The Democrat.

THE CONVENTION,

Never was a more intelligent, earnest, assemblage of democrats in Linn than those who met in convention. Never was there so large a number of unpledged delegates. Never was there a more harmonious convention. Never was there so many delegates anxious and willing to sacrifice their own personal preferences as to candidates as were found in that convention and never was there such general satisfaction at the result of the conventions deliberations. The universal expression among democrats is that the ticket is a strong one. Fairly and equally distributed throughout the county no section feels that it has been overlooked. There is great earnest, zeal and determination to elect the ticket. The most hopeful sign is that every defeated candidate voluntarily pledged himself to use every effort to elect the whole ticket. If every democrat puts his shoulder to the wheel and does his whole duty the result will not be doubtful.

TARIFF DISCUSSION OPENED.

Senator Voorhees opened the tariff debate in the senate Monday. The following is an extract:

"The enactment of the McKinley bill was a gigantic crime, not only against every workingman and working woman in the United States, but also against every individual manufacturer and against all manufacturing interests. It was not so designed by its authors, but such was its real and inevitable character. It declared a policy so flagitious in principle, so rotten in morality and so ravenous in its exactions on the absolute wants of life that its possible duration was only a question of time when the next election by the people should occur, and yet the vast manufacturing interests of the country were tempted and seduced into accepting its delusive bribes, and into an eager adjustment of themselves to its alluring though evanescent and short lived provisions. If the reward of labor had ever been increased as an incident or consequence of increased tariff duties on foreign imports, nothing would be easier or more gracious to the advocates and beneficiaries of protection than to show that fact. The very reverse, however, is true. It can never be forgotten that the enactment of the McKinley law in October, 1890, was followed almost immediately by a reduction of the wages of all workers in iron and steel, beginning at Homestead, in Pennsylvania, under Carnegie, resulting in bloodshed and wholesale murder, and extending to all parts of the country, and to almost every interest of manufacturing industry."

Speaking of the proposed income tax, which he warmly upheld, Mr Voorhees said:

"The proposition contained in the pending bill, to levy a tax of 2 per cent on all incomes of corporations and of individuals in excess of $4000 per annum, is so just and equitable toward the hard-working taxpayers of meager resources throughout the entire country that not a word in its defense or explanation would seem necessary here or anywhere else. But the narrow and corroding selfishness of riches has been aroused by this simple measure of justice into fierce resentment and contentions. We hear on all hands the voices of individuals and corporations of wealth demanding that it shall not be disturbed by the demands of the slightest touch of the taxgatherer, whatever may be the demands of the government or the oppression of the toiling masses

"I believe the limit of endurance has been reached; that the time has come for a test to be made between the power of hoarded money and the power of productive labor; that the people from this time forward more than ever before will organize and take rapid measures against the continued and brutal dictation of the plutocracy, against the paramount influence of wealth, against the rule and supremacy of the rich in shaping the financial policy of this government in their own interests."

THE REPUBLICAN OUTLOOK.

Thomas H Carter, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, discusses this subject in the current number of the North American Review. Of course he arrives at the conclusion that "the Republican party can and will succeed in 1896."

The fact that it is the Hon Tom to predict and to figure out success for his party, and that he did it to the President's taste in 1892 and again in 1892, rendeas the alleged reasons for his conclusions of small moment. Without any great effort we can compress into three lines more truth and better prophecy than Chairman Carter has spread over his ten board pages:

The Republican outlook for 1896 will depend altogether upon the Democratic backloos in that year.

If the Democrats in Congress shall pass with reasonable promptitude a genuine tariff reform bill, and if the currency shall be protected from a banger similar to that which produced the Republican monetary panic of last summer, the prospect of Democratic success in 1896 will be excellent. With the tariff question settled on the basis of reasonable protection, and the consumers relieved of burdensome taxes now collected solely in the interest of monopolies, the country will be in no mood to listen to an appeal to reopen the question. No campaign for higher taxes was ever popular. The protected manufacturers themselves would be strongly opposed to a further unsettlement of their business.

If the Democratic party does its duty and redeems its pledge the "Republican outlook" in 1896 will be for four years more of Democratic rule.

Hoar is the most virulent force bill crank in the Senate. He is worse than Lodge. Kolb is the representative of the opposition to the Democratic party in Alabama. The alliance between these two men tells the Democracy against what it must fight to preserve its strength.

In New England the friends of the Home Market Club, the association of protected manufacturers have sent a circular broadcast asking for contributions to a Kolb fund.

