From the New York Tribune, April 11.

Foreign News.

In England the Ministry is still in a ticklish situation. It has not yet got its Anti-Papal bill through the Commons, and it seems doubtful whether it will. On the 20th quite an excitement was caused in that body by the speech of Mr. Drummond, an ultra Protestant, who declared that no such impositions as the Popish relics, the miraculous pictures, or the Virgin Mary's milk, could go down in England. The Irish and other Catholic members were greatly outraged, but the Speaker refused to call Mr. Drummond to order.

In France there is no political news of much interest except that instead of a fusion of the Legitimists and Orleanists there is quite a hot confusion among them. They are now intriguing with a view to the approaching Presidential election.—There seems to be no chance of the prolongation of the term of Louis Napoleon and the overthrow of the Constitution. A good deal has been said about a riot, brought on because the police at St. Amand saw fit to prevent a few young men from amusing themselves by marching about town with a red flag. Nobody was much hurt by it. Had they been left alone to have their frolic out, no further harm would have come of it, but the fool of a Prefect could not tolerate any such lawlessness. The Governors of France need to know more of the Jeffersonian theory, and mind everybody's business a great deal less.

An interesting quarrel has broken out in the French Catholic Church. Some time since the Archbishop of Paris issued a pastoral letter recommending his clergy to avoid engaging in political agitations, and not to make themselves party men, especially in the present state of affairs. The letter was mild but decided in its tone, and was very generally approved. Another prelate, the Bishop of Chartres, has now come out with a counter blast to this letter, couched in terms most severe and even insulting, in the shape of a pastoral to his clergy. At the same time he officially ordered it to be published in the religious journals of Paris, and those journals, smarting under the reprimand of the Archbishop, made haste to give the reply to the world. The Archbishop has referred the matter to the Provincial Council, which sits this year. This split in the Church is naturally the topic of general discussion, and is not thought to contribute to the popular respect for the clergy or for the church itself.

In Italy, as we hear, an arrangement has been made with the Papal Government whereby it is to pay for the Bibles belonging to the British and Foreign Bible Society, which it confiscated on coming back to the city in 1849. A riot has taken place at Rome between the Pontifical soldiers and the French troops, on account of a joke put on the former by the latter. Prince Paskiewich, a nephew of the Russian General, now at Rome, has tried to commit suicide on account of disappointment in love. He stabbed himself in six places, and will possibly die, though it is hoped otherwise.

From Switzerland we have some facts about the German refugees. It appears that when they entered the Swiss territories, after the suppression of the insurrection in Baden, the fugitives were about 11,000 in number. They have gradually decreased in number by emigration to England and America so considerably that at present the police returns only the presence of 482 in the territory. By a decree of the 16th of July, 1849, 13 were expelled the territory by name, and by another of the 19th of November in the same year, 35 of the leaders were also ordered to quit the Republic.

Tupper on America.—The American Telegraph has a correspondent who has enjoyed the privilege of a conversation with Tupper, the great English poet and philosopher, in which, among other things, Mr. T. expressed his view of the United States; that view we here put on record by way of instruction and warning to the public:—[N. Y. Tribune.

"He (Tupper) is much pleased with our country and people. Though he expected to find us a great nation, he finds us greater than he anticipated. He thinks there are only two great dangers ahead of this Government—one is, that our religious toleration may lead us into infidelity; and the other, that the Jacobinism of a great number of the people may finally destroy the conservative spirit which alone can preserve us."

