Salem Sensation.

Salem is still considerably agitated over an elopement that took place in the capital city some time ago. The Albany Telescope tells the best story of it that has been published as follows:

Seven or eight years ago, Rev. J. L. Parrish, then over 80 years of age, was united in marriage to a Mrs. Mattie Pearce, a goodlooking widow with one child, her former husband having been killed by her uncle in a dispute over a line fence between two farms. They apparently lived as happy together as such people usually do, until she formed the acquaintance of O. W. Jones, a negro barber. She at once hired him as the family coachman, and he took up his home at her residence leaving his wife and own family. Their acquaintance grew into perfect infatuation, at least on her part. She paid all his bills and dressed him exquisitely—one cigar bill amounting to $68. Her conduct became the talk of the community, but her wealth attracted the church people and she was thus enabled to hold her position in society.

Jones was mentally afflicted and five different times was sent to the asylum, but each time she had him released and took back to her home. The culminating point was reached last week as is always the result in such cases. At every business house she had run bills, as being wealthy her credit had been unlimited. Creditors became uneasy, however, and finally the sheriff was given papers in a suit for money. Wednesday he went to serve them but she plead sickness and asked him to call the next day. That afternoon she went to the asylum and had Jones released as he had been sent there for the sixth time for horse whipping and attempting to shoot her. Her plea to Mr Rowland was that she wanted to take her invalid husband to Portland for medical treatment and insisted on having Mr. Jones to care for him going down. The scheme worked and all three went to Portland. Old Mr. Parrish was taken to his son's home, and she and the negro left on the night steamer for San Francisco. She had sold everything she could, mortgaged their beautiful suburban home and had taken with her in cold cash about $40,000. As the property was in her name she had violated no law and hence could not be stopped. Her husband, one of the old pioneers of Oregon, always wealthy, is left to die penniless through the intrigues of a woman whose diseased brain has caused her to leave home and family for a crazy negro.

Word has been received at The Dalles that A. J. Dufur, the pioneer and well-known citizens of Dufur, is ying at the point of death. He is about 80 years of age.

A Former Lane County Sheriff.

We take the following from the Mitchell Monitor, published at Mitchell, Crook county, Oregon, about Jos Meadow, who was sheriff of Lane county from 1866 to 1870: "The editor of this paper had the pleasure of meeting an old time friend in this city a week ago Monday. This old-time friend was none other than Joseph Meadow, with whom we have had many thrilling adventures away back in the fifties. There is probably no other man in the state of Oregon today whose life has been one of such a romantic character and so full of thrilling adventure. About thirty years ago the writter met Mr. Meadow for the last time until by the merest chance we fell in together at the time stated. Mr. Meadow is now in his seventy-third year, but is quite active yet, and would undertake to give a grizzly its quietus with the same sang froid as in the days of '49. The old gentleman is now living on a ranch near Waldron, and his trip here a few days ago is the first he has paid Mitchell for some four years."

Case Dismissed.

Daily Guard, November 26.

On Monday of last week Constable Linton arrested one Applewhite on a charge of assault and battery preferred against him by Robert Schmidt. Owing to neither party being ready for the trial it was postponed until Saturday. Schmidt, who was trespassing upon Applewhite's place, had been warned before not to do so, when told to leave the premises he got a "little sassy" and Applewhite grabbed hold of him and pointing to the fence told him to go. Applewhite was given a jury trial and acquitted. The parties to the disagreement live about seven miles southwest of here.

QUITE COMPLIMENTARY.—In writing of the Y. W. C. A. held in that city, the Albany Herald among other things has this: "The delegates began arriving on the noon locals yesterday. The Eugene delegation, from the State University, landed first. The little band is composed of some of the brightest, happiest and most intelligent faces which ever greeted our fair city. It is said that Eugene is noted for the hospitality of its people and the beauty of its girls, so we need say nothing more than that this delegation is certainly not an exception to their part of this rule."