Populists and protectionists. The paternalists are willing to help fat money if they can thereby defeat the Democratic party and turn back the march of manhood freedom and equal rights before the laws. They would rather have the Omaha platform than the constitution of the United States.

"Kolb is thoroughly sound on protection" wrote Hoar after a two days' conference he, Congressman Joseph H Walker and Congressman Cogswell had with the Alabama man.

It is Mahone over again. Massachusetts protectionists furnished Mahone with money. They will buy Kolb. And they will be equally willing to pay for anything to beat the Democratic party in Missouri.

The Congress of Norwegian Physicians which recently met at Christiania, instead of hiring a hall, held its sessions on a large steamer which moored from place to place in the harbor. Food, fresh air and exercise were had while they were not engaged in the business for which they were hired, namely, to act as scientific and possibly wise men. Food in purse than if lodged in hotels.

MORALISTS IN POLITICS.

It is not surprising that the Home-Market Club of Boston should seek secretly to "raise at least $5,000 in New England" to help elect a populist governor in Alabama. The high tariff monopolists have been for many years increasing and protecting their bounties by buying elections. They have neither principles nor scruples in this matter. The publication of their secret circular to the Chairmen of the republican town committees in New England, setting forth that "prudence requires that strict privacy should be observed in raising this money," and enjoining them to "avoid any but discreet men, and to impress upon them the importance of secrecy," is therefore not a revelation of new wickedness. It is right in line with the Wanamaker fund, the campaign of the Manufacturers' Club of Pennsylvania, and the secret circular of Chairman Hackett, in York State, asking for the names of purchasable democrats.

But to some people the revelation will come with a shock that the eminent moralist Senator Hoar and the vociferous Pharisee Congressman Walker should support this movement, though recognizing that it must be done "as quietly as possible."

Yet why should this occasion surprise? Did not the same George F Hoar, who now seeks to help elect a populist governor in Alabama with Puritan money from New England, bail the support given by republicans to Mahone and Riddleberger as "facing the dawn?" Senator Hoar admits in his letter that he knows Kolb to be a free silver advocate and to entertain views on taxation which he regards as socialistic. Yet his desire to see "the solid south broken" and "the cause of protection assured" shuts his eyes to the danger and the probable disgrace that would follow a populist success in Alabama, as they followed a like result in Colorado.

The desire for secrecy shows that these New England Pharisees have still a sneaking sense of the unprincipled nature of their proceeding. The discovery of their plot affords another example of the truth that the moralist in politics is always a subject of suspicion. But more important than this, it shows to the people of Alabama the danger that confronts them. The revelation of the New England corruption fund will settle the business for Kolb.

WAAT I OME.

The census bulletin giving the statistics of manufactures by States explodes completely the protection theory that tariffs regulate wages.

If this contention were true, wages in the same industries ought to be substantially uniform throughout the States subject to the same tariff law. That this is not the case the tables published yesterday in the Tribune conclusively prove. The variation is greater between different States of our Union than it is between the average of wages in this country and the average in England.

It is shown by this bulletin that the mean average wages paid in the entire country in all manufacturing industries except mining and quarrying, for 1890, was $484 per head.

Among the States falling below this average were these: Alabama, by $110; Georgia $177; South Carolina, $217; Maine, $134; New Hampshire, $101; Wisconsin, $92.

Among the States exceeding this average were Colorado, $236; Montana, $238; Massachusetts, $10; New York, $65; Pennsylvania, $8; Wyoming, $284.

The obvious lesson of these figures and of the rest of the table is that wages depend upon the productivity of the workmen, the demand for labor, efficiency of labor organization and the cost of living, not upon a tariff law which may permit but never constrains protected employers to pay more than the market rate for wages.

Wages in manufacturing industries are higher in this country than in Europe, because the workmen produce more—that is, are more intelligent, have better machinery or work longer hours—or because there is a greater demand for their labor or a higher cost of living and stronger union of laborers to maintain their just demand.

Intelligent workingmen know this. The census bulletins prove it

Among the many candidates for public favors in the coming conventions, we are pleased to place the name of our young friend, Prof Geo H Wilkes, the present efficient county school superintendent. He is a young man whom the citizens of Lebanon, irrespective of party lines, hold in highest esteem. Possessed of uncommon executive ability, and late training for the position he now holds, together with long experience in the school room, he is a man to whom the people of this country can safely trust the future welfare of their public schools. As a teacher, his work has won the praise of the prominent educators of this state. He has shown commendable energy in straightening out and putting in the best possible order the disorganized condition of the superintendent's office. Nor should it be forgotten that although he is a democrat he was appointed to fill out the present term by a republican board of commissioners in preference to the present leading candidate of that party for the same position. We ask for Prof Wilkes the earnest consideration of every delegate who has the good of our public school in view during the coming convention.—Lebanon Express.