Move on.—If you are ever to be anything, you must make a beginning, and you must make it yourself. The world is getting too practical to help drones and push them along, when there is a busy hive of workers, who, if anything, live too fast. You must lift up your own feet, and if you have clogs on, which clatter about your heels, they will soon be worn off and left behind in the dusky pathway. Mark out the line which you prefer—let truth be the object-glass—honesty the surveying chain—and eminence the level with which you lay out your field; and thus prepared, with prudence on one hand and perseverance on the other, you need fear no obstacle. Do not be afraid to take the first step. Boldness will beget assurance, and the first step will bring you so much nearer the second. But if your first step break down, try again. It will be surer and safer by the trial. Besides if you never move, you will never know your own power. A man standing still and declaring his inability to walk, without making an effort, would be a general laughing stock—and so morally, is the man, in our opinion, who will not test his moral and intellectual power, and then gravely assures us that he has 'no genius,' or 'no talent,' or 'no capacity.' A man with seeing eyes keeping them shut, and complaining that he cannot see, is the trumpeter of his own inability.

The Giant Boy.—Angus McAskill, the young Nova Scotia Giant, gave the last of his reception levees, in Salem, on Monday evening. Angus, we believe, is the "tallest specimen of humanity" that ever appeared in our midst, and his enormous corporeal dimensions excited the wonder and admiration of all who saw him. He stands 7 feet 7½ inches in pumps, measures 57 inches round the chest, 27 round the head, and weighs 400 pounds! He is daily increasing in stature and weight, and may yet, physicians think, add another foot to his already extraordinary height! It is stated, as a most remarkable fact, that, at the age of twelve years, Angus was but 3 feet tall, weighed only 34 pounds, and was generally styled "The Dwarf." About this time he had a severe attack of whooping cough, after which he began to grow rapidly, and for the six following years added eight inches per year to his stature, and the seventh year, ending in December last, seven inches—making 7 feet 7 inches. He is well proportioned, and of great strength, having for several years been inured to hard labor. As a miracle of physical greatness, he is worthy of the patronage of the public, and ought to be gazed upon by every man, woman and child, who would feast their visuals with a sight of the largest human being in the country, if not in the world. He will be found very affable and obliging, and no one will ever regret a visit to his exhibition rooms.—Salem Register.

☞ A terrible storm occurred on the 16th of April, in the Boston Harbor; much damage was done to the wharves, and the Minot's Ledge Light House was thrown down. Of its dimensions, durability and construction, we gather the following particulars from the Boston Courier of the 17th April:

The saddest chapters in the history of the recent terrific storm have yet to be recorded. The news of the destruction of Minot's Ledge Light, and the loss of two lives, occasioned general sorrow in this city yesterday. It was regarded as a structure of great strength, but it could not withstand the fury of the elements on Wednesday night, although, unharmed, it had sustained the shock of many severe gales. The structure was composed of iron throughout, and its dimensions were as follows: Whole height from the ledge, 75 feet; from the rock to the keeper's house, 60. The diameter of the iron piles was 8 inches at the base, and 4 1-2 inches at the top. Breadth of base, 25 feet.—Keeper's room, 14 feet. The diameter of the lanthorn was 11 1-2 feet, and it contained 15 reflectors of 21 inches each.

Interesting Mexican News.—Tampico dates of the 20th ult., are on hand. On the 26th of January a severe shock of an earthquake was felt at Guerreo. It continued about three seconds, and immediately afterwards a luminous meteor of immense size was seen to traverse the heavens, illuminating brilliantly the whole valley. It was observed to fall on a neighboring mountain, and on its coming in contact with the earth, a loud explosion ensued.

By an act, three of the orders of priesthood, it is confidently stated, have been abolished.

Congress has declared unconstitutional an act of the Legislature of Queretaro, introducing the Jesuits into that State, and also the act of the Legislature of Sonora, granting an extensive tract of land to Garay and others.

The situation of the State of Durango is said to be most distressing. The Indians have taken possession of the high road leading from Matanzas to the mines.

During the year 1850, 13,336, persons died in the city of Mexico. Of this number 9,618 perished by cholera.

Free Negroes in Delaware.—The Legislature of Delaware has been legislating on the subject of free negroes in that State. It is proposed to remove from the State the more worthless of this unfortunate race, so as to stimulate others to self elevation and improvement.

Where they will drive them is not a part of the legislative policy; probably to Ohio, which is fast becoming a colored colony for other States.—[Cincinnati Enquirer.

