Reliance Downs Local Semi-pros In State Tourney

Taylor's Store of Hillsboro, kingpins of the Tualatin valley league fell prey to the one-hit hurling of Don Wright Tuesday night and dropped a 6-1 game to his Reliance System mates in the state semi-pro baseball tournament at Westmoreland Park in Portland.

The only hit the Hillsboro team could produce was a clean single to centerfield by Catcher Bob Morrison in the first inning, driving in Second Baseman Forrest Henning, who had walked and advanced to second on an infield out. Only three other Hillsboro batters reached first base, two on walks and another on an error.

Reliance opened with a two-run outburst in the first off Aubrey Van Loo, who started for Hillsboro Singles by Jones, Signer and Herns, coupled with a walk to Ruscitti, produced the tallies.

Two more Reliance runs came in the fourth frame, when Herns singled again and errors by Harry Frantz and Henning resulted in the counters.

Reliance counted again in the fifth on a walk, Signer's second hit and an infield out, and in the seventh on singles by Ruscitti and Herns, plus an error by Hillsboro's Gerald Meeuwsen.

Hillsboro will now play in the consolation round Sunday at 7:15 p.m.

Hillsboro's Taylor's Store nine remained undefeated in Tualatin Valley league play Sunday without lifting a bat—the game went to the local crew by forfeit from Yamhill.

Cornelius won its first game of the season by downing Beaverton 4-1. The winners outhit the losers 9-4. Six Beaverton errors contributed heavily to the Cornelius win.

Forest Grove stayed one game off the pace by downing Verboort, 5-2, with Davis hurling five-hit ball.

The Banks-Gaston clash was reported as a landslide for the former, 14 to 0.

It was not known Wednesday whether or not all of the Sunday tilts will be played. Four games are slated to wind up the season Sunday but at least one of the teams, Hillsboro, will have a game that night in the state diamond tournament in Portland. The schedule, however, reads Banks at Beaverton, Verboort at Gaston and Forest Grove at Hillsboro.

A $50,000,000 Target

The state's orphan millions haven't found a home yet.

The state supreme court, however, handed down a decision this week that releases $50,000,000 of income tax surplus and makes the legislature master of ceremonies of the big melon cutting—starts January 10. The ruling of the high court also eliminated the need of submitting an $8,000,000 levy to the voters at the November election by clarifying a "bookkeeping" deficit of $5,000,000. There are almost as many ideas about how the funds should be allocated as there are legislators and lobbyists. Heads of state departments and boards, and representatives of cities and counties will have elaborate plans to accompany their demands for more funds.

It is historic, and often histrionic, that every legislature has too many free-spenders of other peoples' money and too few with an instinctive perception of what is wise and proper. The 1949 senate has a number of conservative members who should be able to block pressure groups with lopsided grabs.

Senators Douglas McKay and Dean Walker have always taken the position that it is foolhardy to not be prepared for rainy days. If McKay is governor during the next legislature it is certain he will advise that a major portion of the surplus funds be salted away for the days when times are not as lush as now. Senator Walker will doubtlessly be the floor leader of the conservatives. Pressure groups will bring out novel formations in log rolling.

The raids on the surplus millions will complicate the passage of every bill before the legislature and overshadow all problems short of war.

Oregon Boy's Success Story

Following a declaration that he intended to get only top grades in all classes Carleton Savage entered Salem High school some 35 years ago. He made the grades and on graduation day released the forthright news to his classmates that he was going to be a diplomat.

This week he arrived in Salem from Washington, D. C., where for the past 12 years he has been in the U. S. Department of State, eight years as personal assistant to Secretary of State Cordell Hull and now is secretary of General Marshall's policy planning committee.

While absent from the national capital he will visit with his parents who live near Salem, other relatives and friends. Then there are some fishing trips on his agenda.

Speaking of the "Russian Matter" he said:

"There is much talk from time to time of the inevitability of war with Russia. But if we resign ourselves to the inevitability of war, there would need to be a complete reorganization of our foreign policy, which is now directed towards the development of peaceful and stable conditions throughout the world."

Utilities Commissioner Resigns

John H. Carkin, public utilities commissioner, resigned Thursday and resumed his post as superintendent of railroad and transportation in the public utilities department. Carkin said he wanted his old job back as he did not wish to lose his retirement benefits. The position from which Garkin resigned pays a salary of $7500 a year, the highest salaried appointive office in the state.

George H. Flagg, who resigned as Public Utilities commissioner just before the May primaries to run for secretary of state, was reappointed to the office Wednesday by Governor Hall. Flagg ran against Hall's appointee Secretary of State Earl T. Newbry, but was defeated by a vote of nearly two to one.

Third Party Files

Supporters of Henry A. Wallace filed petitions Saturday with the state department of elections to form a progressive party in Oregon. Sponsors said the petitions contain the signatures of 19,111 registered voters. Only 16,743 signatures are required. Declarations of candidacy must be filed with the secretary of state before August 9 to get on the November Oregon ballot.

All local, social and fraternal news should be turned in at the Argus for publication in that week not later than Tuesday morning and earlier if possible. tf