Daily Guard, November 26.

WANTS A DIVORCE.—Portland Sun, of Sunday: Judge Stearns heard evidence yesterday in the divorce case of Minnie Hickerthier against Gustav Hickerthier. The plaintiff bases her prayer for separation on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married in Eugene in April, 1875, and since that time abuse has been heaped upon the plaintiff. The defendant possesses property valued at $10,500. The plaintiff asks for one-half interest in this property and $50 a month alimony. The trial will be resumed Monday.

GOOD PRICE FOR WHEAT.—We take the following item from the Long Creek, Grant County, Eagle, of Nov. 23: "Tom and Ves Hinton returned from John Day Monday, where they have delivered 200 bushels of A 1 wheat, receiving 60 cents per bushel therefor. The boys have 800 bushels to freight to John Day." If such prices prevailed here things would boom.

TO HARRISBURG.—C. G. LeMasters, editor of the Linn County Review, informs us that he will immediately remove his plant from Sodaville to Harrisburg and begin the publication of a 7-column paper in that city. Harrisburg once had a paper and is now fully aware of the beneficial results that are sure to follow the establishing of such an industry.

CHEAP SACKS.—Albany Democrat: The Albany Farmers Co., of this city, has just made a contract for 50,000 sacks at 4½ cents per sack, a saving of 3 or 4 cent a sack over previous years. The decrease in price is due to the recent tariff legislation and needs no argument to show the benefit of it. It means about 1½ cents more per bushel for wheat next year.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.—County Clerk Jennings has issued the following marriage licenses: William Hills and Miss Sarah Renfrow; John Warren C. Rogers and Miss Lillie Eugenia Foss.

It is now said that besides Senator Dolph the other candidates for U. S. Senator at the coming legislature will be T. H. Tongue, R. P. Lord, Binger Hermann and C. W. Fulton. Senator Dolph leaves Portland this evening to be in attendance at the opening of Congress.

Chinamen who are familiar with the Mongolian pheasant at home, claim that in time the bird will become so plentiful in Oregon that it will not find feed enough in the grain fields but will attack the gardens.—Ex. That might be true in China where they shoot pop guns; but not in Oregon, where there is lots of powder and shot and hundreds of crack wing shots.

John Henderson, lost near the summit, in Benton county, has not been heard from. Two or three shots were heard several days ago, and it is thought he had accidentally shot himself, and was firing warning shots.

The Brownsville Times, the home of Cameron, has this among other things to say of the recent foot race at Albany: Some of Trine's friends say they are willing to match the race again, and if they mean business it is more than probable that the sporting public will again have an opportunity to see Mr. Trine defeated. Mr. Cameron requested us to state that he is ready to match the same race over to take place at any time.

County Clerk Jennings has received a circular letter from Mr. H. C. Smith, county clerk of Multnomah county, asking that all the county clerks and recorders of the state assemble in Portland on December 19, 1894, for the purpose of forming a permanent state association and to talk over matters of mutual interest and possibly to ask some needed legislation in the form of amendments to the present laws governing clerks and recorders.

Mrs. N. K. Frazer arrived home from a visit at Harrisburg with her brother, Boliver Cogswell, this afternoon.

Miss Maude Wilkins was elected vice president of the State Y. W. C. A., at Albany, Saturday afternoon. An excellent choice.

Wm. Kyle, wife and son, of Florence, are visiting in Eugene. Mr. Kyle is postmaster, councilman, a leading merchant and proprietor of a cannery, at Lane county's seaport town.

Judge J. C. Fullerton was a passenger to Toledo, Lincoln county, on this morning's local. Circuit court will commence there tomorrow morning. The term will probably last only four or five days.

Rev. Felix Z. Nesbitt, pastor of the C. P. church at Cottage Grove, Oregon, preached at Junction City at 11 o'clock yesterday, and on his return home stopped off over night at Eugene and preached an excellent sermon at the C. P. church.

