Both legislative branches take a recess today for the purpose of coming to Corvallis and inspecting the Agricultural college. In view of the $59,030 appropriation asked for by that institution this tour of investigation is discreetly made;—while at the same time there is no fear but they will find everything all square. Preparations to receive the distinguished visitors with befitting courtesy, have been made.

E. P. Fullerton, a venerable pioneer of 1846 and resident of Alsea was at the county seat on business a day or two this week. He has an interesting fund of early history stored away in his vivid memory, has the versatility to relate it in an intelligent way and altogether is an attractive old pioneer to chat with. It is his opinion quite logically expressed that the county division project is very unwise.

EDWIN ALDEN ABBEY.

With the life that went out from the distinguished pioneer whose name heads this humble sketch, passed away a character that has figured inseparably with the history of Benton county from its infancy to the day of his death. Benton county could claim "Kit" Abbey (as he was familiarly called) as a patriarchal guardian of her early destiny and peculiarly her own through all the years that followed; yet not thus circumscribed the history attaching to his name, for that reaches out to pages of wider scope—to stories of his notable services to the country that stretches from ocean to ocean. Viewing him as a citizen and neighbor of the community which he has helped to foster and build up, his name is identified with its history, through all its gradations on the upward plane of development and progress and success. Glancing through the files of the GAZETTE far back to its early numbers, in 1864, not a volume of the [illegible] contains some reference to the [illegible] of "Kit" Abbey, and the large [illegible] of his fellow pioneers who came from remote places, to join those near by in paying their fallen brother their last respects attested the strength of esteem in which he was held by his fellow pioneers as well as the community entire. In reference to Mr. Abbey's history in the world at large, a sketch in Fagan's history of Benton county, dictated by himself, probably presents the subject more accurately and reliably than it can be gotten from any other source. It reads:

"Edwin Alden Abbey was born in Watertown, Jefferson county, N. Y., December 9, 1823, and in 1832, accompanied by his parents, located at Cleveland, Ohio. Here [illegible] until 1844, when he went south, [illegible] employed on the Mississippi river. [illegible] month of September, 1846, he sailed [illegible] New Orleans to Mexico, being attached to the quartermaster's department in the divisions of Generals Wool and Taylor. Having served until near the close of the war, he accompanied Col. Collins to Chihuahua, with dispatches to Gen. Price to evacuate that portion of the country, which duty being performed he rejoined the army on the line of march to Santa Fe, and was destined to accompany Company I, First Dragoons as wagon master, and was thus engaged with that corps until 1851. Mr. Abbey now came Overland, traveling as far as Fort Laramie with Kit Carson, and arrived in Benton county in the fall of that year. He located his claim about four miles from what was then Marysville (now Corvallis), having for his nearest neighbor Elijah Taggett, and at once set to farming. In 1856 Mr. Abbey, with Dr. T. J. Right and E. Hartless, made the pioneer journey to Yaquina bay, the former's reasons for the journey being one of simple pleasure and adventure; but with Dr. Right it was different, as he was appointed surgeon to the agency which had then been recently established on the coast. There were no roads, and Phil. Sheridan, then a lieutenant, was having his men cut a trail over the mountains to lead from the reservation to civilization. Mr. Abbey, following the trails, made Yaquina bay about two miles from its mouth. At that time there was not a single resident in that part of the country. In 1862 he took up his residence in Corvallis and there resided for about three years, and then moved to Yaquina and located a large tract of land (which he still owned at the time of his death,) near Elk City, 22 miles from Newport.

Mr. Abbey was married in Benton county Oregon, July 4th, 1852, to Miss Miranda Penland, who crossed the plains the previous year, and has a surviving family of one son and one daughter, viz: Richard M. and Clara A.—(the latter now Mrs. Lee Beach.

MRS. SUSAN C. HALL.

The death of Mrs. Hall, nee Susan C. Spalding, occurred at her home at Hall's Ferry, January 7th, 1893. Consumption had been her preying enemy for eight years past and brought her to an untimely end. In memory of the deceased the West Side gives a brief sketch as follows. "She was born in Sullivan county, Missouri, July 20th 1858; was married to W. R. Hall February 6th, 1876. Ten years before her death she was converted and united with the Evangelical church, of which she remained a faithful member till death. Mrs. Hall is remembered by her friends and neighbors as a woman of christian spirit, devoted to deeds of kindness. Especially was she a ministering spirit among the sick and suffering. She leaves a son and husband to mourn her departure, two children having preceded her. The funeral services were held in the M. E. church at Buena Vista, and a large concourse of people followed the body to its last resting place.

