DREADFUL PSORIASIS.

COVERING ENTIRE BODY WITH WHITE SCALES. SUFFERING FEARFUL. CURED BY CUTICURA.

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair fell out, until I was entirely bald-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head, and shoulders being the worst. The white scales fell constantly from my head, shoulders, and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the Cuticura Remedies, and after using two bottles Cuticura Resolvent, I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles, I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, one box of Cuticura, and one cake of Cuticura Soap, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I cannot express with pen what I suffered before using the Remedies. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight.

Spreading for Leagues Around

The marshy, overflowed lands, sunken lots and half submerged river banks, which give them birth, the seeds of malaria impregnate the air, and are inhaled at every breath by thousands unprovided with any adequate safeguard against the baneful influence. Yet such exists—potent alike to remedy or to prevent, pure in its constituents, and the professional recognized substitute for the hateful drug, quinine. Its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a family specific and safeguard, foremost not only as an antidote to malaria, but also as a means of permanently retaining dyspepsia, and relieving constipation, liver complaint, rheumatism, kidney and bladder ailments, and nervousness. Among invigorants it takes the first place, and is also a superb appetizer. Use it systematically.

Religious.

The following are Rev. Robert Booth's appointments for the present year: First Sabbath of each month, Medford at 11 o'clock A. M. and 7 P. M.; second Sabbath, Central Point at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M.; third Sabbath, Medford at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M.; fourth Sabbath, Jacksonville at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M.

The following are Rev. R. Ennis' appointments: On every Sunday morning, excepting the third, he will hold services at the Presbyterian church in Phœnix; on third Sunday morning, at Jacksonville and every Sunday evening he will preach at the Presbyterian church in Jacksonville.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited, and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the springtime, or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular, it becomes.

Why suffer? Preston's "Hed-Ake" will cure you.

DECEPTIVE TARIFF ARGUMENTS.

The New York World of a recent date has a special from Trenton, N. J., illustrating the deceptive nature of the arguments for high protection, as exemplified by McKinley and his partisans:

The inconsistency of the protectionist was never better illustrated than it has been here in New Jersey during the past week. To begin with, the pottery manufacturers of this city reduced wages last week from ten to forty per cent. They did this in the face of the fact that the McKinley bill gives the potter a tariff protection of sixty per cent. Before the recent election, the manufacturing potters told all their operatives that a golden era was awaiting them under the new tariff, and urged them to support the party that was going to add to their material prosperity. This plea was an old one and was pretty generally disregarded by the men, because they had been told the same thing in 1890, 1884 and 1888, and they having voted as they were told in two presidential campaigns, only feel the pressure of the screws when the elections were over.

This year proved no exception. In fact the increased duty through the McKinley tariff bill on pottery ware has resulted in the biggest reduction of wages since the business became established and threw off the appeal of an infant industry. The McKinley bill has in reality made a monopoly of the Trenton pottery trade. A strike may be avoided, but it will only be because operatives have no other course to pursue than the acceptance of the inevitable. The worker in pottery is a skilled operative and can earn nothing to speak of in any other line. He has to take lower wages or be entirely without work.

In Newark another magnificent tariff object lesson has been shown by the strike or shut-down in the Clark thread works.

These works have always furnished a beautiful theme for the high tariff orator. Blaine, in his stumping tour two years ago, used the alleged harmonious relation between the employers and employed in the thread works with much effect, as an example of the prosperity and general condition of blessedness caused by protection. The Clarks have been paraded from the one coast to the other as the embodiment of the beneficent results of a high tariff, and a Republican congress has taken especial pains to keep up the duty on the products of the works at Newark and at Pawtucket and Fall River, R. I.; yet here within a fortnight of the holidays, the works are shut down and nearly 3,000 people are thrown out of work and peremptorily informed that they can return to work or not as they choose after the works are ready to start up again.

In Patterson, only half an hour's ride from Newark, is one of the silk producing centers of the country. Silk has received adequate protection for years, and is to-day given the benefit of the high tariff. Yet in one week the weavers in the silk mills of Medina and of Francke & Duggan have struck against their submitting to a reduction of wages, amounting to from twenty to twenty-five per cent. Unless the reduction is accepted by the weavers, the mills will be closed and the other silk manufacturers of the city talk about taking a similar course. The strikes may yield rather than endure the sufferings sure to be entailed upon them by being out of work just as winter has begun.

THE Fruit Grower says: A scene characteristic of California's enterprise and push can be found in the vineyards of Fresno county, where hundreds of men may be seen planting grape vines. Nightly during the month of February the observer of the vineyard lands seem to be infested with a multitude of huge fire flies, which are darting and moving in every direction. It is claimed by the vineyardists who are planting vines at night the setting of the stakes can be done much easily and accurately by the aid of lanterns than in broad daylight, that more work is accomplished by the men in the same number of hours and that a large amount of time is saved. The one set of men work from 9 o'clock in the evening until 6 o'clock in the morning, when they are relieved by another relay.

DELINQUENT SUBSCRIBERS.—With the caption "It may Concern You," the St. Louis Humorist thus fishes for money among deadbeat subscribers: "As we cannot afford to send out a collector to the different cities, the amounts being too small, we have drawn through our bank on some subscribers owing us. This way it doesn't cost us much, and is agreeable to most of our friends. The following few have not honored the drafts, which were returned to us, and we would like to hear from them why they did not pay"—then follow a couple of columns of mo-ed names with addresses. How does this "new way to collect old debts" strike the TIMES' delinquents? It is hoped that the mere suggestion of resorting to this method will be sufficient to impel them to be honest, and quickly, too.

