OREGON SENTINEL.

"Give Us a Change."

The various democratic cliques of this county are again to be seen holding their usual consultations in order to fix things for the coming June election. Their greatest trouble is to distribute the spoils equal to the different cliques in order that harmony may prevail in the ranks. No less than seven martyrs have offer their services to this judicial district for prosecuting attorney and about the same number for sheriff of this county. The great contest is not before the people, but in the democratic convention which grinds out such material as in their judgements may be for the best interest of the party. They do not discuss the fact that there is a republican party in the county. They rely exclusively upon their heavy majority to elect what may be upon their ticket. The only business a republican is expected to do is to pay his tax without protest or complaint against the present methods of conducting county affairs. Our county indebtedness at this time approximates near one hundred thousand dollars and steadily increasing under the present administration, and as the democracy established the precedent by demanding a change of administration at Washington, we therefore demand a change in this county. A change could not make it worse but upon the contrary might be highly beneficial to the tax payers.

We fully realize the fact that our cotemporary would feel it his duty to oppose any change, especially in the offices of Clerk and Sheriff as his loss of the profits derived from that source might materially affect his opinion upon the silver question. Those offices has been a source of revenue to him for many years as the last county exhibit will show and accounts for his earnest and unfaltering fidelity to democratic principles.

Judge Taylor, at Astoria expects to render a decision on the liquor question next week. The case was brought as a test to decide whether a saloon keeper in Astoria was to pay an annual license of $200, as prescribed by an ordinance of the city council, or one of $300 as prescribed at the last session of the state legislature, and approved by the governor on November 25th, 1885. The case is against Harris & Wright charged with violation of the state law requiring retail liquor license of $300, and is in the circuit court. Messrs. McBride and Bronough appear on behalf of the state, the defendents being represented by Messrs. Fulton and Stott. The facts in the case were admitted, the matter being wholly one of argument regarding the validity of the law.

The Los Angeles papers report the damage by flood in that city last week as much greater than at first thought. In the city proper fifty houses were destroyed and one hundred more or less injured, while the damage to orange orchards and farms along the river was very heavy. Valuable lots were washed down to the sea, so that even a Los Angeles real estate dealer could not describe their bounds or map them out for unsuspecting tenderfeet to purchase. The loss is variously estimated at from $400,000 to $600,000.

Mrs. Jennie Dawne, wife of Judge Dawne, arrived on the last steamer from Alaska, and is now with her parents at Salem. Her worthless husband, it appears, left her without means, and sooner than incur any unnecessary obligations, she came down in the steerage. She is convinced of the rascality of Dawne, and expressed her detestation for him and her determination never to live with him again. She has the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

The "Police Gazette" has sent out an advertisement to each of the Oregon papers, asking that it be run for an exchange for the vile publication. Any paper of this state will be liable to prosecution under the new law against indecent literature. We received one of the propositions and at once consigned it to the stove. We do not care to violate the law in that manner nor do we expect to see any of our contemporaries do it.—"Vindicator."

The Postmaster General was too sick with a cold on Tuesday to attend a Cabinet meeting. Having left the Northwest out in the cold for the past week, there are plenty who sympathize with him very deeply—in fact they hope the cold will stay by him till the glaciers of Alaska thaw out.

The "Statesman" claims that Tony Noltner is endeavoring to divide the Democratic party, and by so doing is preparing it for defeat in June. It would seem that all the trouble is not located in the Republican camp.

PREPARING TO EMIGRATE.—A Portland exchange of the 27th gives the following information: Pink posters, 11x11 inches, full of Chinese characters, were posted in Chinatown yesterday, and all day long a crowd of Mongolians surrounded them. The poster contained a little bit of advice from the Fook Yum Co., one of the six great Chinese companies. R. G. Huestis, the interpreter in the police court, explained the "writing on the wall" to a reporter. He says the Fook Yum company has made special arrangements with the steamers City of Pekin, City of New York, Belgic, and Galeic, running between San Francisco and China, to carry the Chinese passengers to China in their coming trips. The poster say: "In view of the anti-Chinese agitation in the United States, we advise all Chinamen aged 60 years and over, now in this country, to return at once to China. We will furnish them transportation free of charge and give each one $5 for leaving, providing no return certificate is demanded. There is no work for you in this country, and your presence is not desired any longer. You will find a better home in China.' Every Chinaman of the required age is invited to accept the liberality of the company."

