Portland Pair Use Farm Here to Conceal Loot

Two Washington county robberies were cleared during the week with the confessions made by Clarence Lloyd, 28, and his brother, Tom, 30, Portland, who were sentenced to two years in the penitentiary from Polk county by Judge Arlie G. Walker, and a few hours later the same day to an additional four years each by the same judge from circuit court in Yamhill county.

Robberies in this county included the Aloha Pharmacy, December 20, and the Avis Crosley pool hall in Forest Grove, January 19. Loot from both places was found among a long list of articles and cash recovered at the home of R. L. Stevenson on David Hill when the officers searched the place, according to Sheriff J. W. Connell.

The pair first was arrested at Dallas when attempting to enter a hardware store there. In their car was a license plate from an automobile owned by Stevenson. Stevenson is said to be a brother-in-law of one of the Lloyds, the men taking their loot to the Stevenson farm and hiding it there.

Because of the penitentiary sentences already meted out, Washington county officials will not press charges, it is said.

Early Friday morning a prowler entered the Frank Miller clothing store in Forest Grove and attempted to escape with a quantity of wearing apparel, according to a report filed with Sheriff Connell. Much of the loot, apparently, was left behind.

In the basement was a quantity of clothing, while in an alley there were three new suitcases and six boxes all carefully filled. The night marshal, Gavin Duncan, was notified of the attempted theft about 3 a. m. when a man was seen going down the alley with a suitcase. The officer saw an automobile leave the scene but was unable to catch it.

Jake Wentz, 23, was returned here Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Richard Busch from Yakima, Wash., to face a charge of auto theft from C. W. West at Tigard.

Roads, Highways Blocked by Snow

temperatures fall much below the freezing point.

Lines Broken

Although the PEP company experienced little difficulty in the valley, two or three power lines in the hills and mountains were broken when trees, overburdened with snow, crashed across the wires. Repair crews were taken to breaks without trouble on big trucks.

The water company reported roads to the intake in the mountains blocked by more than two feet of snow. Inspections of the water supply necessarily were dispensed with until a road could be broken through.

In the more remote communities, automobiles were abandoned for horses and saddles to break through the nearly two-foot snowfall to reach supplies or call on neighbors. Mail deliveries were restricted to the main highways, while daily newspapers were not delivered in most instances until Tuesday morning.

Traffic Cut Off

Traffic on the highway between valley towns and Portland, was cut off until late Monday. Mail deliveries were curtailed from Portland to Hillsboro, while milk trucks battled for hours to reach Portland.

Bus service was at a standstill Monday, the first bus reaching Hillsboro in the evening. Tuesday morning the first bus out from Portland experienced difficulty on slippery pavements. Drifts on the Canyon road presented a considerable problem in snow removal and in many places traffic Tuesday was restricted to one-way lanes through the drifts.

By night Tuesday bus transportation was on regular schedule again. Drivers reported traffic delaying passage at a large drift near Sylvan where passenger cars seemed unable to hold the road, skidding and blocking other cars and trucks.

Perfection bakery, one of the largest of its kind outside of Portland, met a possible bread shortage when demands from a number of local stores, usually supplied with part of their stock by Portland bakers, added to the usual heavy demands. Ten Portland bread trucks, which usually supply considerable bread and pastry to valley points, were unable to leave Portland.

Roads Still Blocked

Battle to open hill and mountain roads still was underway in this county today (Thursday) J. W. Barney, county engineer, reported last night. In some places snow four feet deep is reported, and number of the more remote mountain roads will not be open to travel until the spring thaw lowers the snow.

Late Sunday and early Monday morning, all county equipment which had any possibilities for snow removal, had been placed in operation in the long fight to open the main roads through the valley. Hills, mountain and side roads in the valley were left until the last.

County equipment included one truck snow-plow with two trucks as pushers; one caterpillar bulldozer and one caterpillar with grader; five maintainers and as many private tractors and V-snow-plows as could be obtained.

Work Long Shift

In many places along more important roads, equipment has been kept in operation 24 hours a day. Despite this long battle, the Timber-Forest Grove highway nearly was impassable late yesterday (Wednesday), Barney reported.

The Cochran road has been closed for a week and the Bacona road, from either Sherman's mill or from Buxton, is closed with four feet of snow reported on the level.

Pumpkin Ridge road was closed but equipment was expected to open it for traffic today (Thursday). The same condition exists on the Mason Hill road, which will be open today or Friday. All roads in the east end of the county probably will have been cleared by today.

Chehalem Roads Blocked

The fight to open roads on Chehalem mountain, is progressing slowly, Barney reported, and tractor equipment probably will be needed before the roads can be completely opened.

A county warehouse near Cochran also is reported as nearing collapse under the weight of snow.

Tuesday night snowfall varying from two inches to an inch and an eighth in Hillsboro, was reported. Maximum temperature climbed toward 50 above zero with showers falling throughout the day Wednesday.

Weather forecast for today (Thursday) was rain with probable snow at times. There was no indication of a rapid rise in temperature.

Legion Lends Aid to Red Cross Fund

Contributions from smaller communities surrounding Hillsboro have been excellent, officials report, and considerable solicitation still is underway.

Reports made by the county chapter treasurer disclose that collections reported from Forest Grove amounted to $325.82; Hillsboro $871.45, Dilley $32.85; Verboort $50; Aloha $27.10; Metzger $18.30 and the Washington County Pomona Grange $5. Included in the Hillsboro total is $8 from Leisyville; North Plains, $20; Buxton $13.25; Orenco $8, and Schefflin $3.

More Money Needed

According to advices received by state headquarters from the flood zone, the $10,000,000 first requested, will not be nearly enough to rehabilitate the ever-increasing toll of sufferers. It is understood that contributions to the relief fund will be taken until further notice is given.

Fire Consumes New Dwelling

Fire of unknown origin, discovered at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, turned the J. T. Ogden family into the snow storm and destroyed their new home and nearly all its contents. The six-room dwelling was located on the Cornell road near the airport. The entire loss is estimated at $6000, partially covered by insurance.

Mrs. Ogden discovered the fire when she arose to care for her 12-year-old son, who was ill with influenza. A call to the Hillsboro fire department brought the country pumper which, the Ogdens said, could not arrive in time after the truck became lodged in a snow drift.

Most of their household furnishing still were packed in boxes upstairs. Neighbors managed to carry out considerable of the furnishing downstairs, but exposure to the weather did nearly as much damage as the fire.

As soon as possible the young son was taken to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dixon at 305 North First avenue, Hillsboro, but exposure brought about a relapse and he still is ill. Among the household furnishings lost were many keepsakes belonging to Ogden, who is a past master of the Sandy Masonic lodge.

County Farmers' Union to Meet Here Saturday

Washington county unit of the Farmers' Union will meet here Saturday at the Veterans' hall on West Main street. Mrs. Mary Horner, county secretary, announces that the county fair plans will be up for discussion.

N. O. Boleen Dies at Scholls Home

Nels Olaf Boleen, 74, died at his home near Scholls Saturday.

Deceased is survived by the widow, Sarah, and the following children: Mrs. Victoria Cole, Portland; Mrs. Esther Carlson, route 2 Hillsboro, and Victor Boleen, route 5 Hillsboro. A sister, Mrs. Olive Forsgren of Washington, a brother, Adolph Boleen of Sweden, and six grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon (Thursday) from Scholls church at 2 o'clock.

CLARENCE W. ROGERS

Clarence W. Rogers, 80, retired mill worker, died January 31. He had been a resident of this community for 15 years. He was born in Wisconsin December 5, 1857. Burial was in Hillsboro cemetery.
