CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"The use of 'Castoria' is so universal and its merits so well known that it seems a work of supererogation to endorse it. Few are the intelligent families who do not keep Castoria within easy reach."
Carlos Martyn, D. D., New York City.

Castoria cures Colic, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhœa, Eructation, Kills Worms, gives sleep, and promotes digestion, Without injurious medication.

"For several years I have recommended your 'Castoria,' and shall always continue to do so as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

BICYCLE COURSE.—A bicycle course is being established on the campus of the University of Oregon. The track is to be completed in a short time and will be in readiness for field day exercises during commencement week. Wid McGee has the contract for building the track and commenced work with severa teams this morning. The course is one-fourth of a mile in circumference, and is located on the west side of the campus, extending clear across from the north to the south side. The track will cross the west walk, leading to Deady Hall, in two places. Owing to the rise in the ground quite an excavation will have to be made on the east side.

STATE HOUSE NEWS.

Battleship Committee—The Railroad Commission Case.

Secretary of State Kincaid has engaged Col. Drake, of Portland, to represent the state in the case of the railroad commission. He has employed no other attorneys and does not know yet whether Attorney-General Idleman will appear for or against the commission. On Saturday Mr. Kincaid had a consultation with Mr. Ford, of Salem. But that gentleman seemed to think that one lawyer could handle the case better than several.

The following named gentlemen were appointed yesterday, by Governor Lord, as a general executive committee for devising ways and means of purchasing a suitable testimonial for the battleship Oregon: W. H. D. Gray, Astoria; C. H. Dodd, Portland; Thos. Wright, Union; J. H. Raley, Pendleton; Chas. Nickell Jacksonville; R. W. Johnson, Corvallis; J. H. McClung, Eugene. The committee is to meet at Salem, Wednesday, May 8th.

The controversy between the state public buildings board and the Salem electric light company was compromised yesterday morning by the company consenting to a reduction of 200 lights from their bill for lighting the State House, the same not being used.

Henry Failing declined his appointment as commissioner to the Mexico City international fair. The governor has appointed Editor Pentland of the Independence West Side to succeed him.

Corvallis Times: Much anxiety is felt for M. P. Taylor. On arrival at Portland the surgeons declined to attempt another operation on account of his great weakness. A letter from him by Saturday's mail announced that he was too weak to walk out to the mail after it had been written. He is expected home again in a day or two." This is the gentleman who had a portion of his intestine removed recently.

The Ping Yang school house on Mohawk, which was blown up by dynamite last sunday night, is being rebuilt and studies will be resumed next Monday.

A father is in jail at Salem charged with the unnatural murder of his son.

The Durrant murder trial is still the sensation of San Francisco. The coroner is through with the inquest, and the preliminary examination has begun.

The republicans of the eastern states are rapidly getting on the gold standard platform. The three leading candidates, Harrison, McKinley and Reed are gold men.

The philanthropic Pullman company that caused the country so much trouble and expense last year has just declared the regular quarterly two per cent. dividend.

The Mohawk parties who have been endeavoring to destroy a school house are treading on dangerous ground. The state has an institution at Salem that is kept ready for such offenders.

The lumber industry in the Northwest, that was to be literally ruined by the repeal of the McKinley law, according to McKinley, Dolph and such statesmen, is in a better condition than for some years past.

A peculiar effect of the income tax law lately interpreted by the United States supreme court is, that the man who pays rent is taxed, while the man who receives it is not. Pullman is sure to contend that he rents his sleepers.

It may be all right for Uncle Sam to keep John Bull off the South American grass, but he should first be made to keep his hands off our financial policy, as though his manipulations silver has been demonetized and distress brought upon the American masses.

Recent developments show that Paul Schulze had ample reason to suicide at Tacoma the other day, if reason there can be for committing self murder. It has come to light he abused trusts reposed in him, and the defalcations may amount close to a million dollars.

The European land grabbing powers are snarling and grumbling because they are not able to secure any territory out of the China-Japan imbroglio. Japan understands something of diplomacy and is likely to conduct affairs so as to allow no pretext for outside interference.

The supreme court of Michigan has just declared constitutional the "anti-fusion" act passed by the present legislature, which provided that a candidate for office, where he received the nomination from more than one party, should elect before a given date on which ticket he would run, and that, failing to do this, his name would be placed on the first ticket certified to, but in no case could said candidate appear more than once on the official ballot.

MORE WORK, LESS SURVEYS.