A scribbler in the Populist says:

The Daily Democrat has been helping abuse upon the People's party ever since the party was organized.

Now, this is so utterly absurd and false that none but a fool could be deceived by it. When and in what particulars would he have the DEMOCRAT been heaping abuse upon the people's party? Let the scribbler above be so explicit as to name the time and the language used by the Democrat in abusing the people's party. He can not do it, and if not, he can only stand forth as a liar. A campaign that has to depend upon falsehood and personal vilification for material has but little to recommend the sympathy of the people, as the Populist and its anonymous scribbler would learn ere the present campaign closes

When the populist state convention was in session at Oregon City, and the platform committee was at work, a reform tariff resolution was offered, but the committee refused to adopt it or give out any expression on that subject. We suppose the scribbler who writes in the Populist under an assumed name because he is ashamed to say what he does under his own true name, will now come forward and say the DEMOCRAT is heaping abuse upon the peoples part by giving the public the truth about the action of the populist state convention on the tariff question.

It will be an intelligent body of men who will constitute the democratic convention that meets tomorrow.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular Correspondent.

Washington, March 26, 1894

President Cleveland probably never did a harder or more wearing week's work than that which has just closed. Last Monday Vice President Stevenson signed the Bland bill for the coinage of the seigniorage and it was at once placed in the hands of the president. Since that time he has devoted his entire time to the bill, and, although no announcement has been made to that effect, the opinion seems to be gaining ground here that he will veto the bill. If he neither vetoes nor signs the bill by Thursday of this week, it will become a law without any action on the president's part. The veto of the bill will be a great disappointment to democrats from the south and west in congress, but if it be vetoed no attempt will be made to pass it over the veto.

Secretary Gresham smashed some precedents when he made public the new treaty with China in advance of the action of the senate upon it, but it was the sensible thing to do, even if garbled extracts from the treaty had not leaked out and been printed in papers unfriendly towards the administration. Of course, Secretary Gresham would have preferred that the making public of this treaty should have been deferred until it could have been accompanied by the commercial treaty to which it was the stepping stone, which has been negotiated and is now awaiting the approval of the Chinese government. The present treaty relates entirely to the rights of the citizens of the two countries when living in either, and contains several marked concessions concerning the coming of Chinese to America. For that reason it is objectionable to some of the senators and representatives from the Pacific coast, but in view of the advantage to be gained by the commercial treaty, to come later, it is not thought that the opposition will be strong enough to endanger the ratification of this treaty, but the senate may decide, on account of the slipperyness of Chinese diplomacy, to withhold ratification until it is known that the commercial treaty has been approved by China.

Nothing is easier than to build up absurd stories by accepting wrong constructions of an act as a foundation upon which to build, and nothing is apparently more enjoyable to those Washington Correspondents who furnish imaginary matter for the sensational republican press than to put a wrong construction upon every act of President Cleveland's. A case in point was the designation by the president of Rear Admiral Walker for the command of the Pacific Station. Although it was officially stated that Admiral Walker was given this command because the administration had decided to extend an appropriation made in 1892, by Congress, in fitting up a coaling naval station at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the right to do so having existed since the ratification of the treaty of 1887, and he was thoroughly familiar with the harbor and its surroundings, but putting a wrong construction upon it, these correspondents built up stories that the selection was made because of an intention to interfere with the provisional government of Hawaii. These stories were not only false and known by their concoctors to be false, but they were a positive insult to the President of the United States, who had months ago formally and officially turned all matters relating to the government of Hawaii over to Congress, yet they were printed. Legitimate criticism is all right in its proper place, but lies and misrepresentations are always towardly and always contemptible no matter who makes use of them.

General Wade Hampton knows as well how to snub impertinence as any man in public life. The other day he called on a Senator who has a private secretary who is a victim of the impertinent habit. As the General after leaving the Senator was passing through a room occupied by the private Secretary that individual stopped him and said: "You've got half a minute and have stayed a half an hour; you ought to get a medal."

"Young man," replied General Hampton without a moments hesitation, "you remind me of what Mrs Partington told her son when he said he was going to get a medal." "What was that?" asked the smart Aleck with a grin" "Well, sir, she observed, you deserve a medal, for you are the most meddlesome cuss I ever saw; Good morning Mr Secretary."