Mrs. Hall is well known in Corvallis, through years of residence here, and as the daughter of Mrs. Spaulding who is still living in this city. The mother is now prostrated with sickness brought on by the strain of long watching at her daughter's dying bedside, and grief over her bereavement. Verily; the hand of affliction has been laid heavily upon the afflicted. Four years ago her husband was taken from her side by the unyielding enemy—death; then again last November by the deadly sting of consumption fell her son Arthur, who had attained to an age of usefulness and worthy position in life; and now, following in the train of trying affliction is laid to rest the daughter whom she warmly cherished in her heart with a love such as only a true and faithful mother ever feels. A host of friends stand ready to minister their best care to the afflicted lady, to mingle their condolence with her grief and to comfort and sustain her in her lot of scathing sadness. To all such friends she desires to express her heartfelt thanks, and to invoke the benediction of heaven's choicest blessings upon all those who have been "friends indeed."

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE NOTES.

AN INTERESTING BATCH OF ITEMS FROM THAT INSTITUTION.

Members of the legislature and house of representatives will pay the college a visit today and tomorrow, our regular holiday being postponed until Monday.

On Wednesday, Jan. 18th, Webster's birthday was celebrated by the Websterian society. A very interesting programme, consisting of essays, recitations and music, both vocal and instrumental, was rendered. Deserving especial mention, was Mr. John Allen's recitation, "The Convict's soliloquy the night before execution." The expression and power that was displayed in the recitation was excellent. The biographical essay on Webster by Mr. Clement Wilkins and Mr. Wilbur Barnhart's recitation were also very good. The programme was arranged as follows:

Instrumental Solo Webster's March	Miss Nash
Recitation, "A Convict's Soliloquy	John Allen
Biographical Essay on Webster	C. Wilkins
Song, (Words by P. Nash)	Jennie Coffman
Recitation	Josh Swann
Music	by Quartette
Essay, "Webster as an Orator"	Miss Ida Wick
Recitation	W. T. Lee
Music	by Quartette
Essay, "Webster as a Statesman"	Miss Ina Gould
Recitation, Daniel Webster	Wilbur Barnhart
Duett, Guitar and Mandolin	Mrs Hogg and Mr Johnson
Closing Remarks	Pres. John M. Ross
Hymn, My Country 'tis of thee	by the Audience

The college athletic association has decided to give a tournament in the near future. This contest will be open to all members only. The programme as arranged will consist of performances on the horizontal and parallel bars, and on the rings; high and low tumbling; dumb-bell and Indian club swinging; sparring contests, and high and long jumping. There will be numerous races of all kinds on the programme—foot races, 30, 50, 75 and 100 yards, a bicycle race, hurdle race over 8 hurdles, and sack, potato and wheel barrow races. The prizes given will be in the form of badges and medals. There will be a first and second prize of badges to be given in all the contests; also a gold and silver medal for the best and second best all-around athlete in the association.

AMUSEMENT COMING SOON.

The proprietor of the opera house states that he has been negotiating during the winter with Cordray, the Portland theater man, and the following announcement is the result of his efforts:

CORDRAY'S DRAMATIC CO. EN ROUTE.

A great treat is in store for our neighboring cities up the valley. During the two weeks' engagement of the Calhoun opera company at their theatre in this city, beginning January 30, Messrs. Cordray & Co. will send their dramatic company in its entirety on a short tour through the valley cities, and will produce the two greatest successes of their almost unlimited repertoire. The plays will be "Humbug" and "Rip Van Winkle," each of which had an unprecedented run in this city of three weeks to immense business. The citizens of the towns visited will, no doubt, turn out en masse, as the treat promised them is a rare one. The complete company will make the tour, thus guaranteeing them the same splendid performances as are given at their home theater.—Oregonian.

Mr. Cordray has expressed a willingness to send his stock company through the valley at regular intervals, if the public desires it, thus bringing first class, reliable dramatic talent within the reach of all who like that sort of diversion. A good play, which applauds nobility of character and shows the meanness and contemptibility of sin and vice is not a bad teacher at all and Cordray's company produce only good plays. They will begin in February.

IN JUSTICE COURT.

Before Justice Davis in due time, appeared Ed. Montgomery and young Adam Bumbarger, the actors in last week's shooting affrays, for examination. The outcome of it was that Montgomery was bound under bond of $250, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, and in default was confined in the county jail. Bumbarger was bound over for simple assault with bond fixed at $100, which he furnished and goes his way.

In the case of the two Chinamen, arrested for selling whisky to Indians, they were arraigned, pleaded guilty and were placed under bonds of $200 each to appear before the United States court at Portland. Deputy Marshal Sinnot came up yesterday to escort the law breakers down where Uncle Sam's judicial grist mill continues to grind. Two jaunty looking aborigines accompanied them as witnesses; and in addition to the frolic they've already had here, escaping the usual penalty which other men generally have to pay when caught in the swell of a rantankerous booze, they still have a picnic to enjoy in the trip to Portland and back, with witness fees and a whole lot of joy thrown in.