The Salem Statesman, in common with many others, is anxious that better work be done on Willamette river improvements. It says: "If Major Post's survey of the Willamette is no more fertile in results than his interviews are in satisfaction, Salem and the up-river country may expect no good to be accomplished when upon final hearing congress acts upon the report of the engineers. The facts are, for years and years the government has been surveying and re-surveying the Willamette under one pretext or another, until a sufficient sum of money has been spent on surveys to have scraped every bar, pulled every snag and completed a revetment at every curve between Clackamas bottom and Skinner's butte. But still we are encouraged—we are so easily encouraged—for the major holds out the fulsome information that, provided the stage of water permits, the snagboat may reach here sometime during May. When the old survey stakes and anchors will be pulled out and a new line run! This is all given with a proviso—that the very meager government appropriation is not all exhausted by that time, and that a new appropriation is made! This section is becoming very tired of surveys and ambiguous reports. What we want is for the government to get down to business and give us a navigable river."

The highest salaried employe in the United States is supposed to be the president of the Equitable Life Assurance society, Henry B. Hyde. He receives annually $100,000. John A. McCall gets $75,000 to be president of of the New York Life. Samuel Spencer recives $50,000 a year for telling Pierpont Morgan what he knows about railroads. Mr. Cleveland receives $50,000 a year and a house and lot for being president. Mr. Depew's salary as president of the New York Central railroad is believed to be $50,000. Cornelius Vanderbilt's cook receives $16,000 a year. The sheriff of New York used to make $100,000 and over every year, but his wings have been clipped. Masini receives $50,000 a season for singing his mighty tenor in Madrid. Jean de Reszke receives $5,000 for singing one song—the "Salut demeure," from Faust. Patti's contract called for $5,000 a night when she was at the height of her fame, but she had to give $500 of it to her agent. Taral, the jockey, has made $30,000 in a season. President Felix Faure, of the French Republic, receives $250,000 a year. Admiral Greer's pay is $6,000. An English general's pay is $27.50 a day, and the pay of an English admiral is 19,000 a year. Ambassador Bayard receives $17,500 a year. Sir Julian Pauncefort, British ambassador to this country, receives $30,000 per annum. Britain's ambassador to France, the best paid diplomatic personage in the world, receives $50,000 a year.

The farmers that build their own granaries save storage, insurance, and the risk of the grain being stolen. At the present many must store as the roads are in such a condition that winter hauling can not be thought of. But the people are taking more interest in good roads, and building them on a more scientific principle. When the main road arteries are built farmers can save largely on the charges against their grain and other products. This is the season for working roads. Every citizen should take a personal interest in the question, and work to the best advantage. If he does not the supervisor should take a hand in the matter.

Both Bradstreet and Dunn's reports of business for last week show decided improvement in all branches of business throughout the United States, and the feeling of confidence is rapidly being restored. The price of all farm products is increasing, and many new industries are being established in all parts of Uncle Sam's domain, which will cause money to circulate more freely. Notwithstanding the croakings of prophets to the contrary, 1895 gives promise of a most successful year as regards business.

A fireless locomotive engine was recently used on the Aix-la-Chapelle Julich Railway. The motive power is derived from soda. The invention is based on the principle that solutions of caustic soda which have high boiling points, liberate heat while absorbing steam. These engines eject neither smoke nor steam, and work noiselessly. Compared with coal-burning, the soda engines show a capacity equal to the former, while they are worked with greater ease and simplicity.

C. P. Huntington, president of Southern Pacific railroad, is under arrest for violation of the law. It is not the first time he has grossly violated the law, but before arrest was escaped. Of course the worshippers at the shrine of power feel greatly concerned over the annoyance to which the railroad magnate is subjected. Huntington is a self confessed briber of members of congress, for which he was never called to account, and it does seem ridiculous to arrest him now for issuing a pass in violation of the interstate commerce law.

MONDAY, APRIL 22

Quite warm.

Just a little frost this morning.

This is the weather that will make trout bite.

Marshal Day today received a letter from Chief of Police Minto of Portland requesting him to forward the trunk and guitar left at the Hotel Eugene to that city. It is thought that they may yet be identified as some of the goods stolen by Esther Tripp and A. C. Jones.

Mr. Horace McClure, of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, was admitted to the bar last week. Mr. McClure was born in Eugene, and is a graduate of the state university. His friends in Oregon will be pleased to hear of his entry into the practice of law.

Sunday's Oregonian says: Professor D. V. S. Reid, principal of the Eugene Public schools, is registered at the Imperial. Mr. Reid was the democratic candidate for state superintendent of public instruction at the last election, and run far ahead of his ticket. Mr. Reid says the fruit crop in Lane county promises to be very large this year. The frosts have done no injury, and all kinds of fruit trees are rich in blossoms.

A squib in the last issue of the Corvallis Times reminded an old timer of D. Stone. "I know Dick Stone," he said. "He was a son-in-law of Shoemaker Manzee, and was not much account. Manzee had another son-in-law just like him. He had an unmarried daughter, too, and Bill Gird once said that if a real good man would marry Manzee's unmarried daughter, Manzee would have 100 son-in-law. The good one would be the 'I' and the other two would be the two 'O's.'"

