Crowning of Happy Days Ruler Feature of Friday Goddess Ball

Colorful Ceremonies Mark Coronation

Coronation of "Goddess Virginia" as ruler of the 1938 Happy Days took place in gaily bedecked Shute park pavilion Friday night amid scenes of solemn regal splendor, with Judge R. Frank Peters placing the crown upon the auburn head of Miss Virginia Perkins of Hillsboro.

Procession of the principals of the affair, together with several marching groups, got under way at 9:30. Leading the parade were the American colors, then towering Lew McCusker as Uncle Sam, followed by Dorothy Challacombe, goddess of the 1937 celebration, wearing the golden crown and carrying the torch symbolizing liberty. Following were two national guard units, Company "I" of the 162nd Infantry from Forest Grove and Battery "E" of the 218th Field Artillery of Hillsboro.

Procession Colorful

"Goddess Virginia," wearing a white satin formal gown, with two tiny train-bearers, Raymond and Robert Marks, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Marks, entered on the arm of Judge Peters. Following were her six attendants in red, white and blue gowns. The rest of the marchers included Campfire Girls, Girl Reserves, Girl Mariners, Boy Scouts and the Sea Scouts. After marching twice around the huge hall, the procession halted and "Goddess Virginia" advanced to the center of the floor for the actual coronation ceremony.

"Goddess Dorothy," declaring "I have enjoyed very much being goddess of the 1937 Happy Days and for the past year. I regret very much having seen it pass, but it shall remain one of my most precious memories," removed the crown and handed it to Judge Peters.

Placing the crown upon the new goddess' head, Judge Peters said "Goddess Virginia, it is with great pleasure that we crown you our ruling lady, one in whose veins flows the blood of some of Washington county's most illustrious pioneers. It was through their loyalty and patriotism that this country became what it is today, and that the Fourth of July has come to be such an important occasion for our celebration."

Ascending the platform at the east side of the pavilion, the goddess and her court halted. Wearing red gowns were Mary Ann Garthofner and Neva Ziegler, both of Hillsboro. White gowned attendants were Jeanne Anne Abts and Mary Manley, also of Hillsboro. The two attendants from Cornelius, Mildred Krahmer and Wilma Hamelman, were garbed in blue gowns.

Sea Scouts Stage Drill

At the command from the goddess, Hillsboro's crack Sea Scout troop drill team swung into a series of snappy marching formations. Under direction of Skipper R. L. Bunrett, the 16-man team gave a performance of excellently-executed maneuvers, swinging rapidly through an entire repertoire of various drill-team paces. It was announced that the Hillsboro team, smoothest marching unit seen here in many years, was not only seeking area and state honors, but was also out after national honors, under direction of Burnett, who was skipper of the national flagship of Sea Scouts several years ago. The exhibition drew a wave of applause from the large crowd.

The ceremonies closed with a dance for the court, with Judge Peters as "Goddess Virginia's" partner, and members of the Hillsboro Firemen for the other six girls. Dancing to the music of McDonald of the Navy and his Musical Mariners concluded the festivities which opened the 1938 "Happy Days."