Colonel John Lane, special Indian inspector, passed through Toledo Wednesday on his way to the Siletz agency. The Leader understands that his mission is to pay the Indians their first payment of money due them on their lands. This amounts to $75 to every male over 21 years of age and every female over 18. It is estimated that over $18,000 will be dispensed this time.

The attempt to tow big rafts of piles from northern ports to San Francisco will probably be abandoned. It seems to be the general impression that an occasional raft may make the trip, when every thing is favorable, but that in the end it will be found to be a more expensive way of shipping than on vessels. Ship owners never did go much on the rafting scheme any way.

ANOTHER BURGLARY.

A House on West Seventh Street Was Ransacked Last Night.

Daily Guard, November 26.

Last night between 7 and 8 o'clock, while the family were absent at church, the residence of Mrs. M. McCornack, on the corner of Seventh and Lincoln streets, was broken into. The persons entered by prying open a window on the porch fronting on Seventh street. The house was evidently searched all over, but the only article missing is a purse containing about $6. Some of the tracks on the porch are of a narrow, pointed shoe, and evidently those of a girl or woman; while other tracks are there they are evidently larger but indistinct. As the family was nearing home on their return from church they noticed a man hurrying west on Seventh street, but thought nothing of it until they reached home and found the window open. The presence of the woman's shoe prints is so far a complete mystery.

It would be well for everybody to observe due caution when leaving their homes now as there are a good many suspicious characters traveling about. A little forethought might be the means of saving you a great deal of annoyance, to say nothing of valuables.

Florence Items.

The West, Nov. 23.

The boiler, at the saw mill of C. R. David, is out of repair, and no work is being done at that institution at present.

Football Notes.

Daily Guard, November 26.

Football is the only kind of out-door athletics indulged in these days and consequently all people interested in sports of any kind have turned their attention to it. By Thursday everybody will be in an excited state of mind over the result of the game to be played on that afternoon. If the Oregon Weather Bureau will be kind enough to grant us fair weather for that day, we predict the largest crowd will witness this game that ever was in attendance upon a similar game here. The grounds are being fitted up at the Stewart race track; the goal posts being already put in and other work done, and with the exception of perhaps being somewhat muddy will be a "gridiron" all right. The U. of O. boys will commence practicing out there this afternoon to get accustomed to the grounds.

The game Saturday afternoon between the U. of O. third team and the Central school first team resulted in an easy victory for the former. They won the game by a score of 48 to 4. Several pretty plays were made on both sides and the boys were all enthusiastic. A fair-sized crowd witnessed the game.

It Takes The Cake.

Cottage Grove Leader: We took a walk along the mountain side Tuesday and soon struck the headquarters of the waterworks. We found Frank Wooley monarch of all he surveyed. We found him just preparing to put a concrete wall in the well that receives the two streams of water that come from its natural mountan springs just above, in all its wild gushing delight. From this well the water runs into a grand reservoir of concrete walls and covered with a splendid roof, and surrounded by a house. The reservoir was about half full, and will by Saturday, no doubt, be brim full and running over. About 15000 gallons each day will run into the reservoir which has a capacity of 125,000 gallons. This water is already placed in a large number of business houses and residences in our city, and we take pride in announcing that no city in Oregon—no city in the great big world, has any purer or more healthy water than the people of this city now. For drinking, it is too grand to contemplate—unless you are awful thirsty and can't hold yourself from devouring unknown quantities of the gushing, spurting and sparkling nectar, sweet as the dew drops floating upon the petals of the rarest flowers and the most exquisite perfume.

IMPORTANT DECISION.—Corvallis Times: One of the most important cases before the present term of the circuit court, was the case of Mrs. Friendly against the creditors of the estate of Max Friendly. Mrs. Friendly's complaint alleged that cattle that belonged to her had been disposed of during the period from 1889 to 1892 by Max Friendly, and that the proceeds from the sale of such cattle was a part of the assets of the estate of Max Friendly, and asked that her claim be placed on an equal footing with other claims against the property. The assignee as well as the creditors fought the case. The trial was by jury and the verdict gave Mrs. Friendly a claim against the estate in the sum of $1,818, which claim becomes a bonafide indebtedness of the estate and subject to the same rights as other claims.