The Oregon Frater, published at Portland says: Hon. J. J. Walton, P. G. M., and grand representative, Eugene, will deliver the address at the anniversary exercises of the lodges of this city on the 22th inst.

Albany Democrat: It is rumored that one of the members of the Senter Payton Company will be united in marriage this week in this city to a young lady, not a member of the troup who will be visiting in the city.

Jim Hoffman and Lee Wallis are not responsible for this story. It comes from an exchange: "A Columbia river fisherman, while rowing toward Ranier a few days before the fishing season opened, accidentally caught 86 salmon that flounced into his boat from the passing waves."

A wealthy Arizona man has sued for a divorce because his wife is older than she represented herself, having resorted to powders to make herself look young. A man who will judge a woman of uncertain age by her appearance and representations when asking her to marry him deserves to have to live with her.

Bert Osburn has an ad in a Roseburg paper in which the interesting news is conveyed that he "is a natural born American citizen, speaks the American language, and conducts the business in an American way." We are not certain about his speaking the American language, although he is probably familiar with Chinook jargon.

A Pendleton dispatch says: Jude Sawtelle, living on the Columbia river, contracted for thousand horses to a Portland syndicate. They will be slaughtered at Portland and M. Sawtelle, the most noted horse buyer in all parts of the canyon country, says this is now the only market for thousands of horses running on the Eastern Oregon and Washington ranges. The price paid was less than $5 per head.

Save the Gun Factory.

If there is anything in the world Eugene needs to keep the town alive it is factories. We should not only keep those we have but secure others. The indifference shown by the people of Eugene is not surprising since they know comparatively nothing about manufacturing and do not know the advantages to be derived from having manufacturing concerns in their midst. The Sachs Gun Factory is now upon substantial ground. His patents are complete giving this factory the sole monopoly for the manufacture of this gun for the United States and, when wanted, all the balance of the civilized world. The factory is now practically completed and ready for operation but it takes a little more money to buy steel and other material and to pay wages before the returns from sales begin to come in. Just a little more money advanced as a loan at this time will place this factory in a position to pay out $250.0 or more a month for labor. Such a pay roll would help the business of the town more than anything now in our midst. It would maintain thirty or forty families and give an additional market for farm produce.

This factory need not confine itself to the manufacture of guns. The machines used can be employed for making a hundred other different things such as bicycles, steam and gasoline engines, door locks, garden tools, etc., etc.

It has been claimed by some that this factory cannot compete with other plants because freight must be paid on the raw material. This might be true if Mr. Sachs did not have the exclusive right to manufacture a superior gun. The excess of freight could not amount to more than 25 cents on each gun and the superior excellence of his patents is certainly enough to overcome the disadvantage in freights. There is a strong possibility that the factory may grow within the next five years to employ one or two thousand hands, but should it give employment to only a dozen it is worth to Eugene many thousand dollars yearly. I will go in $100 with others to save this factory to Eugene.

GEO. M. MILLER.

Was it Murderer Brown?

Daily Guard, April 24.

Constable Dan Linton noticed a man near the Calef place Monday that answered the description of Bill Brown, alias Jack Brady, the murderer of Sheriff Bogard, of Tehama county, Cal. The individual kept his eye on Linton and his right hand suspiciously deep down in his coat pocket. Afterwards he went to Mr. Calef's house and got his dinner, eating with his left hand and never taking the other hand out of his coat pocket. The man was seen by several other persons and they all agree that his description answers that of the murderer wanted.

Last evening M. W. McMurry and Bluford Deadmond left here heavily armed to arrest the man and bring him in, if he is to be found, when the mystery will be solved.

The reward offered for Brown amounts to $12,500. He is considered a desperate criminal and will not be taken without a fight.

LATER.

McMurry returned this afternoon and states that they found the man near Coburg. They examined him carefully and state that he answers the description excepting in height and size of feet. He has been roaming around the country and acting in a suspicious manner. He told a number of different stories, claiming to have come from the mines in Southern Oregon. It is not likely that he is the man.

A petition has been circulated for a free ferry at A. D. Hyland's. We understand it was largely signed.

The attendance at school is fair, and is under the able instruction of Miss Luckey, of Eugene.

The regular weekly services at the school house are well attended. Excellent music is furnished by the Young People's Glee Club.

Several of our young men are taking quite a facy to red colors of late.

An Easter party was held at Mr. Patrick's on the 14th. A large number of eggs were used in celebrating the occasion.

RUSTICUS ARAT.

DISMISSED.—The case of J. M. Parker vs Mrs C. Jordan, ad litem, wherein one Robert Parker, a minor is charged with trespassing upon the premises of the plaintiff in Lost Valley, was set for yesterday in Justice Fenton's court but did not come off. The plaintiff asked that the trial be postponed until today, but afterwards requested that it be dismissed, he paying all costs. N. E. Markley of this city represented the defense.

