Salutatory.

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for a man to change his business, and attempts to rise to the dignity of associate editor of a newspaper—a proper regard for the feelings of the subscribers to the EAST OREGONIAN makes it proper for me to inform all that it will be my greatest endeavor to furnish you all with the latest local and the best states news that can be obtained by us. With faith in the future prosperity of this sheet I subscribe myself

B. B. BISHOP.

Improving.

We are often flattered now on our well-doing in the newspaper business. We have been told often that the last two or three issues were just such issues that would suit their friends in the East; that they always took an interest in such a paper that would give the full particulars about the resources and advantages of the country. To this we have directed the most of our attention and have found that a good detail of the country of this coast is much appreciated by our readers. Local news of the country are therefore solicited from anyone. Any mishap of any kind sent us, no matter how badly written—all we want is the facts, and we will fix 'em up in "tip-top" shape for publication. Give us a description of your ranch, the amount of grain you have raised this year, when you first went on to your place and how you have succeeded. Such news as this is what helps to settle up a country, it induces your Eastern friend to migrate to a better country where flows the "milk and honey" for the poor man. It only suits them, but pleases all, gives you a much clearer idea of the country in which you live in. It is a duty you all owe to your county, it's working for your county's interest; it all helps to bring us nearer to one another, acquaint us all with one another's wants, by which, if in our power, helps us to administer to those who are in need. If there is one man among a dozen who is well learned, [illegible] be looked up to as a man of little notoriety. He is acquainted with market prices, knows the best place to buy his trading, knows if any public sales are to take place, and is prepared to take advantage of that sale by purchasing a [illegible] worth $300 for probably $200, therefore he has made $100, and all through the property of subscribing and taking a good county paper. A man wants to buy a few sheep, he knows not where they are for sale, he advertises his want, if some one has not [illegible] and advertised some for sale. [illegible] plainly to be seen that the [illegible] informed has the advan- [illegible] Deadwood City, in fact, and through no other [illegible] enterprise's power acquaint himself with [illegible] of the day as through the news- [illegible]

Eastern Oregon.

The [illegible] of Pendleton's location, climate and natural resources has attracted to this place a temperate, industrious and intelligent population, who have settled, with a view of forever making this their home, and to await the time when they can go ahead and build up their fortunes more rapidly. Our greatest drawback being a portion of the best farming land in Eastern Oregon that we are not permitted to derive a benefit from, but remains a waste to a class of people that are too lazy to place the rich quality of land under cultivation [illegible] now in their possession. [illegible] upon this reservation [illegible] little accomplished. Pendleton will ever ways will be a place of in- [illegible] full of life and vigor, clear [illegible] drawback. Our business men are of [illegible] type who will constantly succeed in [illegible] undertakings. Merchants are build- [illegible] business, and all other trades [illegible] in accordance. We are [illegible] this, and hope it will con- [illegible] will be first in importance on [illegible] the severest critic finds [illegible] in, as far as our vast [illegible] concerned, where once [illegible] no material advan- [illegible] or quality of soil [illegible]. Here is where [illegible] has centered [illegible] re is where they [illegible] years to come; [illegible] rren hills, now [illegible] in of the hard [illegible] of toil;" on [illegible] fresh evidence [illegible] and increasing life. Thousands are coming every year to secure [illegible] such as are not to be found in Southern California and superior as they are in every regard to agricultural adaptability, the price is nominal and within the reach of any energetic, earnest seeker of a home. Here the flocks from the scanty pastures of the valley are driven to wade in sleek fatness through a sea of bunch grass. Here is where the capital of older States is exchanged for our fat herds, and here the future horse racers of the West will be, and [illegible] roll our surplus bushels to a [illegible] market, and in time bring in return [illegible] alth to the honest "hoary headed [illegible]

[illegible] effect of this large immigration is [illegible] reased development of the agricultur- [illegible] of the country. It has been [illegible] d this year that at least 80,000 tons [illegible] will be shipped from Eastern [illegible] Washington Territory through [illegible] alla alone. This estimate does not [illegible] a vast stretch of territory where [illegible] must seek another outlet. It is [illegible] that Eastern Oregon and Washing- [illegible] will, in the future, contribute [illegible] grain exports of the Pacific [illegible] parties from different parts [illegible] in the East, and from friends in New York, [illegible] that the farming class, men of [illegible] have what is called the "Oregon [illegible] and are now troubled with it regu- [illegible] every Spring, and that a very large [illegible] will take place next year.

