The Republic Disaster.

The Republic, that great ship, has been wrecked upon the sands, as we mentioned in our last, whether accidental or a perpetrated act, is not known, and as the opinions of those on board, appears that it was, as the ships' loss was covered by insurance. If sufficient evidence of criminal neglect or carelessness can be procured against officers or pilot, they will be at once arrested on a charge of man slaughter. Such action says the Portland Standard, will meet the approval of all. A terrible disaster has occurred, and if it can be traced to any person whose carelessness or negligence caused it, they should be punished promptly and severely to the extent of the law. A great many in this section realized a great blow upon hearing the news of the disaster, and the terrible news that all the Monumental machinery had found its place in the deep; but a change came over this people when the truth of the whole was ascertained, that only about 4000 pounds of bolts, worth about $200 was all that was lost belonging to this company. Our people may continue to live in hopes and feel assured of soon having the quartz mill promised, which is the key to considerable wealth in the GraniteCreek country. Not less than 500 to 1000 men were being disappointed and changing their notion upon going to this place, but our people must now continue to live in hopes.

FROM THE Standard.

Freight, light in material, is coming ashore in all directions and strews the shore for a considerable distance. The furniture is broken up auft for use and altogether valueless. Fifty barrels of whisky escaped the general destruction and floated ashore in good condition. About three hundred men are wrecked in the neighborhood of the stranded ship and eagerly appropriate anything and everything the waves cast ashore. The captain and pilot take their chances with the crowd. Those who own boats and can approach the wreck are considered fortune's especial favorites. Relic seekers are numerous and pieces of the unfortunate vessel are hacked off and treasured as valuable curiosities. Several pianos utterly demolished and unable longer to afford either pleasure or profit line the beach without attraction for those who seek articles of more intrinsic worth. The military guard has been withdrawn from Sand Island, so that now the wreckers have their own way. On Wednesday last Capt. Carrol and a boat full of visitors boarded the stranded ship, they were surprised to hear the glad whinneyings of a poor horse that had fallen into engine rooms and remained there without food or water for three days. The intelligent animal was transported with joy on beholding human creatures and testified his gladness by repeated manifestations. The poor thing could not be extricated from his position and rather than keep him longer suffering, the captain concluded it would be an act of charity to end the faithful old fellow's suffering. In according with this humane view, though against his will, a bullet was sent crashing through the poor thing's brain, and its long season of misery ended forever. Eight fishing boats belonging to Mr. George Hume, that came upon the steamer were saved, but the parties who have the property in charge refuse to surrender it to that gentleman so that now he intends to institute suit for the recovery of his boats. All the agents representing parties in Portland and elsewhere, have left the wreck, considering their services as no longer required. Public sentiment in Astoria is rapidly undergoing a change and persons who were at first inclined to throw the responsibility of the wreck on Pilot Doig, now feel inclined to shift the blame on Captain Carroll and condemn his conduct in no measured terms. Doig even by his enemies, is recognized as a first-class pilot and a man who thoroughly understood his duties. Experienced men say it is almost impossible for a seaman to find his bearings at night in that section and the captain should not under the circumstances have permitted his vessel to enter. Be this as it may, the court of inquiry will soon settle the responsibility and fix the blame where it properly belongs.

To be Hung!

HIS BODY TO BE CARVED.

Kat-koo-at has been sentenced to be hung on Monday, the 5th proximo, for the murder of Thos. J. Brown, at Alaska, on or about the 1st of last January, having been found guilty of the crime of murder in the first degree, was arraigned in the U. S. Court for the above sentence. The prisoner upon being asked if he had anything to say, made these remarks: "There was another Indian concerned with me in killing Brown." Kat-koo-at did not seem visibly moved by the sentence of death pronounced upon him. He did not appear to realize the terrible situation in which he was placed by the sentence of the court, but here up with that solid indifference so common to the Indian character. It has been ordered that his body be delivered over to the physicians of the medical school for dissection.

The Indian Situation

IN THE NORTHWEST AS UNDERSTOOD AT WASHINGTON.

APRIL 24.—The interior department entirely discredits the story of Saluskin, the Indian prisoner, relative to the alleged treachery of Moses last summer. The department has amplest evidence from civil and military officers of the incorrectness of the statement. The department thinks there is a desire on the part of certain whites of Northeastern Oregon and Northern Washington to provoke hostilities in order to lead to expenditures of money by the government in that vicinity. The Indian bureau some time since received advices from responsible parties that every effort would be made by certain white men in that locality to provoke Indian hostilities with this end in view. The story about Moses is a revival of the old canard of last summer, which was investigated and disproved at that time.

An Oregon Silver Mine.

PORTLAND, April 21, 1879.

To the Stockholders of the Monumental Silver Mining Company: In presenting this, my second annual report, I take pleasure in inviting your attention to the present condition of our mines as detailed in the report of our general manager, C. S. Miller. The developments made during the past year confirm our expectations of the value of our property. With the erection of our mill the work of reduction of our ore will commence, and it can be regarded as a certainty that the quantity and quality of ore will pay largely on the investment, and future work will greatly appreciate the value of the stock.

