September 10 Opening Date Tigard School

(By Curtis Tigard)

TIGARD—Tigard grade school will open Monday. This will put the opening of the school one week later than usual and will give children an opportunity to get back from the fields. One-half tuition in advance must be paid by those who live outside of the district, the board has ruled.

First regular meeting of the newly organized Tigard Parent-Teacher association has been set for tonight (Thursday) in the Tigard public school, it has been announced by Mrs. William Allingham, first vice-president. The P. T. A. is urging all parents to attend the first meeting and learn of P. T. A. activities.

Mr. and Mrs. George Conzelman have returned from their trip to Reno, Nev.

Over a hundred grangers and friends attended the second annual Tigard Grange picnic in Tigard park August 26. E. R. Brown of Evening Star Grange and Roy H. Hewitt, ex-dean of Willamette university, were the afternoon speakers. Tigard Grange is one of the many granges that put on a community booth at the county fair this year. The grange failed to exhibit at the 4-H club fair last year.

That famous negro quartet from the Piney Woods farm life school of Mississippi, the Cotton Blossom singers, put on a program Thursday evening at the Tigard Methodist church.

Tigardville Rebekahs held a social night August 28. A program and refreshments constituted the evening's entertainment. Visitors from Portland, but belonging to Beaverton lodge, were present. Members of the Rebekah and Odd Fellow lodges are practicing for the program for the Double Six social gathering September 21.

Miss Grace Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Davies, has arrived in Tigard from Los Angeles, where she has been attending school. She will teach at Sisters this coming year.

Leland Moore and Alfred Boyer have returned from Chicago, where they attended the world's fair. They each drove home a new truck to be used in their father's trucking business.

A project which the state highway commission should do, in the opinion of local citizens, is the cutting down of the highway strips at this time of the year when the wild carrot is just about in bloom. Mowers were along several times earlier in the year before the wild carrot came up, but now that the cutting is needed, the state has quit that work. The wild carrot is becoming an agricultural menace to land that is not put under frequent cultivation and it is thought that the state should contribute to the prevention.

Miss Viola McDonald left August 26 for Heppner, where she will be employed in a hotel being managed by a former employer. She will be there for two weeks, the duration of the rodeo.

The beaches have had an inviting look the past few weeks with the result that a number of local people were enjoying the salt air and ocean breezes. Mrs. N. G. McDonald and Clara McDonald returned from Oceanlake last week. Among the Tigard people seen at Oceanlake last week were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Farrquor, Mrs. Olson and daughters, who are operating a lunch place; Mrs. B. L. Daniels, Mrs. C. F. Tigard, Berniece Daniels, Curtis Tigard, Mrs. Fred Hambach and Elsie, Dorothy and Fritz Hambach, Mrs. George Miller, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frison. Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Downing and daughter of Fanno were also there.

Art Vincent made a flying trip to Astoria to play in the Sherwood Legion band at the state convention. He was accompanied by Mrs. Elizabeth Vincent and Mrs. H. W. McDonald.
