Alleges Revolting Treatment to Little Child

TAKEN TO BOYS' & GIRLS' AID

Woman Who Had Little One Lived Near Metzger

Kilpack, travelling agent for the State Boys' and Girls' Aid Society was in Hillsboro, Tuesday, and filed a petition in the County Court asking that Grace Cromwell, a 4 year old child be taken from the custody of a woman living near Metzger station, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment. If all the reports are true as detailed by neighbors as to the treatment of this child, severe punishment should be meted out to the woman. Some of the stories told regarding the child's treatment, are horribly revolting, and if true, should be a subject for grand jury investigation at the next term of Circuit Court. After the petition was filed, the woman voluntarily surrendered the child to the society, above named.

Barney Leis, of near Beaverton, called Tuesday. Mr. Leis is an enthusiastic orchardist, and knows the value of spraying, as an inspection of his orchard will prove. He says the time to spray for the Codlin moth, is when the bloom begins to fall from apple and pear trees. This gets the poisonous mixture into the calyx of the fruit, when it is beginning to form, with the result that the eggs of the moth get no chance to hatch. He recommends Arsenate of lead in the proportion of 3 pounds of the lead to 50 gallons of water. For scab, he has good results from a combination of the above mixture with the standard lime and sulphur mixture. This last mixture he uses in place of the Bordeaux mixture. He advises orchardists to spray now for the Codlin moth, and to repeat the operation with the Arsenate of lead mixture from the 15th of June, on.

This morning in the yards of the yards of the Oregon Electric at this place, while arranging to couple two cars of the construction train, C. A. Carter, a brakeman, had his right arm caught between the bumpers, with the result that the arm was almost stripped of flesh at a point near the elbow. Carter had given the engineer the sign to stop, which must have been misunderstood, as the cars came together at the wrong time for the brakeman, with the above result. Carter was taken to the office of Dr. Tamiesie, who attended to the injuries, and sent Carter to his home in Portland, until he recovers.

Monday night between the hours of 6 and 7 o'clock, p. m., the farm house of M. C. Collier, 1½ miles west of Scholls was entirely consumed by fire. The fire originated, it is thought, from a spark from the flue which was carried to the roof of a milk house near the dwelling, and was soon communicated to the house. The house was occupied by Ed. Robinson and family, and neighbors saved a good share of the household goods. The building probably was worth $700, and was insured for $300.