Post office Robbed.

Special to the GUARD.

WOODBURN, Or., April 24, 1895.—The Woodburn postoffice was robbed last night of about $600 in money and postage stamps. The burglars effected an entrance through the front door. The knob of the safe was broken off and a drill used to open the safe. W. E. Foster's private papers, which were in the safe, were all taken. Nothing else was molested save a few 25 cent cigars which were taken out of the store. The hammer and other tools were stolen from the blacksmith shop of Scharback and Miller. There is no known clue to the robbers.

Cold Blooded Murder in California.

Yuba, Cal., April 24.—Sheriff Hobson received the following startling telegram: Oakland, Cal., R. H. Rivers, Marysville, Yuba—Henry Baxter was shot to death Sunday evening by William M. Nulls, who is supposed to be at his cabin on Sugar creek. Come to Elmira. Nulls is a hard character. J. H. BAR."

Gold From the Bonanza.

BAKER CITY, Or., April 23.—The Bonanza mine this evening sent in $7,000 in gold bullion, making the 3rd clean-up for April, and aggregating $10,300 for 23 days with 10 stamps.

The old wharfboat at Salem which has been full of water for the past six weeks, says a Salem exchange, was towed up the slough Saturday morning by the steamer Eugene, and an attemp will be made to relieve her of the water and repair the injury. She will then be brought back to her former quarters. The barge which has protected her partially from a watery grave has also been consigned temporarily to the boneyard.

AFTER JIM CAMPBELL.

The S. F. Grand Jury Accuses Him of a Grave Matter.

Our people generally are acquainted with Judge Jim Campbell, of San Francisco, who was at one time a miner in this city. The Examiner of Friday has this to say about the gentleman:

"District Attorney Barnes called on Police Judge Campbell yesterday and served him with the process of the accusation which the Grand Jury intends shall remove him from office unless he can satisfactorily explain his acceptance of straw bonds in the case of Pierce, when he had been informed that the sureties were worthless.

"Campbell could not do otherwise than accept service, but he did not announce what form of trial he would choose. Under the statute the hearing must be before the Presiding Judge, and the accused can choose between a jury and the court when he comes to trial.

"On two occasions Judge Campbell was summoned to the jury room and allowed to make such explanations as he could. Both times he chose to assume an offensive attitude. Once he went so far as to declare that he knew that he could not get 'any justice,' because the jury 'had it in for him.' For this remark he was reprimanded by Foreman Gogan.

"According to the shewing made in the jury-room Campbell's conduct in freeing Pierce was even more flagrant than was at first supposed. Pierce got hold of a man named Ullin from the country, and borrowed $1,100, giving as security a worthless check. Pierce was arrested and taken before Police Judge Low. Bonds were presented, but Judge Low recognized them as 'straw.' There were threats that Pierce would be released in spite of Low.

"Low went to every other judge of the Police Court and warned them that straw bonds would be offered in the Pierce case. After this the bonds were accepted by Campbell in McNamara's saloon. The bondsmen were C. S. Barry, then a County Committeeman, and John Linahan. The amount of the bail was $3,000. The bond was found to be absolutely worthless. Pierce never came back.

"When Judge Campbell was asked about the grand jury's actions he indulged in some vehement criticisms of that body. 'I don't care a d—n for the grand jury,' said he, 'most of the members fought me before the convention, fought me during the campaign, fought me at the polls and they're fighting me yet.'"

GOT EVEN.—Charles Dickens used to tell the following story about a Methodist preacher: "This preacher had been called to officiate at the funeral of a relative of a conservative editor, and as the preacher himself aimed to be a liberal leader in the district he and the editor had often crossed swords. This time the chance came to deliver a home thrust without a chance for either party to reply. At the coffin of the deceased, beside which the editor and other mourners knelt together, the preacher made this appeal: 'Lord, overrule this affliction to the welfare of all assembled, including the reptile now sprawling in Thy presence, who has frequently abused Thy servant in the columns of his heavily published.'"

THE WOMEN NOT IN IT.—Albany Democrat: The women elected to office in Florence will not vote. In the first place they didn't want to run things, very badly, and in the next place some men did not want petticoat rule. The whole thing seems to have been a farce. A man with a ping hat, according to the West did the whole business in a joke.

Sarsaparilla

ADMITTED

READ RULE XV.

"Articles that are in any way dangerous or offensive, also patent medicines, nostrums, and empirical preparations, whose ingredients are concealed, will not be admitted to the Exposition."

Why was Ayer's Sarsaparilla admitted? Because it is not a patent medicine, not a nostrum, not a secret preparation, not dangerous, not an experiment, and because it is all that a family medicine should be.
