who'll be on top tomorrow
And who'll be down the well.
Hold in reserve your judgment
And try to figure out
For every erring brother
A fraction of a doubt.

We cannot all be angels,
We cannot always say
Just when our little footsteps
Will toddle off astray,
And preaching's somewhat different
From sticking to the text
Be gentle with the erring
Who knows? We may be next.

Certain to Be Uncertain.

There is this about a woman—she is just as certain to be uncertain as she is to be flippant and ununderstandable.

He Was On.

"I have a new book here," said the affable agent, "that I am only showing to educated persons."

"Thanks," said the shy victim, "but I am afraid I am not elegible. Part of my education in the school of experience came from contact with book agents."