MARRIED.—At Irving, Nov. 21, by W. B. Yates, J. P., Mr. A. Ludtke and Miss Sarah Wiscarson.

The Indians are Happy.

The matter of paying the Indians for their lands on the Siletz reservation is a thing of interest over in Lincoln county, and the Corvallis Times' Elk City correspondent has been over to see how the job is worked. He writes: "Col. John Lane, special agent of the government, together with a clerk and one Indian policeman, occupy a small room to which outsiders are not admitted. The policeman calls out a name, and the Indian who lays claim to it goes in and gets his check. This makes the colonel both important and popular among the Indians, many of whom in their ignorance, think the money comes from him. It is both interesting and pathetic to see the lame, the halt and the blind file into the office, and come out with the government check, which they eye with quizzical and superstitious curiosity.

The Indians are all wreathed in bright smiles over the fact that they have picked out the cream of the lands and are selling the mountains to the whites for cash. It is a fact, however, that when the unallotted lands are opened for settlement, four or five hundred families may find good homes in the Siletz. Twenty-two thousand dollars is the amount that will be paid out, all told, and 310 Indians will be rich, for a while, at least. Several thousand dollars in cash was shipped into Toledo, with which to cash the checks, for the process of which a small charge is exacted to pay the express charges."

O. R. & N. Eating-House.

Portland Telegram: "The O. R. & N. Co. is going back to first principles in the matter of feeding its passengers, and will conduct its own eating-houses along the line. Its new eating-house at Meacham is nearly completed, and when opened will probably be the only loghouse in America in which the passengers of a railway company are fed. It will be conducted by the O. R. & N. Co., and will be under the direction of Mrs. Munra, of Eugene, who was famous with the traveling public a few years ago as conductress of the O. R. & N. Co.'s eating-house at Bonneville, when its reputation for superior meals and service was widely extended. The company proposes to make its eating-houses a feature of its road. No attempt will be made to conduct them at profit, and the meals served will be such that they will not be excelled by any dining hall in America. Meacham is located near the summit of the Blue mountains, one of the highest points on the road, and 45 miles east of Pendleton."

Mrs. Munra, we understand, will take charge of the above eating house the first of the year. Her daughter, Mrs. Watkins, will take charge of the university dormintory.

LIFE AT INDEPENDENCE.—A very lively affair occurred in Independence yesterday. A trial was in progress before Justice Irvine, in which Ben Hayden and sons had caused to be placed underarrest two Jordan boys, for assault with a dangerous weapon, they having in a quarrel, it seems drawn a pistol. During the course of the trial, Ciel Hayden came in, and walking up behind one of the Jordan boys drew a pistol. Some one threw up his arm and the bullet went through the stove pipe and lodged in the wall. Ben Hayden then jumped on the boy, and with the help of officers, attempted to overpower Ciel. About this time Bill Hayden came on the scene, with a pistol in his hand. In the meantime the crowd had rushed out of the building, and the door not being large enough, they also went through a large glass front. Bill Hayden was tackled by an officer and several bystanders, and after a struggle the pistol was secured and he and Ciel taken to the county jail. In attempting to put Bill in Tom Lowery and Marshal Williams knocked him down, and then locked him up. A large crowd witnessed the whole affair and the frantic efforts of those in the court room to escape was the subject of much jest.

DEATH OF OLLIE HUSTON.—Ollie Huston, the well-known gambler, died in Scio, on Nov. 19, at the age of 22 years, 4 months, 12 days. The Press says: "While many people may object to the habits and associations formed by him, all knew him to be obliging and generous. Popular among his associates, his early demise will cause a feeling of sadness to many of them. When we think of the faults and frailties of humanity and how prone we are to do evil, we should extend that mantle of charity to others, even as we would have it extended to us."

