Pastor O'Neill Buried Monday

Beaverton Priest Dies; Had Served Local Church

Rev. Joseph O'Neill, pastor of St. Cecelia's Catholic church, Beaverton for more than 20 years and one time pastor of the St. Matthew's church here, died Friday at St. Vincent's hospital. A solemn pontificial mass was said for him at the Beaverton church Monday morning, with Most Rev. Edward D. Howard, Catholic archbishop of Portland in Oregon, pontificating.

Interment was in Calvary cemetery, Portland.

Father O'Neill was the son of Patrick F. O'Neill and Margaret O'Brien O'Neill. He was born in Tipperary, Ireland, January 15, 1882, and ordained to the priesthood in Louvain, Belgium, where he attended the American college, July 11, 1909, by Bishop Gabriel.

He came immediately to this archdiocese, and was first assistant at St. Lawrence's parish, Portland. Later he served at St. Luke's Woodburn; Medford, Milwaukie, Hillsboro and finally Beaverton.

Essay Contest on Business Problems

Any economic and business problem of the northwest may be used as the subject for an essay entered in The First National bank of Portland's economic essay contest, officials of the bank announce in explaining details of the $1600 competition, closing March 1, 1936.

Two divisions are open to essay writers. One, open only to northwest university students, has university and college scholarships as awards. The other, open to anyone wishing to enter, has cash prizes.

Before contestants may enter they must submit their essay topics for approval of the judges.

Five judges will determine the winners in the two classes of competition. They are Professor Victor P. Morris, University of Oregon, chairman; Professor Milton N. Nelson, Oregon State college; Professor Howard Preston, University of Washington; B. H. Kizer, Washington state planning council chairman, Spokane, Wash., and Roscoe C. Nelson, Portland attorney.

To Judge Northwest Essays
