Secretary of State Bryan says that within two years Ireland will have home rule, and that England and the United Kingdom as well as Ireland and the world at large, will be the better for it. Some of the English papers appear to be a trifle miffed over the statement, but the best element of the kingdom realize it is the truth.

If the shade of St. Patrick could have seen the unanimity with which Hillsboro celebrated the day of all days with the green ribbon, he would have known that his fame still lived in a Christian world.

The greatest dessert in America—the Pie. Now that fresh fruit is scarce and expensive, pie seems a luxury, but we have solid packed peeled pie fruit in gallon cans which make pie a necessity instead of a luxury. We have everything to make the Easter dinner a pleasure for the cook, instead of a worry.—Hillsboro Mercantile.

Mrs. Nellie Scott, of Vinelands, died at the family home, Tuesday, March 18, 1913. She was aged 30 years. She leaves a husband to mourn her loss. Death was due to the birth of a child.

You spend nearly one-half your time resting—then why not try our celebrated Sealy mattress, guaranteed for 20 years. It will bring slumber to you when all other mattresses fail.—Grover Combs, successor to A. C. Donelson, Third Street.

Mrs. Mary Moore visited in Portland last week, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Moore. "Grandma" Moore celebrated her 83rd birthday on the 12th of this month.

GAME WARDENS DENY

Editor Argus: In last week's Argus there appeared an article, "Old Farmer Fools Wardens." It's very easy to guess whose fertile brain conjured up the story, and while it is a very good one I will try to strike nearer the truth than my friend Long did. All know that Editor Long is an ardent follower of Walton and during the warm days the latter part of the month he couldn't quiet the fishing fever in his veins, and, being personally acquainted with the wardens was afraid to plant a baited hook, so he tied to the end of his line, not a bleached beef rib, but the bleached rib of a female deer that was brought to Hillsboro during the open season for bucks in 1912 by some of Washington County's influential citizens of course. Long "will deny the story, but so would I if I were an editor."—

Geo. W. Russell.

Editor's note—Mr. Long never killed but one female deer, and that was many years ago, over on the Sound, when a mamma deer charged him and tried to eat up his cartridge belt, and Brother Russel knows no man of spirit can stand a thing like that.