TO LOOK AT THE O. P.—Monday's Albany Democrat: Several railroad men were expected in Albany this noon to go to the front of the O. P. on an inspecting tour. The party will probably be up tonight, and will consist of Hammond and Bonner, the men who have been talking about building a railroad from Astoria. If they build it the way they are building the Astoria road the outlook will not be good. At the same time they have a good reputation and the Astoria fiasco may have a good excuse for it, though it makes us weary. Come on, gentlemen, the O. P. is the best railroad proposition in the west.

Corvallis Times: John Rickard's big black team changed hands this morning. E. L. Holcomb, a horse buyer from Seattle, was the purchaser and the price paid for them was $550, cash. Just before the bargain was made the four horses were weighed and tipped the beam as follows: 1,490, 1,490, 1,500 and 1,560; total 6,010 pounds. They were raised by Mr. Rickard and were about the handsomest heavy team Benton county ever produced.

Daily Guard, November 23.

AFTER LIQUOR DEALERS.—Heppner Gazette: Sunday night, last, two women of the W C T U, scoured the town for evidence of open saloons. Evidently they are of the opinion that their labors are fruitful, for this morning every saloon man in town was pulled. Numerous subpoenas have also been served. The trials are set for tomorrow before Judge Hallock, of the city court.

A suit of foreclosure has been entered in the Lane county circuit court by Perry Frank against Julia A. and D. E. Knight for the sum of $2,432.63.

Coon Valley Notes.

Nov. 26.

The prevailing weather is not very desirable.

The turkeys of this valley are awaiting their doom with no signs of emotion.

Editor Thorpe, of the Echo-Leader, took a "broad guage sniff o' country air" in the land of the coon a week or so ago. He needs recuperation.

Mrs. Hoyt and daughter Pearl of Hard Scrabble visited at Felix Currins last Wednesday.

Ed Snyder, of Whitsett mountain, makes an occasional trip to this region, presumably to see our captivating school ma'am.

Spelling school is the all-attractive feature at the Hard Scrabble school house every Friday eve.

Ebenezer Pickerel has been retained to serve as janitor and door keeper for the Thanksgiving entertainment to be given by the Coon Valley school on that day. A satisfactory selection.

Benj Harrison and wife, of Mosby creek, visited friends in the valley last week.

Rev. Ingle of Portland is holding a meeting at the Bedford school house on Row river.

Next Thursday will be a great day in Coon valley. Rev. Walden will preach the Thanksgiving sermon, and at high noon a public dinner will be served. At 1:30 p. m. the school exhibition will begin. No slipping of cogs nor reserved seats. The reading of the new school journal, the Flip Flap, will be a notable feature of the program.

PECK'S BAD BOY.

A Disgusted Chinaman.

Long Creek Eagle: The China store keeper of Susanville played "sucker" last Friday evening and today mourns the loss of $100. Last Friday evening a stranger came in and bought a $10 bill of goods, and presented a $100 Confederate bill in payment therefor. The Chinaman without examining the bill promptly gave the stranger $90 in gold in return. The mistake was not discovered until the following morning, and then Mr. Chinaman was not in a position to do anything, the man presenting the worthless money being a stranger, and the chinaman unable to describe him. It is safe to say that this China merchant will be more particular in the future about giving out change for spurious looking $100 bills.

Valuable Pacer Purchased.

Daily Guard, November 27.

This forenoon Geo. W. Gill, Harvey Summerville, A. J. Pickard and Postmaster Craig purchased from the McKenzie stock farm, the two year old pacer Sophia R. Terms, private. Last summer this highly bred animal paced a mile, without crowding, in 2:20 She has all the marks of a race horse and we predict that if no accident happens her, that she will prove one of the fastest animals on the coast.

It is likely that the filly will be sent to Grants Pass at once and placed in training.
