Spartans Dump Vikings For First Loop Triumph

Spartan baseballers, playing their first TVV league game under a new coach, Lou Samsa, unlimbered their long-ball bats Tuesday afternoon to squelch the Forest Grove Vikings, 8-6, in a tilt played at the local park.

The Spartans produced four triples during the contest, two by Lee Alvord, who also was the winning pitcher after moving in from right field in the sixth inning.

Lefty Roger Madsen started on the mound for the Spartans and held the Vikings well in check until the sixth frame, when four hits and four runs knotted the game and brought the righthanded Alvord to the hill.

The Spartans jumped to a first-inning lead on Rutschman's single, a sacrifice by Ken Harp and Alvord's first triple, a well-hit smash to center field.

Hilhi bats were dormant in the second inning, but in the third they drove Harry Jacobsmuhlen from the mound and brought Tom Fisher to the rescue.

The Spartans scored five runs in the frame, with big blows being three-ply smacks by Alvord, Jim Nierman and Martin Hankinson, who worked the game behind the bat for Hilhi.

The Vikings counted twice in the third frame on two hits and then added four more in the sixth on a quartet of safe blows.

The two Spartan runs which put the Samsamen into the win column came as Rutschman got on by fielder's choice and Harp walked. Ron Reule's single to left field counted Rutschman, and Harp completed the circuit on a fielder's choice before the third out occurred.

Best man at the bat for the Spartans was Nierman, who poled a triple and two singles in four trips while Alvord's mark was two triples in three official times up.

Expansion Business Zone Recommended

few years and observing the scramble for business locations, the number of businesses settling just outside the city together with the number of prospective business establishments that leave the area entirely for lack of adequate business locations, the planning commission has attempted to forecast the needs of the city for the next 10 to 20 years.

"A certain amount of business establishments are necessary to any city and as the city and the area adjacent to the city increase in population the number of business establishments needs to be increased accordingly and this can be done only by opening up new business area.

Physical Conditions Control

"Expansion of any business district is controlled more or less by physical conditions, and in the city of Hillsboro these controlling physical conditions are quite evident. Perhaps one of the most important factors is the value of the residential, or other properties that exist around the business district, another is highway or main traffic street locations and another the general tendencies in area development both as to residential, business and industrial.

"The business district of Hillsboro was started many years ago when the population was under 1000 people and has been growing very slowly but quite steadily year by year, expanding in all directions around the original business block until today practically all the property within the original business area has been used or has been taken off the market and is being held by the owners for their own future purposes, and we have reached the point where if additional business is to come to Hillsboro, more area must be zoned for such purposes.

Seek Least Damage

"In providing this additional business area the commission has taken into consideration all the data available to them and has endeavored to project the business area expansion so as to do the least damage to the strictly residential areas and yet provide for business expansion where business can expect a successful operating location.

"Business cannot reasonably be expected to move north of Lincoln street because of the many existing non-commercial buildings such as the court house, the churches, library, Masonic hall, etc., and because of the expensive residential properties to the north.

"Business cannot reasonably be expected to go west because of the heavy industry existing west of First avenue, except those types of business which are served entirely by automotive traffic, and the only feasible outlet for this type of business would be West Main street, which has been included in the proposed program of zoning change.

"Business cannot be expected to go east any great distance because of existing property values, however some eastward expansion is recommended by the commission.

"Business could expand to the south utilizing both sides of Baseline street and could then extend eastward as far as Tenth street. There are several fine homes in this area but there is also considerable property that could be made available for business purposes immediately. Furthermore, residential building along main traveled highways such as Baseline street has ceased except for low priced housing, while on the other hand highway locations are desirable and quite necessary for certain types of business.

"In considering Baseline street as a business area, we believe it can reasonably be assumed that it will not become a four-lane highway providing for four lanes of moving traffic but rather it can be expected to provide two lanes of moving traffic with a parking lane at each side, and that traffic in excess of two-lane capacity will be moved to another street, thereby eliminating the great expense of widening Baseline street beyond the present 66-foot right of way. For this reason the commission has recommended that the existing setback requirement of 17 feet for buildings on Baseline street be repealed and that owners be permitted to utilize their property as on any other street in the city.

"It has also been recommended by the commission that all area zoned as business district be included in the central fire district. This recommendation was made by the commission for the purpose of requiring a higher standard of business buildings and also to eliminate unstable and undesirable structures. In other words, if a man wishes to go into business in Hillsboro he should be required to provide a building safe and durable and on an equal standard with the existing business buildings.

"The zoning problem has been given serious study and it is the feeling of the commission that the recommended program is in the best interests of the entire city and if adopted as recommended will provide sufficient business area for many years to come."

Members of the city planning commission are E. J. McAlear, J. W. Bailey, Nye Bristol, Don Garrigus, O. B. Gates, Lloyd Anderson, Orange Phelps and Mayor H. M. Seabold an ex-officio member.

DAVID B. CHARLTON, left, of Charlton Laboratories in Portland and Robert Harris of the Portland office of the U. S. Public Health service will speak at a meeting of the Hillsboro chamber of commerce Tuesday. Their subject will be "Stream Pollution in Oregon."

Education Need in Fight Against Reds Stressed

Importance of education in combating communism and in the promotion of peace was stressed by Dr. Harry Dillin, president of Linfield college at McMinnville, in speaking before the chamber of commerce here Tuesday on "The Relationship of Education to Peace."

Dr. Dillin, who has been a United States consultant to the United Nations, declared that we should believe in education as an instrument of a living democracy, believe in the United Nations and believe in the peoples of the world.

Pact Discussed

The educator said he was about 51 per cent against and 49 per cent for the Atlantic pact, holding that it may result in a greater unity of the Russian people because of the propaganda of encirclement that will be handed out to them by the Kremlin. He said, however, that if the pact does anything to show the leaders of Russia that we mean business he is for it. It was contended that some of the nations signatory to the pact are near to being picked off by the communists and that we might be called upon to go to their aid.

The Russian people themselves, he said, are just as peace loving as we are and he decried any fomenting of hatred against them, but expressed himself as being for anything that might eliminate the cutthroats at the top.

The Atlantic pact is probably not illegal under the United Nations because of a section in the charter that provides for action in case of attack, according to the speaker, who said the pact is being resorted to because the international police force to maintain peace has not been organized. Belief was expressed that the pact would not help the United Nations.

Red Danger Cited

The university head held that Russia probably had no intention of instituting war as long as she could pick off nations one by one through infiltration, pointing out that the communists were now working on countries very close to us. He said the Russians are not prepared to wage war because of the industrial destruction of the last war.

The Russians, Dr. Dillin asserted, have made some gains over the days of the czars, but have nothing in comparison with what they could have if they had any degree of the freedom enjoyed here.

The United Nations is not failing in the opinion of the speaker, who said the American people were ahead of our delegation in the extent to which they would go to assure peace.

Warns of "Statism"

The Linfield president warned that we in this country were gradually drifting toward "statism" and that we may wake up some day and be sorry.

Tribute to the work of John R. Cox, Hilhi principal, and J. W. Poynter, superintendent of local grade schools, was paid by the speaker, who said this community has one of the finest systems in the state.

President L. C. Kramien in commenting on phases of the chamber program said that we must have standard engineering on the main county arterial roads.

Dr. Charlton of the state sanitary board will speak on water pollution at the luncheon next Tuesday. Dr. Paul Raver, Bonneville administrator, is unable to be here because of the necessity of being in Washington for hearings.