The foundations of our enterprise have been laid securely and are permanently fixed; and as the stockholders are to be congratulated upon the situation to-day, they have every reason to look with satisfaction and confidence to the future of our company.

Respectfully, E. J. W. STEMME,
Pres't Monumental Silver Mining Co.

To the President and Board of Directors of the Monumental Mining Company—GENTLEMEN: For my second annual report I beg leave to submit the following: The extent of the work perfomed upon your mines the past year consists of the following: The main tunnel or audit level has been driven ahead 109 feet. Drifts on the several ledges have been carried forward the following distances: No. 3, north 134 feet; No. 12, north 30 feet, south 55 feet; No. 10 or Doyle, north 140 feet; No. 13, north 257 feet, south 146 feet; No. 16, north 182 feet, south 25 feet. An uprise on No. 13, or the Monumental lode, has been raised up on the ledge to the surface, a distance of 275 feet, making a grand total of 1344 lineal feet of ground excavated during the year. The fire which occurred at the mine last fall, destroyed all our out-buildings, necessitated rebuilding, which has been done, and are now sufficient, both in number, size and convenience, for operating the mine during the next day. The conditions of and openings in your mines are such that justified me in recommended the erection of a twenty-stamp mill, and in compliance with your instructions I have purchased of the Fulton iron works of San Francisco a first class twenty-stamp dry crushing mill with furnaces, etc., and all the modern improvements requisite for the successful working of the ores of your district. Notwithstanding the power furnaces, buildings, etc., will be sufficient for the 20 stamps, I will comply with your instructions to first put in operation 10 stamps and provide that 10 more may be added at any future time. The time that will be required in the construction of the mill will depend much upon the force that you may wish to have employed upon the work. I think that with a fair force of workmen that I can have the mill in successful operation by the middle of August next. The developments in your mines during the past year sustains me so far in all that I have heretofore claimed for them; i. e. that they will be both permanent and profitable, and now that you have provided the mill and opened your mines to such an extent I can safely say after your mill is in operation you will have a steady daily yield of bullion for perhaps years to come providing you use the same good judgment in the future as has been used in the past in keeping your mines well opened before your mill.

Respectfully, yours, etc.,
C. S. MILLER,
General Manager M. S. M. Co.

STOCKHOLDER'S MEETING.

At the second annual meeting of the stockholders the following named gentlemen were elected directors to serve the ensuing year: E. J. W. Stemme, Wm. Grant, Jas. D. Miller, F. C. Sels and C. S. Miller. At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were elected: E. J. W. Stemme, president; J. Miller, vice-president; C. D. Folger, secretary; C. S. Miller, general manager.

Coal Mine.

ED. "E. O."—Some time since I noticed a paragraph in the Oregonian concerning our coal mine, but seeing nothing further concluded to give you some additional facts which I hope will not prove uninteresting to the people of Eastern Oregon generally.

Your correspondent has just returned from a trip to the mine, which is situated on "Upper Rhea" creek and is one of the principle tributaries of Willow creek. It is in a southeasterly direction from Heppner, and is about 12 miles distant from that place. The vein runs north and south and has the appearance of being unexhaustible. Its [illegible] but ten feet, and its width has not been ascertained, but has been traced [illegible] prospected for a distance of 200 yards. Mr Barker brought a load to this place this week and it is pronounced by competent judges to be of a superior quality, and as a further test, specimens will be forwarded to Pendleton this week. If the mine is as it is thought to be, it will prove quite a blessing as there has as yet been no coal discovered in Eastern Oregon, and in brief it is quite a scarce article in the state.

Since the above has been written I am informed that Mr. Maddock and several responsible men of this place have formed a company for the purpose of further developing the mine, of which we will speak in our next communication.

C. B. ROBERTS.

Heppner, April 28, 1879.

From Mississipi Gulch.

APRIL 25th, 1879.

ED. "E. O."—Sunday the 6th, Charles Demerias, aged 15, shot off his left forefinger at singing school. Investigation proved that several boys carry pistols to school. What shall we do with our boys? A few days ago four of them cursed and assaulted John Dunn, while on their way from school.

Mrs. Meadlock of Cous creek, while getting over a fence, fell and fractured the left leg bone below the knee. Dr. Weston reports the case doing well. Elder Van Horn, of the seventh day Adventists, preached at Milton Saturday and Sunday last. Three accessions—Mrs. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Black.

Mr. and Mrs. Jordon of Milton recently decamped between two days. Their whereabouts is not known.

Austin & Chapman who resided among us last winter have gone with their band of 500 head of cattle. U. Chapman and W. Garred have also left with their cayuses; destination—Montana.

Sunday the 13th Miss Jane Hartness was thrown from a buggy and considerably injured. She is fast recovering.

Mr. Jacob Conser of Jefferson, on the Santiam, started back to Webfoot a few days ago, while his wife remains.

From Mr. Drons of Mill creek we learn that a severe hail storm took place in that locality a short time since, and did considerable damage.

The outlook for a plentiful fruit crop in most places is quite favorable.

Milton, and the people on the river, are to celebrate May day at the former place with joint companies. Weather permitting, a good time will be had.

