VILLAGE BLACKSMITH WAS FOUND GUILTY

Jury of Twelve Found That he Assaulted Private Kurtz

CASE ORIGINATED OVER A CANINE

Trial Takes up Day and Half in the Circuit Court

Jos. Lenneville, the Forest Grove village blacksmith, fire chief, for two or three terms, and well known in and around the college city, was Tuesday noon found guilty of assaulting a soldier, Private Kurtz, with the U. S. surveying corps, located here, last Summer. It appeared from the evidence that Kurtz had a dog that looked as nearly like Lenneville's dog as one canine can resemble another, and one day, while Kurtz passed Lenneville's blacksmith shop in the Grove, he saw the Lenneville pup, and flicked him with his whip, thinking that he would chastise him for leaving the camp on Gales Creek. Lenneville thereupon whaled away and passed Kurtz one in the neck, or butt of the ear, and the private representative of the U. S. army laid down on the curb and slept for "quite a while." Lenneville was arrested and brought before Judge W. D. Smith, of Hillsboro, and was held to the circuit court grand jury, which indicted him. Lenneville, when his case was called, put up a valiant fight, but to no avail.

The jury, Rudolph Hunziker, J T Croeni, Clyde L. Leedy, W H Heisler, J T Young, W H Lyda, J E Reeves, Z R Cole, Aug Retzlaff, Milton Cole, Chas Schamburg and Herman Kamna, representing all sections of the county, were out about two hours, and brought in a verdict sustaining the charge of assault and battery. Lenneville was given five days in which to have his attorneys argue for a new trial.

MRS. MARY J. SHAW

Mrs. Mary J. Shaw, who died at Portland, Jan. 6, 1912, at the age of 81 years, was born in County Tyne, Ireland. At the age of 13 she came to Canada with her parents, and in 1848 was wedded to Angus Shaw. Eleven children were born to the union, eight of whom survive.

Angus Shaw and family came to Oregon in 1878, and settled in the Waldo Hills. The husband died in 1888, and in the early nineties the family moved to Washington County, purchasing the well known Reedville-Perkins' farm. Mrs. Shaw resided there until shortly before death. Her surviving children are: John A., Albany; William A., Mrs. Margaret A. Graham, Mrs. Sarah J. Simms and Mrs. Rachel S. Clark, Portland; Mrs. Mary J. McIntosh, Walla Walla; George F., Spokane, and Daniel A., Beaverton. All are prominent in their respective communities. One of her sons, Angus Scott Shaw, of Portland, died four years ago.

A HARD WINTER

The Oregonian Tuesday quoted the following, showing what country newspaper men had to undergo, fifty years ago, Jan. 16th 1862, the hard winter:

A man left here on Tuesday morning for Vancouver with a bundle of paper on his back, on which to print the Telegraph of that place. The man was afoot, the snow nearly two feet deep, distance good 10 miles, the weather cold enough to freeze Oregon Whisky; and a river, nearly a mile wide, covered with thin ice and full of air holes, to cross with ten chances to one of being drowned. If this is not printing a paper under difficulties, we are at a loss to know what is.

Card of Thanks

We desire to thank those who assisted us and tendered aid and sympathy during our bereavement, the illness and obsequies of the late Isaac Allen, of Reedville.

His Children,
His Grandchildren.
Reedville, Ore., Jan. 16, 1912.

John Vanderwal has ordered 150 calendars on which are portrait halt-tones of the late fire chief, David Campbell. Campbell was well known here in the eighties, and had many friends in the county. He was incinerated in the fire in East Portland last year.

Geo. K. Rogers and H. M. Lambert, of Portland, were out to the city Monday, in the interests of the World Keepfresh Co., taking measurements of the new factory site, on Tenth & Washington. Mr. Lambert is a son of J. H. Lambert, the Oregon "Burbank," who brought out the famous Lambert cherry. Mr. Lambert is the inventor of the Keepfresh machinery, and he says that Hillsboro has the greastest plant in the world to develop horticulture and gardening.

A. Krieger, of Verboort, was in town Tuesday, and called on the Argus. Mr. Krieger settled in Verboort in 1875, and his family, in company with four others, came from the East over the Union Pacific, via San Francisco, coming from that point to Oregon by boat. They were a great deal longer on the trip than they would be in these days of transcontinental railroads. At that time there was no railway up from San Francisco, nor was the Short Line nor Northern built through to Portland.

J. B. Buck, a merchant of Wheeler, below Reedville, has been appointed post master at Aloha, the new name for the town. His bond has been sent back to Washington, D. C., and and in about 30 or 60 days they expect to have postal service. The old name of "Wheeler" will be abandoned.

Christ Grand and daughter, Mary, of West Union, were in the city Tuesday and called on the Argus.

N. Bangs, promoter of the Timber townsite, up in the Nehalem, was in town the first of the week.

Edw. Boge, of Farmington, was up to the city Tuesday, greeting his friends.

Grafted Walnut Trees

As I have made a careful study of the Walnut Industry in California, Oregon and Washington for the last six years and have great confidence in the future of the industry, especially in the Willamette Valley, we are planting 250 acres of our own.

As we are growing and grafting the trees for this tract to insure reliability and uniformity we decided to graft some for sale of the same quality. In offering these trees to the public we believe we are offering the very best that can be produced at any price—Vrooman Franquettes grafted on Royal Hybrids and California Black Root.

Washington County has a bigger area of land suitable for walnut culture than most any other county in the valley, yet very few first-class trees of the late-blooming varieties that are adapted to our climatic conditions are being planted.

Order early, as our supply has never been equal to the demand.

Ferd Groner.
