Mar 2, 1852

Mr. Everett, in the course of his remarks at the festival on the Boston Common, on Friday, alluding to railroads, said with emphasis, "It is unnecessary to pursue the subject; railroads speak for themselves!" At this moment the stentorian steam-whistle of the Providence cars, which were then just entering the depot, blew a blast so long and loud and shrill—

"As if the fiends from Heaven that fell,
Had raised the banner-cry of hell," which startled the vast assemblage, and furnished a convincing and a stunning proof of the truth of the orator's remark! It is unnecessary to say the incident was greeted with tremendous cheers!

Ed Spectator:—Will you be so kind as to inform your readers, if you know how many friends his Hon., O. C. Pratt, sent from Linn City to the nullification meeting at Hillsborough, held on Saturday last? If so, how many aliens there were among them, not entitled to vote—and if they were not all his laborers and if he allowed them time to breakfast before leaving? We merely make the enquiries to find the extent of his influence amongst his neighbors. I am told he resides there.

Inquirer.

In reply to the above, we state that we heard of two who had started; but as they returned the same day, we concluded they did not reach the meeting. As to the other inquiries we are not "posted up."—Ed

☞ The "official" and "by authority" paper is doing a large amount of printing at the expense of the Salem Assembly.—The "laws and journals" are in process of publication. We, for our part, would rather be the reader than the publisher of the same. If it was difficult to bear the expense of publishing the "Vox Populi," it will be much more difficult to pay that contracted for by the transcendental assembly.

"Vanity and presumption ruin many a promising youth." We think it sometimes ruins men, and if we are not greatly mistaken some of the nullifiers are fast working out their own destruction.

OBITUARY

Died—After a short illness, in west Tualatin Plains, Feb 2d, Sarah wife of Thos. G. Naylor, in her 32d year, leaving an infant son, a husband, five other children, the oldest but 10 years old, the church, relatives and numerous friends to mourn their great loss. She was born June 16th, 1820, in Cook County, State of Tennessee. She was a child of pious parents, and at the age of 15 years, herself became pious, and united with the Cumberland Presbyterian church, of which her parents were members. In 1843 she removed with her husband to Oregon, and not finding a church of her own denomination, with her husband united with the first Congregational church, in which she continued a devoted member unto her death.

Perhaps a brief sketch of the Christian character of our departed and deeply lamented sister in Christ, may prove a blessing to some who are yet toiling between hope and fear in this vale of sorrow and will certainly gratify her more intimate friends and relatives.

Having embraced religion at an early age, she had advantage over many of her sex who spend a precious portion of their short life not in qualifying themselves for its stern realities, but actually disqualifying themselves, consequently she had the Spring and Summer with their genial influences to purify and chasten her affections and imagination—to consolidate her growth in piety. Thus was she fitted for the duties to which she was called in providence to perform as a Christian wife and mother; and as a member of the church of Christ, with that decision and unyielding devotion which was in her eminently characteristic in every day life. As a Christian she bore the toils and privations incident to the settlement of a new country with fortitude and cheerfulness. In adversity or prosperity her conduct was calm and resigned, showing clearly an elevated state of piety. Happy in herself, she sought to make all so around her, often to the sacrifice of her almost worn out strength. As a member of the church she was firm, consistent, kind and charitable, without ostentation she was wise in counsel, liberal to devise and zealous to perform. As she trusted in the promises and grace of God in life, she found them verified in the trying hour of death. She expressed herself definitely, that she trusted alone in the righteousness of Christ. The day before her death she said, "I did not know but when death came near there would be terror, but when I thought I should not live ten minutes there was no terror. Although she suffered most excruciating pain, she was so assisted by the grace of God that not a murmur was heard, her faith was firm, and she passed down the stops of death supported by the rod and staff of Him who has promised to be with his people even unto death. To the church and community, and especially to her bereaved husband and children, the loss is inestimable but she has gained more than we can lose. It is ours to improve the solemn call, and with Christian resignation, say, thy will O Lord, be done.—Com.

Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that I have never directly or indirectly said my land claim 3½ miles east of Oregon City, to any one, but more especially to a certain Dr. Rench, who claims to have possession, and to have obtained it of me by virtue of an arbitration, which is false. I did agree to have the matter arbitrated by certain disinterested gentlemen, and at two different times appointed day and hour, to meet at my house on the premises, both of which times I attended at the time appointed, but without the arbitrators of said Rench appearing. I therefore, hereby notify said Rench that I shall hold him responsible for all damage done by him or his to my said land claim, or to any improvements upon the same, and also forewarn any person or persons from purchasing said land claim of said Dr. Rench, or any other person except Jas D Holman, who is authorized to act for me as my Attorney.

Tract Society Circular.

Dear Brethren:—Believing that you cordially co-operate in the plans and labors of the American Tract Society as an efficient means of promoting the cause of Christ, in the salvation of souls, we the undersigned, managers of the Oregon Auxiliary Tract Society, beg leave to suggest the following plan of operation in Oregon for the current year, and to request your aid in carrying it out.

1st. To increase the circulation of the American Messenger.

2d. To increase the distribution of the tracts and the bound volumes of the society.

3d. To secure contributions, especially for the support of a colporteur in Oregon.

4th. That efforts be made to have a more general attendance at the annual meeting at Oregon City the 1st Wednesday in June, 1852.

We would accordingly request you to obtain one or more subscribers for the Messenger.

The terms are as follows: single copies, 1 year, 25 cts; 6 copies, 1,00; 20 copies, 3,00; 40 copies, 5,00. Postage per copy, 1 year, 30 cts.

You can order the papers through the Secretary, G. H. Atkinson, by sending your Postoffice address and the money.

We would also request you to keep on hand and distribute by sale and gift the publications of the society as you will find at our Depository. We ask this because we have no colporteur.

We further ask you to solicit contributions to the society, and to be present at its annual meeting.

Trusting that we have your sympathies in these plans we subscribe ourselves your co-laborers in the cause of our common master and saviour.

Board of Managers—Ezra Fisher, G. H. Atkinson, J. Q. Thornton, J. H. Wilbur, H. Johnson, J. O. Rainer, J. R. Hobb, P. H. Hatch, Harvey Clark, Edward R. Geary, Horace Lyons.

Oregon City, August, 1851.

P. S.—In November the office of our Depository was burnt, but providentially about one volume of our publications were saved.

Secretary.

OREGON INSTITUTE.

THE winter term of this institution will commence Monday, Dec. 1st, 1851, to continue eleven weeks. Rev. Mr. White has now opened a boarding hall expressly for the pupils of the institute; and parents who reside at a distance, wishing to send children, may feel assured that all pains will be taken by Mr. White and family, and by the Principal to ensure their comfort and improvement. The institute will continue to furnish a competent and thorough board of instruction; and no other place will afford better or cheaper facilities for obtaining a good education. Drawing and needle work will be taught the ensuing quarter; and a lady to teach Instrumental Music, is expected shortly to arrive from New York. New and superior apparatus has been received, and lectures free to all the pupils, accompanied with experiments, will be given to the classes in chemistry and natural philosophy.
