Carnation Group Plans Meet Here

plans have been made to add 18 more before the end of the summer.

Members of the camps are under the direction of the United States army, but work under the forest service. Un-ranked men receive $30 per month, $25 of which is sent to dependents. Ration allowances amount to approximately 49 cents a day and meals are carefully balanced. Part of the supplies are obtained from Vancouver Barracks, while the balance is purchased from merchants in the vicinity of the camp. All products used are required to have been manufactured in the United States.

Camp which Captain Garrett commands near Silverton is made up of 225 Oregon ex-service men, the only camp of its kind in Oregon. This group has an entirely different reaction to the program, Garrett stated. Older men realize the seriousness of the work while the boys often view the service period as an outing.

Although there is nothing military about the camps, the speaker declared that the nearly a million men who had gone through the camps would make good soldiers if needed.

Committee to co-operate in the "Oregon Products Week," May 3 to 11, inclusive, was appointed by H. L. MacKenzie, president. These named were Arthur Reiling, C. T. Richardson, W. E. Kipple, S. E. Fayram and Alf O. Johnson. Fourth of July committee to co-operate with the local firemen was appointed as follows: W. Verne McKinney, R. R. Easter and V. W. Gardner.

When You See Our Cottons and McCALL PRINTED PATTERNS for Sewing Them

THERE'S nothing newer under the sun—and nothing smarter than cottons! We have the successful ones you'll be looking for—and McCall has "scooped" the rest of the world on all the brilliant ideas that Paris has thought up for creating clothes of cotton. McCall Printed Patterns are the simplest to use—they're as easy for brand new sewers as they are for old hands. Everything is printed from the line you cut by to the last final sewing direction.