Representative Bland, of Mo, takes a sensible view of the Coxey army business, which is being talked about in Washington, more because of the space given it by the newspapers than because anybody believes that it is actually coming. He says: "The Coxey army has as much right to come to to Washington as the lobbies who come in behalf of protection and other private interests. As long as they pay their own expenses and commit no depredation they have a perfect right to come. But if they violate law and become a mob of pillagers they should be surprised."

Senator Colquitt, of Ga, was very near to dying last week from a stroke of paralysis. He is now slightly better, although not yet out of danger.

HOW DOES HE STAND?

The question is now being frequently asked how Uncle Charley Miller, of Jefferson, the populist nominee for Congress, stands on the tariff question. The DEMOCRAT has heretofore believed that Uncle Charley was a tariff reformer, but in view of the sudden turn that party took at its state convention on this question, the DEMOCRAT is unable to express an opinion as to what his views now are. The people really want to know, and have a right to know, what his views are, and to enable him to inform them, the DEMOCRAT hereby tenders him a half or three quarters of a column of the DEMOCRAT for that purpose. We hope Mr Miller will accept this offer in the same friendly spirit in which it is offered.

Now and then in this life comes a case of retributive justice which must call forth approval from every man who has the least inkling of love for fair dealing. The case in point is the power of the "mailed hand" of speaker Crisp holding and controlling the conduct of the autocrat of the 51st congress, T B Reed of Maine. Reed seems to be under control, and no man seems to realize his helplessness so much as he. Tom is learning an important lesson

Daniel Culp, an old farmer of Haywards, Calif., was buncoed out of $1000 by three men on Monday. After discovering that he had been swindled, Culp went out to a cabin, about five miles from his home. An hour or two later two workmen found that he had shot himself with a rifle. He had a fearful gash alongside of his head, but was still living, and the doctors say they do not think the bullet reached the brain. It is said that he had intended using the $1000 which he lost to meet some pressing claims.

It pays to give the people an invitation to trade with you. The best way to invite them is to advertise in the DEMOCRAT. Now is the time to rustle.

There is one thing about paying taxes, the money is nearly all circulated in the state; even the state tax spreads out, and the county and school tax particularly finds the level.

An exchange pertinently remarks. People are very forgetful. They have to think pretty hard to remember the vice presidential candidate two campaigns back, and yet he was pretty well advertised at the time. It has been truly said that the time to advertise is all the time. In business there is no such thing as standing still. A business man must go forward or he will fall back. Even if you do just as much business this year as you did last, some other fellow is doing more business and he is getting ahead of you. Each year's effort should be to exceed last year's sales.

When the cook opened the the kitchen door and found a tramp there, she was in just the humor for refusing him a bite to eat though he was starving. But he saved her that trouble. "Excuse me," he said, smiling out of his photosphere of dirt, "you can give me a bath this morning." The cook threw up her hands. "Great governor," she exclaimed, "a what?" "A bath, lady; water and soap and towels and a sponge, don't you know." "Yes; but what in the name of goodness do you want a bath for?" "Really, lady, I don't know," he said in the most serious tone; "but for the last week or so every house I go to they tell me what I need is a bath, and I thought as a concession to a universal demand, so to speak, I'd try one. Can you set me up and oblige the public?" It was too much for the cook, however, and she fell over backwards into the kitchen.

AN APPEAL.

KANSAS CITY, April 3.—The American Protective Association and the Catholics came together in a bloody conflict at the polls today. It cannot be stated which side is responsible for the fray, as each side charges the other with being the full cause of all the trouble. More than 200 shots were exchanged between the combatants in less time that many seconds, and when firing ceased four persons were lying dead.

Crook County Democrats

PRINEVILLE, Or, April 3.—The democratic county convention Saturday nominated the following ticket:

Representative, George W Barnes; county judge, J C Sumner; county clerk, Arthur Hodges; sheriff, W A Booth; commissioner, H Taylor Hill; treasurer, Ed N White; assessor, W C Congleton; surveyor, S J Newsom; school superintendent, W R McFarland; coroner, E F Barnes. G W Barnes, R S Price, R E Miesner, H T Hill and T M Baldwin were elected delegates to the state convention.

Licensing Laundries

ASTORIA, April 3.—The city council tonight passed an ordinance providing for the licensing of public laundries, each of which will be compelled in the future to pay $10 monthly for the privilege of engaging in that business. Failure to keep the laundries clean is made an offense punishable by fine or imprisonment.

An Army of Tramps

GRANT'S PASS, Or, April 3.—Early this morning about 50 tramps, who were brought in on the north bound freight train, attempted to board the outgoing train and were ordered off. They gathered rocks and defied the trainmen, who withdrew and let them alone, but only about half of them left town. A part of the crowd was a hard lot and showed fight.