Montana is clamoring for admission as a State, but Washington, which comes second to Dakota, has preference. The "Post Intelligencer, remarking on the subject of admission, says: "Washington admits the right of Dakota to enter the Union before her, but there must be no others. This Territory must come second in the line. Montana's turn may come later, but at present she should be modest and stand aside for applicants whose recommendations are not so few as her own."

W. W. Baker, Oregon's dairy commissioner, has examined forty samples of milk furnished by dairymen to the Portland public, and says all but two samples were first-class. These had been apparently doctored, and have been given to a chemist for analysis. Mr. Baker considers the milk furnished in Portland superior to that sold in a majority of Eastern cities.

The Washington Territorial Council yesterday defeated the bill for the removal of the capital from Olympia to North Yakima. The only man who voted in favor of it was the President of the Council. This settles the capital question for at least two years.

Police Officers James O'Conner, 236 Mulberry street, New York City, writes that a half bottle of Red Star Cough Cure permanently removed a severe cold. The price is only twenty-five cents a bottle. Crater Lake Wagon Road.

From some of our exchanges we glean the fact that Roseburg wants a road leading from that point to Crater lake. Klamath county has a road that is already built to the coveted locality, and a good one; in fact, the only practicable route from the line of railroad to the lake. The road between Linkville and Ashland for summer travel, is fair for a mountain road, and in winter it is not likely there will be much travel from any point along the railroad to Crater lake. Should it be necessary for government aid to be had in building a road to this noted lake, it will undoubtedly be used to the best advantage and on the most accessible route, and that will be down and along the banks of the Klamath river to the line of railroad. Such a road could be built for less than one tenth what it would cost to build a road from Roseburg across the Cascades to Crater lake. Furthermore, the distance would not be so great, down the Klamath. In a conversation with some parties a day or two since who profess to be familiar with every foot of ground that lies between Roseburg and Crater lake, we were informed that it would be almost an impossibility to make anything like a good road over the mountains between the two points. Our attention was called to the road from Linkville to Ashland, and some one said "money could make that a good road, but they doubted if Uncle Sam had enough of silver, at 99½ cents on the dollar to build as good a one over the Cascades from Roseburg to Crater lake." If such be the fact, Roseburg's show for a wagon road to the lake is extremely thin.—"Star."

The taxes for 1885 are being received slowly by State Treasurer Hirsch. Coos county has sent $4,000, Curry $9444, Douglas, $5.128.75, Josephine $2,048, and Yamhill $8,600. A good many of the counties are delinquent on their taxes of 1884 yet, and some owe back as far as 1870. There was more tax money received last year before January 20, than this—just why is not known, unless it was occasioned by the late date at which the levy was made.—"Satesman."

Senator Mitchell's assertion that he will work against the railroad companies and for the people is undoubtedly made in earnest. Less than a year ago, when his star was in the descendent, he was incontinently bounced from his position as attorney of the Northern Pacific and other corporations, so that nothing is more natural now than for him to "rivet the bonds" around them every time he gets the opportunity. And opportunities will not be lacking.

Congressman Hermann, of Oregon has introduced a bill providing that three commissioners visit the county seats nearest where Indian depredations had been perpetrated in Oregon, California, Nevada, Idaho and Washington and get testimony regarding losses in the years 1853 to 1856 inclusive, and 1872 and 1878, and report to the Treasury Department Thirty days' notice will be given the people through the State and Territorial press.

It is represented that much opposition is being manifested at Washington to the confirmation of Mr. Beecher as Collector of Customs at Port Townsend, it being charged that the position was given to him as a reward for political services rendered the Democratic party during the last Presidential campaign by that prince of mugwumps, Henry Ward Beecher.

Secretary Bayard is seriously contemplating resignation from the Cabinet. The death of his wife on Sunday, and daughter two weeks ago has been a terrible shock to him. He has intimated to a few friends that he has about made up his mind to withdraw permanently from public life.
