Four Groups Aid To Quell Blaze At Forest Grove

The Hillsboro fire department helped Forest Grove, Cornelius, and Northwest Fire Patrol firemen fight an estimated $50,000 fire at the Vandervelden Motel on the east outskirts of Forest Grove Friday afternoon.

Ten Pacific university students and their families were left homeless in the afternoon blaze after fire destroyed 14 apartmnts of the 22-unit motel and damaged others.

Flames Spread Quickly

Joe Vandervelden, owner of the $75,000 two-block-long apartment court, said he carried $30,000 insurance on his property. He estimated his loss at about $50,000. He believed the blaze originated in the apartment court's sawdust burning heating plant.

The flames spread quickly and in a short time had raced through 10 occupied apartments and four more nearing completion.

One couple, Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Oppengarth, were half moved into their new apartment when the fire struck.

The alarm came in a few minutes before 5 p.m. Friday and firemen were hampered by low water pressure and lack of hydrants. They concentrated on saving eight of the remaining apartment units and nearby houses.

Students Help Wives

Pacific university students, returning home from afternoon classes, helped their wives and neighbors remove household possessions. Bill Bieker, a member of the university football team, was one of the tenants whose apartment was a total loss. Interiors of eight other occupied units suffered smoke and water damage. Roofs of all were scorched. Seven units were reoccupied although slightly damaged.

Included in Vandervelden's loss were two trucks, a rototiller, sanders, saws and carpenter tools. His apartments had been under construction for over a year and tenants moved in about seven months ago.

Left homeless in the housing short community were A. R. Durdan, Bob Siefarth, Ivan Cady, Allan Olson, Floyd Harmon, Lester Heisler, Robert Burkhalter, Harry Thiel, Bill Bieker, Raleigh Oppengarth and their families.

Baseline Wreck Hurts 6 Persons

Six Washington county residents were hurt in a highway traffic accident on Baseline road not far from the Orenco junction early Saturday morning as a car driven by Robert Lewis Price of Cornelius crashed into the side of a bridge. Price, the driver, and a passenger were the only two of the eight in the car who were not injured. The others were taken to Jones hospital in Hillsboro for emergency treatment.

The most seriously injured were a Hillsboro couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Keyser of Brookwood avenue. Jones hospital officials report that Ralph Keyser sustained a severe cut on the right leg and Mrs. Corinne Keyser suffered a possible fractured pelvis. Both remain in the hospital, but the others have been released.

Other persons hurt in the accident include William Kitson and James Hayden, all of Cornelius; and Bonnie Anderson of Forest Grove. Doris Racine, Cornelius, was in the car but was only shaken up. She was not hospitalized.

The sheriff's office reports that the accident occurred as Price's car went out of control and crashed into the bridge railing. The impact of the collision tore off the right fender, door and wheel of the vehicle. The car ended up on the west side of the highway in a ditch. It was nearly demolished.

Hundreds Attend Centennial Show

away a bold Indian brave provoked appreciative laughter and applause from the "Centurama" audience.

Early Life Revealed

Scenes three, four, five and six depicted the formation of the school for orphans, Tualatin academy, Old College Hall, and First Woman School teacher and the naming of Forest Grove and Pacific university. Mrs. Tabitha Brown was shown in scene three as she explained to Harvey Clarke her plan of establishing an orphanage for children in the Oregon country. The orphanage, according to the narrator, formed the basis for the establishment of the Tualatin education academy. Scene six, showing the meeting of the early board of trustees, decked out in costumes worn by the early ministerial brotherhood, revealed to the audience the naming of Pacific university and Forest Grove.

Scene five, entitled the "first woman school teacher," was cleverly portrayed by narration and the pantomime of school marm Natalie Pirre. The scene, called the "Indian Wars" brought the first demonstration of the black lighting effect as a troop of young girls dressed in gay Indian costumes came on the set with two expert hand balancers, Bud Simpson and Wes DeTemple. There were lots of "ahs" and "oohs" as the troup went through their illuminated performance in total darkness.

Scenes eight, nine, ten and eleven dramatized the formation and the early life at Pacific university. This included "the civil war recruiting scene," "Harvey Scott and Progress on the Plains," "The Farmerettes," "Athletics at P. U.," and "Campus Courtin'."

The portrayal of "the Fiftieth Anniversary," "The Tualatin Plains at War," "Youth Parade," Academic progress at Pacific University" and a spectacular finale concluded the "Centurama."

Large Cast Performs

More than 400 school children and adults made up the show's cast, including groups from Hillsboro, Forest Grove, Verboort, Banks, Gaston and other communities.

Nearly $25,000 worth of lighting equipment was used to produce the dramatic lighting effects. Al Learman, Albert C. Hingston headed the pageant's direction, assisted by Katie Whitney. Lucy Ellen Patterson directed the dance routines.

Blood Donors Get Classifications

The Washington county chapter of the American Red Cross mailed out blood doonr certification cards last week to local persons who gave blood to the program when the prtable unit visited Hillsboro on September 9, according to a report from Mrs. W. R. Manley, county Red Cross executive secretary.

The certification cards list a classification of the donor's blood type and identify the person in case of an emergency. The cards are designed so that the bearer may carry them on his or her person. Included with each card was a letter of thanks from the county Red Cross chapter.

Change Announced

The Hillsboro chamber of commerce has announced a time change for the group's Tuesday luncheon. President Jack Swank reported this week that all luncheons are now scheduled for 12 o'clock sharp instead of the previous time of 12:10 p.m. He explained that the change was made so business and professional men could return to their offices to keep appointments.