☞ The election of Wade, U. S. Senator for Ohio, does not meet with very general favor, on account of his avowed opposition to the Fugitive Slave Law. He is said to side, in sympathy, with Hale, Seward, Thurlow Weed, Giddings & Company.

A "Distinguished" Individual.—The telegraph states that among the "distinguished" arrivals at New York, was Senator Gwin of California. The gentleman named is more "distinguished" by pocketing $6000, through constructive mileage, which Mr. Clay defined to be constructive larceny, than by any other act which he ever achieved in his life.—[Boston Courier.

Immigration from California.—There arrived at New York from California during January and February last, 2,706 persons. During the same period last year, the number was 838.

☞ The editor of an exchange paper says he never saw but one ghost, and that was the ghost of a sinner who died without paying for his paper. "'Twas terrible to look upon; the ghost of Hamlet was no circumstance!"

☞ A Clock for Sixty Cents—Mr. Chauncey Jerome, of New Haven, Conn., has actually made a time piece, which he will warrant to keep good reckoning, and which he sells for sixty cents at wholesale and one dollar at retail. The works are all made of brass. He makes upwards of eight hundred a day of these articles.

The Wings of Riches.—In this country death brings a division of property, and it brings new financiers; the old agent is discharged; the young gentleman takes his revenues; and begins to travel—towards poverty, which he reaches before death—or his children do, if he does not. So that, in fact though there is a sort of moneyed rank, it is not hereditary; it is accessible to all; three good seasons of cotton will send a generation of men up; a score of years will bring them all down, and send their children again to labor.—The father grubs, and grows rich; his children strut, and use the money; their children inherit the pride, and go to shiftless poverty; their children, reinvigorated by fresh plebian blood, and by the smell of the clod, come up again. Thus society, like a tree, draws its sap from the earth, changes it into leaves and blossoms, spread them abroad in great glory, sheds them off to fall back to the earth, again to mingle with the soil, and at length to reappear in new trees and fresh granite.—[Cleveland Plain Dealer.

☞ A bachelor friend of ours, on passing up the street picked up a thimble.—He stood awhile meditating on the probable beauty of the owner, when, pressing it to his lips, he said, 'O, that it was the fair lips of the wearer.' Just as he had finished, a big wench looked out of the window above and said—'Boss jis please to frow dat fimble in de entry—I jis now drap it.' Our friend fainted.—[St. Louis Banner.

For the Spectator.

An Original Riddle.

My dwelling is found with the muskrat and otter,
And along by the streamlets that flow to the sea,
Though I'm found on the earth, I'm at home in the water,
And often in trouble, though strange it may be;
Then ere your aware I am found with the tiger,
And crouched in the thicket as snug as a flea.
Anon I'm at home with the wild-cat and panther,
Stowed snugly away in an old hollow tree.
Without me the hunter's and trapper's vocation,
Would most unavoidably be incomplete,
And though they might gather up bread in abundance,
Most certain it is that they could not have meat.
Though with liberty I have been always conversant,
I am fastened with fetters and bound with a strap,
And some have supposed me an heir of misfortune,
Because I am frequently found in a trap.
And though I am public in autumn and winter,
I think that it usually will be confessed,
That during the seasons of spring and of summer,
I am invariably found in my nest.

Rare Chance for Investment.
THE undersigned being proprietor of one of the the finest water powers in the world, would propose to have the same improved. The wants of the country seem to demand a speedy completion of said improvements in the erection of Flouring Mills, and almost all kinds of machinery that can be propelled by water; and the water privilege being so extensive, the undersigned would propose to capitalists, that he is desirous of making arrangements for having said water brought into immediate use, and will offer such inducements to those desirous of engaging in such an enterprise, that they cannot fail to meet their views. Said water power is situated at the Great Falls of the Willamette. It is perhaps unnecessary to add that as to location, it is perhaps the finest in the world, being at the great outlet to all the farming country of the great valley of the Willamette. Call on the undersigned.
