Hillsboro and vicinity lost two pioneers within the past week, Mrs. Lucy Walker and Littleton Lindsay. Both were well known to those who early sought Oregon as their homes, and each was of kindly disposition. Mrs. Walker will long be remembered by those of her early acquaintance as a woman of the most kindly characteristics, and the many acts of helpfulness when illness came to the home of friends endeared her to all who came into touch with her.

D. B. Emrick has a letter written to his father in 1847, from Missouri, by his grandmother and grandfather, Mariah and Christian Emrick. It was written before the days of envelopes, and the sheet was folded and sealed with wax. They were calculating to come West, and the letter gives prices that will now be of interest. Some of them were: Corn, 12½c per bu.; wheat, 50c; hemp, $3 per cwt.; pork, 5c; and so on down the line—back in Missouri. The letter states that they heard back there that Oregonians lived on fat beef and boiled wheat. The missive complains that they had written seven letters and received but four in return.

The "C. I. C." of the United Evangelical Church entertained the Delpha-Alta class of the Sunday School, in the annex of the church, last Saturday night. About twenty-seven young men and women enjoyed the games and lunch. The young men challenged the young ladies to a contest for members, beginning April 6, and continuing two months. They will welcome young people who have no Sunday School home, to join them and enjoy the excitement of the contest, the losing side to entertain the winners at the end of sixty days.

Judge Eakin came out Tuesday to hold an equity term. The case of Walton versus Bruggerman, suit for work on a ranch south of town, resulted in a verdict for $128. The case of Goldstein versus the Pacific Home Mutual Fire Ins. Co., of Forest Grove, is now on, plaintiff asking for a policy loss on a stock of merchandise, the fire taking place in Portland. The Geo. Naylor trial will take place later, as the equity cases crowded it off the calendar. Dr. Everest, under Judge Campbell's docket, will probably get his sentence Monday or Tuesday.

A concert will be given in the Congregational church, Friday evening, April 4, for the benefit of the piano fund. Mrs. Adna Smith, soprano, and Miss Wilma Waggener, of the Albany College Conservatory of Music, will render the numbers. This should be a rare treat to music lovers. Miss Waggener is a Hillsboro girl, and is one of the best pianists in the state.

Twenty three pupils in the public schools played truant Monday—one of the nice days of the week. The school board held a meeting and suspended five until next Monday and the balance until April 14. The board has under consideration the expulsion of the promoters of the truancy squad, and the end is not yet. There have been several stormy scenes under the parental gables and woodsheds—and such is life in childhood days.

The Catholic Young People will take their play, "The Price of His Honor," to Cornelius, Wednesday evening, April 16, upon request of the people of that section. Father Lappen, who is directing the play, thinks they will have big houses, both at Beaverton and Cornelius.

MRS. PERCY WEIK

Mrs. Percy Weik died at her home in South Hillsboro, April 2, 1913, never recovering from the birth of her twin babies, last week. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hays. She was born in West Plains, Mo., Feb. 19, 1887, and came to Oregon in 1901. She was married to Mr. Weik, October 20, 1909, and she leaves her husband and three little children, a father and mother, two brothers and one sister, to mourn her loss. The funeral will take place Friday morning, at ten o'clock, Rev. Fisher, of the Evangelical Church, officiating. Interment will be in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

The young husband has the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

Mrs. E. M. Baker and daughter, Miss Nadyne, of Portland, are guests of Mrs. D. O. Jacobs and Mrs. O. G. Wilkes, today.

Alfred Erickson and Eleada Lindholm were united in marriage by Judge Reasoner, today. The groom lives at Mountaindale, where he has a large farm, on which the newly wedded couple will reside.

BE ON SAFE SIDE

When you employ a contractor, and advance him money on his work for a specific purpose, you should be careful that you draw your check so that it can be used for that one thing, only, and then you can't be worked to disadvantage. Dr. Linklater has learned this in his dealing with Cramer, the contractor, who partially built the Delta front. Cramer asked for $300 to pay a glass bill, and the Doctor gave him a check, advancing the money. Of course, it was to come out of the contract price, but instead of marking the check as payment on glass bill, or drawing it to the glass firm, and charging it to Cramer, he made out the check to the contractor, and marked it as "third payment." Cramer did not pay the bill, and left the country. Cramer was brought back to the state and tried on the charge of larceny by baillie. The court held that the jury must acquit, as the breach on the part of Cramer could not be criminal under all the circumstances. Dr. Linklater himself felt that Cramer was entitled to the benefit of a doubt, and on recall upon his own request, gave evidence that technically helped Cramer's case. Hereafter, however, when the Doctor has contract work he will be careful to see that money paid goes where it is intended.