COMPANIONI.

The "YOUNG DUCK," of the EAST OREGONIAN inadvertantly "gets off" a good thing occasionally, which should not be allowed to waste its fragrance on the desert air. Speaking of the numerous calls of which the EAST OREGONIAN office has been the recipient recently from young ladies, he says he don't object as "young ducks love to play with young ducks." It is not likely the "young duck" will be troubled so much hereafter, as the parents of those young ladies will most likely advise them to call only when the old "drake" is in as it is quite evident that the junior duck is most too playful. The EAST OREGONIAN editors are wonderful members of the profession, while one entertains company at home the other visits Heppner and "puts up at both two hotels."—Mountain Sentinel.

From Heppner.

HEPPNER, April 24, 1879.

ED. "E. O."—The news from this part of the county, so far as I have heard, is neither thrling nor romantic since you wrote it up so thoroughly a week since. In the way of casualities we mention with regret a severe injury received by our townsman, James Furguson, while endeavoring to ride a wild and spirited colt, which, after a few retrograde summersaults succeeded in pinning his unfortunate rider to the ground with the horn of the saddle, inflicting what has been pronounced by Surgeon Shobe, his medical attendant, a severe, if not fatal injury; his kidneys the doctor reports is literally torn to atoms, or in a technical way, very badly lacerated, yet strange to say they are performing their proper functions, taking from the blood the material morbis that would soon, if left in the system, end in uremic poisoning and death. Jim is a good rider and justly prides himself upon his equestrianship, yet the colt, unlike ancient Bucephalus, proved more than Alexander could ride. The best wishes of the community are kindly enlisted for his recovery, and as I now write I am very creditably informed (much to my surprise) that he is doing finely.

Heppner is to have a new church edifice, the work upon which is now going on rapidly under the skillful guidance and handiwork of Messrs. Forwood & Dillon, who have taken the contract for its completion.

A new school building too is looming up in the dim and shadowy future, for it was enacted at a meeting recently held for the purpose, that a tax of $2,500 should soon be levied by the powers that be; and a fine two story building should take the place of the ornamental one which now graces our thriving town. Surely and rapidly too, we must provide for our primary department, for scarcely a week rolls round that a seven or ten pound weight is not added to that pair of aces already here, which by the way are doing finely.

The last we have to chronicle is a stranger in a strange land, weight 9 pounds, in the household of George Harrington. George is making a good recovery. XXX.

Hostile Actions of Indians.

THE DALLES, April 23, 1879.

I have just arrived from Yakima City after one hundred miles of hard riding. Deputy Sheriff Thorp arrested three Indians on April 1st for complicity in the murder of the Perkins family and firing upon white citizens in July last. The prisoners were quietly given up by their chief, Sousa-pe-hir, of the Okanagon tribe of Indians. The prisoners were kept by the sheriff for several days before he left for Yakima City with the prisoners. On the 18th inst. about 10 o'clock in the morning three Indians made their appearance at Thorp's camp. They commenced talking, and one of the Indians, the father of one of the prisoners, fired his gun point blank at the deputy sheriff. A regular

HAND TO HAND ENGAGEMENT

Then took place. The four white men were only armed with pistols while the Indians had Henry rifles and knives. The Indian firing at the deputy sheriff fell to the ground pierced with three bullets and was killed. One of the prisoners fell and was not seen again. The names of the whites engaged were Deputy Sheriff Thorp, Bounds, Rozell and "Wild Goose Bill." Bounds jumped on a log when then the action began and kept the Indians at bay while his companions reloaded their pistols. Rozell was shot in three different places. Four of the Indians then left and eighteen of the horses belonging to Thorp's party were driven off. The wounded man was taken to a place of safety in a canoe down the Columbia river. The Indians living there say that the prisoners and horses will be returned and they are not being pursued. The pursuing party have authority to kill the captives if any resistance is made, but they

MUST BRING IN THE SCALPS

to prove the killing. All of this took place in "Dancing Dick's" bar, eight miles above the Okanagan river. It is not likely that this occurrence will lead to any general trouble, as it was participated in only by the three relatives of the prisoners. If the horses and prisoners are returned in a few days everything will be all right; if not, trouble will ensue. Events may be looked forward to with interest. I am going home; have left instructions for you to get first news.

GEN. HOWARD'S ACTION.

Gen. Howard has given instructions to Capt. Winters, of the 1st cavalry, who is now at the Dalles, or en route to Yakima, to proceed at once to Fort Simcoe and move his command toward scene of action. He is instructed to investigate and report the condition of affairs. Meanwhile Major Green goes into camp with two companies of cavalry, and hold himself in readiness for call.

The School Book Swindle.

The Pacific coast series of school books are universally condemned we believe except by interested teachers. The books are of a very poor quality, badly bound, and sold very high. A demand is going up by petition everywhere for a change and we hope to see a change effected. Bancroft & Co. have preyed on the people of our state long enough. They always keep an agent or emissary at the sessions of our State Legislature to influence legislation. The last legislature opened the way for us to obtain relief. More next week on this subject.

NEW TO-DAY.