SENATOR FULLERTON'S bill granting to the Riddle Improvement Company of Douglas county, a right-of-way across private property and authorizing the construction and maintenance of a canal irrigation, for manufacturing, mining and all other purposes, has also been vetoed by the governor. The objections of the veto are that the bill confers upon a private corporation the right to divert water for private purposes without imposing upon it the restrictions necessary to protect the rights of others. The Governor thinks that the enactment of the general law known as the Raley irrigation bill gives sufficient rights to all private corporations.

THE Catholic church has gained a valuable acquisition in the person of Miss Drexel, who took the black veil in Pittsburg a few days ago. She brings into the church $7,000,000 and will found the order of the Blessed Sacrament. The object of the order is to educate the Indian and Negro in the Catholic faith. Such a devotion is beyond the ken of most mortals. In this wicked age heiresses with $7,000,000 prefer, as a general rule, to invest their wealth in foreign titles, more or less tarnished by wear and tear.

WHEN Senator Faulkner of West Virginia shall die, and we hope that he may live for many years to represent his people in the United States senate, he ought to have a monument built of South Carolina granite to perpetuate his memory. He held the floor of the senate for twelve hours in the debate of the force bill, and when he had finished the hard task assigned him by his Democratic colleagues he was as fresh as a daisy and good for another day's conscientious work.—Charleston Courier.

WHISKY TO BE CHEAPENED.

CHICAGO, February 21.—It was officially announced to-day that whisky is to be cheaper. The best article for 10 cents a drink is declared to be the coming standard.

The new secretary of the whisky trust, Colonel P. J. Hennessy, said: "A new process of manufacture has been discovered which in my judgment and in the judgment of our officers will materially reduce the cost of manufacture.

"This is the discovery of a Japanese chemist named Takamine, now a resident of Chicago. He came to this country some years ago as the representative of the government of his nation at the New Orleans exposition, and fell in love with an American girl.

"After having visited his native country and after having reported the success of his mission here to the Mikado's council, he returned, married the American girl, and immediately set up in business as an expert chemist.

"His attention was early turned to the process of distillation from corn. He thought that the yield under the prevailing process was inadequate and rather expensive. He set about correcting the matter."

"Did he succeed?"

"Well, I should say he did."

"How?"

"Well, under the old process, after the corn had reached a certain stage of fermentation, distillers had to add malt grains, such as oats, barley or rice, to bring about 'conversion.'

"This was the most costly feature of the process, as the malt and small grain are, of course, much dearer than the corn. Now, Takamine has discovered a process which does away with the necessity for the use of the small grain or malt. The conversion of the corn mash can be brought about without the addition of either. How this is done is Takamine's secret. The fact that the additions need not be made, of course, reduces the cost of manufacture.

"The process not only reduces the cost of production, but it increases the quantity of the spirits to be obtained from the corn—about from 10 to 15 per cent. We have entered into a contract with Takamine for the use of his process all through the United States."

CZAR REED ROASTED.—In the house on February 23 Wyke of Illinois introduced for reference a lengthy preamble and resolution calling attention to "frequent falsifications of the journal" by the arbitrary action of the speaker in counting a quorum "of members present," etc. Special reference is made to the trouble of the Friday and Saturday before, when, Wyke says, "these arbitrary, unlawful and unconstitutional acts were done in pursuance of a plan concocted by the leaders of the party just overthrown by an overwhelming majority of the people at the polls, and in the closing hour of their power, to install for life into new federal judicial offices then and there being created for that purpose a number of repudiated and defeated candidates of the party at that election, in defiance of and against the will of a large majority of the voters of the country." The resolution says all these acts make it apparent that injury is threatened to the liberties of the people, and inasmuch as no remedy exists now, excepting the power of the majority, which usually is in political sympathy with the presiding officer, the judiciary committee is directed to submit a joint resolution submitting for ratification an amendment providing for the impeachment and removal from office, with suitable penalties, the speaker of the house or the presiding officer of the house at any time when the majority of the house may so will.

BAKER CITY, Feb. 25.—Full particulars of the avalanche at Cornucopia reveals the fact that an immense snowslide, perhaps a hundred feet in depth, had broken from the mountain side and in its mad rush to the bottom of the gulch had crashed against the tramway of the Eastern Oregon Mining Company, leading from the Red Jacket mine to the mill, and demolished it completely. Further investigation resulted in the startling fact that three men, employees of the company, were missing. The names of the unfortunates are given as Hugh Curran, foreman; H. Holsten, watchman, and Jules Nicholson, boarding-house keeper. At daylight Monday morning Fred Stern, manager, together with a number of miners, started out on snow-shoes with shovels to recover the bodies of the missing men. This occurrence is to be regretted, both on account of the loss of life and the disastrous financial results to the Eastern Oregon Mining Company, who have been attended with embarrassing disappointments and unforeseen obstacles in their way from the first commencement of mining operations in the camp. About one year ago a similar snow-slide occurred, doing about $10,000 worth of damage to their tramway and boarding-house.

WHAT DO SALMON EAT?—It is the opinion of many people that salmon on this coast eat nothing after coming into fresh water, on their way to their breeding grounds, says the Oregonian. This abstinence from food is not claimed for salmon in the rivers of Canada and Great Britain, where they are taken in great numbers with the artificial fly. In the rivers of the coast generally, and in the Columbia in particular, it is claimed that salmon eat nothing after leaving the salt water, as nothing is ever found in their stomachs. According to this theory the ordinary Chinook beats Tanner or Succi, for these fish come into the Columbia as early as possible in the year—there are plenty of them in the rivers now—and they remain until late in the fall or until they die. The fact that salmon of various species and all sizes are taken at the fall of Oregon city with trolling spoons or with a bait of salmon roe goes for nothing with the believers in the total-abstinence
