

Museum holds scavenger hunt

CANNON BEACH — Back by popular demand is the Cannon Beach History Center & Museum's trivia contest. This family-friendly event is a great way to bond or compete for the highest pride. The one-day event takes place from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, March 14.

Each competitor may purchase a trivia card for $2. Each card contains 10 questions that must be answered while in the museum; all answers are contained within exhibits and displays. Those who answer all 10 questions correctly will win a prize. No cell phone or Internet searches are allowed.

The museum will offer brain food in the form of Sleepy Monk coffee and a few light snacks. Writing materials and writing stations are provided throughout the museum.

The Cannon Beach History Center & Museum is located at 1387 S. Spruce St. For more information, visit www.cbhistory.org

Hear Castle Rock ensemble Men's chorus performs in Cathlamet

CATHLAMET, Wash. — The Castle Rock Men's Ensemble will give a concert at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 15 in St. James Episcopal Church, located at 1134 Columbia St. A reception will follow.

The ensemble includes 10 pastors, teachers, a judge and a plumber. They have been singing together for 12 years under director Clarence Knutsen.

Although they usually sing in Cowlitz County, the ensemble were invited last year to visit Germany, where they spent a week, singing in several historical churches as well as doing some touring.

This concert will include a free-will offering for St. James Family Center, the only nonprofit agency in Wahkiakum County serving children and families.

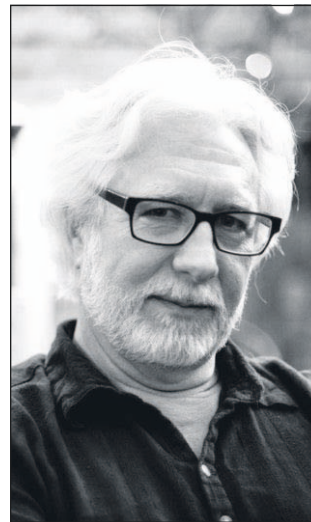

For more information, call Rachael Wolford at 360-849-4181.

Can community be found in the age of the Internet?

ASTORIA — Many social theorists agree that community life has been transformed by communications technologies. Is community disappearing or strengthening as we gaze at smartphones, video games, online movies, and web pages? How do these technologies both connect and disconnect us? Where online do we engage deeply with friends, family, and neighbors alike?

This is the focus of "Lost and Found: Community in the Age of the Internet," a free conversation with Tod Sloan at 6 p.m. Friday, March 13 at Astoria Public Library, 450 10th St. This program is hosted by Astor Library Friends Association and sponsored by Oregon Humanities.

Sloan is a professor of psychology in the Lewis & Clark Graduate School of Education and Counseling in Portland. He was trained in a field known as personality theory, which addresses fundamental questions about human nature. Sloan is fluent in Spanish and has taught in universities in Ven-

Celebrate Albert Einstein's Birthday with a slice of Pi

ASTORIA — Clatsop Community College will celebrate notable physicist Albert Einstein's birthday and the mystery of the mathematical constant Pi from 1:59 to 6 p.m. Saturday, March 14 at CCC's Patriot Hall Gym.

Pi is everywhere; it is the ratio of any circle's circumference to the length of its diameter. The celebration mimics the first eight digits of Pi, which are 3.1415926. Thus, Pi Day is on Saturday, March 14 (3.14), beginning at 1:59 p.m. (159) and continuing to (2) 6 p.m. (6).

CCC's regionally acclaimed band, The π 'd π 'pers, will open the festivities at 1:59 p.m. with music and singing. There will be math games, Pi and other math walks, face painting, Pi prizes and more. Pi's famous relative — pie — will be sold by the Pi-Phi Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa as a fundraiser (by the slice or whole pie).

Admission is free. This event is appetizing for all ages, and families are encouraged to attend (children under 12 need to be accompanied by an adult).

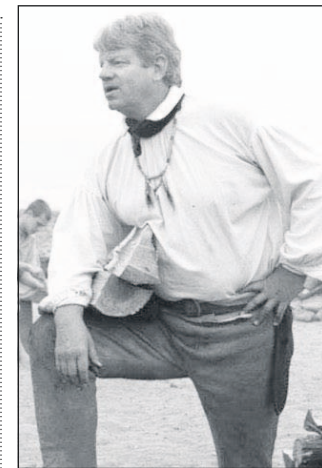

For more information, contact TJ Lackner, CCC mathematics instructor, at 503-338-2452 or tlackner@clatsopcc.edu

Listening to the Land: Clark remembers the Oregon Coast

SEASIDE — It's been 209 years since the Corps of Discovery reached the estuary of the Columbia River prompting Capt. William Clark to pen the immortal words, "Oceana in view! O! the joy." If Clark (now Gen. Clark) was retired and relaxing in his parlor in St. Louis, were to reflect on the nearly five months he spent on the North Oregon Coast in the winter of 1805-06, what details would stand out in his memory?

Hear for yourself at "General Clark Remembers the Coast," the third of this year's Listening to the Land programs beginning at 6 p.m. Wednesday, March 18 at the Seaside Public Library, located at 1131 Broadway. Admission is free, and refreshments will be served.

Clark, who will be reanimated by living history re-enactor Tom Wilson, will share the podium with Jill Harding, chief of visitor services at Lewis and Clark National Historical Park. Wilson and Harding will talk about the landscape and resources Clark encountered during his stay. Attendees are welcome to ask questions.
