Scouts of the World — Building for Tomorrow

A Place in the SCOUTING Program of this District Awaits You!

What is a Boy Scout?

He can cook his dinner over a campfire even without utensils. He can pack into the woods for camping. He can swim a stream or stalk a bird. He can find the North without a compass or light a fire when he has no matches.

Birds and trees and animals are his friends, for he knows their names and habits. He knows the marks along the trail—the bandages which will save a life. He knows how to sew a pair of moccasins or feather an Indian Headdress. A Scout is able to take care of himself—because he is "Prepared"—and he does a "Good Turn" to someone every day.

He lives according to the Scout Oath and Law.

To cook and hike and swim, to make things with his hands—this is the Scout's Trail—it's the trail for YOU.