PROPOSALS TO FURNISH THE COUNTY IN WOOD.

Sealed bids will be received by the county court at the February term, to furnish the county 50 cords of oak grub wood and 30 cords of body wood of old growth red fir. All wood to be full four feet long and to be cut before the sap raises; to be delivered between the first day of June and the first day of August, 1893. All wood to be first-class wood.

The court reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

IMPORTANT TO SETTLERS.

HOW THE TITLES STAND TO LANDS WITHIN THE RAILROAD LIMITS.

The following recent correspondence between a Benton county resident and the department of the interior at Washington will be of interest to settlers all along the line of the Oregon & California railroad grant. Mr. Frank Hughes, of Lobster in this county, wrote letters of inquiry to the department, and it is in answer to these that the appealed letter was forwarded. It is self-explanatory and reads:

GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C.

MR. FRANK HUGHES,
Lobster, Benton Co., Oregon:

SIR:—By departmental reference, I am in receipt of your letter of the 7th inst., addressed to the secretary of the interior, in which you state that you settled on a certain tract of land before it was surveyed and that now, since it has been surveyed, you find that it is within the limits of the grant to the Oregon & California railroad company. You, therefore, wish to be advised as to whether you can retain the land.

"In reply, you are advised that within the twenty mile limits of the grant to said company, in order to defeat the grant, a settlement must have been made upon the land at the time the company's right attached by definite location, even though the land was unsurveyed.

"Within the indemnity a bona fide settlement existing at the time of selection by the railroad company, will except the land from the operation of the grant, provided such selection was made after the revocation of the indemnity withdrawal, Aug. 15th, 1887. If the railroad selection was made prior to such revocation, a settlement to defeat the selection, must have been made prior to the date of the indemnity withdrawal. Very respectfully,

Commissioner."

DIED.

At his residence in this city, Sunday, January 15th 1893, of cancer of the stomach, Edwin Alden Abbey, aged 69 years, 1 month and 6 days.

Funeral took place from the family residence at 1 o'clock on Monday last Rev. E. J. Thompson officiating. The remains were laid to rest in the Newton cemetery, and were followed to their last resting place by a large circle of sorrowing friends and acquaintances, from far and near, who mourn the loss of an honorable citizen and steadfast friend. [For more extended reference to the life of deceased, see another column.]

A Great Boon to London Mechanics.

Nearly 600 young men and women have applied for membership in the splendid new Polytechnic in the Borough road. The big institution must prove the greatest boon to the densely packed district in the midst of which it stands. It does one's heart good in going over the building to see the way in which Mr. Edric Bayley and Mr. Evan Spicer, L. C. C., and other south London philanthropists have combined the usual "poly" features—gymnasium, swimming bath, laboratories, carpenters' shops, photographic studies, and so on, with excellently equipped rooms for laundry work and plain sewing.

At a small cost the men's and women's clubrooms have been given an exceedingly refined and attractive appearance. For a deposit of five shillings, to cover breakages, the young chemists are to be provided with a bench and cupboard full of requisites, which is wonderful in its completeness. In every department, in fact, the same thoroughness is apparent. Even the music class rooms have double doors.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Good Moose Hunting in the North.

Mr. Colin Rankin, Hudson Bay factor at Mattawa, is in town. In conversation he stated that considerable moose hunting is taking place near Mattawa, on the Quebec side of the river. Hunters from the United States and England visit the locality where the moose are very plentiful, and kill the animals for their heads, the Indian guides getting the meat and hide, besides $2.20 per day as their recompense. No cows or young animals are killed, only the old bulls with the big horns.

The Indians can so closely imitate the moose call that there is no difficulty whatever in getting a shot, as the moose bull when he hears this peculiar call at once goes to see what it means, when the hunter, if he is an accurate shot, kills the noble beast.—Toronto Empire.

Fifty Shillings for a Mustache.

A mustache is not regarded as a marketable commodity, but a man disposed of his upper lip ornament the other day to a beardless youth who envied him its possession. The two men were sitting in a cafe, when the youth, in a moment of guileless desire, said, "I will give you fifty shillings for your mustache." "Done," replied the other with dramatic promptitude, and calling for a pair of scissors he laid the mustache on the table. The young fellow protested that he was only joking, but his companion issued a county court summons for the amount agreed upon and received it without much trouble.—London Million.

Thrifty Scotchmen.

The thrifty Scotchmen who manage the affairs of the town of Paisley have leased the street lampposts to an advertising firm, to be fitted up with frames for the display of advertising posters. The lease carried with it the provision that any work required in connection with fitting up the lampposts should be done by a Paisley tradesman.—Exchange.