The Tacoma Election

TACOMA, April 3.—The republicans carried the city election here today, electing the republican city ticket by pluralities ranging from 141 to 600, the latter plurality being given the city physician. For mayor, Edward S Orr gets a plurality of 534. The new council will stand: Republicans, 8; populists, 6; democrats, 2.

A Poor Property

VALLEJO, Cal, April 3.—The Vallejo electric-light plant, in which about $100,000 has been sunk by local capitalists, was sold today by the sheriff for $2850 to ex-Senator James McCudden, of this place. San Francisco firms have claims aggregating $60,000.

Voorhees Speaks.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The principal interest in the senate today centered in the speech of Voorhees, chairman of the committee on finance, who thus launched the tariff question upon the sea of senatorial debate. While his speech was read from manuscript it was delivered with all the fiery energy which characterizes his usual extempore efforts. There was an unusually full attendance, both on the floor and in the galleries, and the conclusion of his speech was greeted with a hearty burst of applause.

The Tramps Tramping

BEAVER FALLS, Pa, April 1.—Several thousand people met the commonweal army this evening. A delegation of mounted citizens met Coxey and escorted him and his followers in a parade through the town. Camp was then pitched near the Beaver river, on College Hill. Meetings were held on the grounds at once and $36 collected by Marshal Smith. In the evening the usual meeting was held in the opera house, and after the crowd left, the army, 270 strong, were marched there and put to bed in the theater.

A Big Strike

CHICAGO, April 2.—Four thousand painters and paper hangers will be out of work in Chicago tomorrow night. About 400 painters stopped work today. The bosses decided to meet this method of partial warfare by a general lockout, which takes place tomorrow night. It will draw in kindred trades, and the outlook is that it may develop into a general tieup of all the building trades of the city. Eighteen hundred plumbers struck today.

Two Men Lost.

EUGENE, Or, April 2.—J L Downing and J Law, two men who started for the Bohemia mines a little over two weeks ago, are supposed to have perished in the mountains in that region. They registered at the Central hotel, in Cottage Grove, as from Eugene. They left there March 15 for the mines. The last man who saw them was Doc Pitcher.

The Kansas wheat Crop

KANSAS CITY, April 2.—The Star prints special dispatches from many points in Kansas giving the condition of the wheat crop. The reports leave no room to doubt that the wheat plant on a large area is in a critical condition and in urgent need of rain. Fully 3,000,000 acres out of the 4,500,000 in the state are suffering increasing impairment with every day of the present dry and windy weather.

Each of these gentlemen received respectively the largest vote that was ever cast for candidates since Goldendale has been in existence.

Dragging Along.

WASHINGTON, April, 1.—Although the Breckinridge-Pollard scandal has dragged through the circuit court for three weeks, to the exclusion of other cases equally important from a financial point, it promises to hold the boards for two weeks more. Judge Bradley has lengthened the daily session of the court by sitting until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, thus breaking the time-honored custom under which the local courts have always finished work at 3 P M.

After the Catholics

MILWAUKEE, Wis, April 1.—About 30 Polish members of the American Protective Association broke down the doors of the Catholic school, on Sixteenth avenue, with axes and hatchets. The St Vincent branch of the Catholic Columbian League, organized to counteract the A P A action in this city, was holding a meeting in the hall and locked the doors. This aroused the anger of the Polish members of the A P A, who were determined to break up the meeting

The Agony Begun

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The tariff bill will be taken up for consideration in the senate tomorrow at 2 o'clock, in accordance with the agreement arrived at by the committee on finance and the notice of Chairman Voorhees to that effect, and within all probability it will be the prominent topic of debate during the entire week. There are other measures which claim attention, none of them being likely to receive it without the consent of the managers of the tariff bill.

Sheep Shearers Organize

HEPPNER, April 1.—The sheep-shearers of Morrow county met yesterday for the purpose of organizing a sheep shearers' union. The object of the union is to cooperate with similar organizations in Umatilla, Baker and other counties in Eastern Oregon and Washington to keep the price of shearing from going below 5 cents per head

It promotes all the natural functions, and builds up, strengthens, regulates and cures. For women approaching confinement, nursing mothers, and every weak, run-down, delicate woman, it is an invigorating, supporting tonic that's peculiarly adapted to their needs.

But it's more than that, too. It's the only guaranteed remedy for all the functional disturbances, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of womanhood. In "female complaints" of every kind, periodical pains, bearing-down sensations, internal inflammation, and kindred ailments, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Something else that pays the dealer better, may be offered as "just as good." Perhaps it is for him, but it can't be, for you.