Missouri Desperadoes.

Marshal Chase and wife, of Boise city, arrived in town yesterday, says the Walla Walla Statesman, having left the "Damascus of the Plains" last Sunday. He confirms the opinion that the recent raid on the Weiser was the work of white men. He is of the opinion that the thieves are an organized band and will run the stolen horses off toward Nevada. He has just returned from a chase and capture of thieves that will ever be memorable for strategy, pluck and perseverence. After riding fifty hours without rest he got ahead of the robbers who committed the recent depredations in the Boise valley. He says that he knows the celebrated James Brothers of Missouri are in Idaho, although they have not been seen. It will be as well for our citizens to keep a good lookout now, for the country is full of desperadoes of every description. —Ex.

Umatilla, Grant and Baker counties will not escape losses of fine horses. Our citizens are satisfied that the country is full of these desperadoes.

Our Just Dues.

Mc. of the Sentinel means "biz." Here is what he's got to say:—

* * * If it kills a live paper to collect from its patrons what they justly owe it, we'll kill the Sentinel and let it go to that undiscovered country from whose bourne no copy of a good newspaper ever returns. * * *

At the Newspaper Convention it was agreed that all papers of Eastern Oregon should publish all those who always owe and never pay, thus we expect soon to see our cotemporaries commence the publication of a "black list." We propose to collect our just dues, and have given warning by letter to those who must come forward.

Indians Again!

Evidence of War in Wyoming Territory.

BLOODY SCENES.

Since our remarks on the Indian question last week, the news reached us on the 1st inst. that Payne's command had been attacked by an overwhelming force of Utes and badly worsted. Maj. Thornburgh and ten soldiers were killed while fighting bravely. Three-quarters of the animals were killed and 25 teamsters. Payne, commanding, was slightly wounded in two places, also Dr. Grimes and Lieut. Paddock.

RAWLINS, W. T., October 3d.—Troops have been rushed forward to the scene of Thornburgh's fight. Gen. Crook will take charge of the command. The awful silence at the front indicates that the worst may be expected, and grave fears are entertained for the safety of Capt. Payne and his command. General Merritt's command probably reached the camp of Lieut. Price on Fortification creek this evening, and is expected to arrive at the battle field Sunday afternoon. The opinion of those best acquainted with the hostile Utes is that they are now many miles from the scene of Thornburgh's engagement, and that the troops will be obliged to follow them far into the mountains if they succeed in finding them at all. Should this theory prove correct, Gen. Crook will, in all probability, follow the trail of the Ute families south from the agency toward the Blue river. From the manner in which troops and supplies are being sent forward, General Crook evidentally intends to prosecute the campaign to the bitter end. The total number of troops sent forward is about 600. Two more companies of cavalry will arrive Monday, one from Fort Fetterman and one from Robinson.

DENVER, October 3.—The Southern Utes are mostly peaceable. The discontented ones are supposed to be with the band that attacked Thornburgh. No trouble at the southern agency is anticipated, as there are troops enough there to protect settlers. News from the seat of war comes here by way of Laramie and Cheyenne. There were no aggressions on the reservation of the Northern Utes by miners. The North Park miners are some ways from the reservation.

Later.

[From dispatches to the Oregonian.]

All the employes and officers at the Ute Agency have been murdered. The troops have been surrounded away from water and their supplies intercepted.

Gov. Pitkin sent arms and ammunition south by the train this afternoon in charge of Gen. Daniel Cook, who will take charge in that section. Five or six hundred armed men can be rallied. The governor has telegraphed three times to-day to Gen. Pope for ammunition and arms; and also asked Pope to order the troops from Texas and Indian Territory that were on the way to Paquosa Springs, to proceed at once to Lake City. In this there are five companies of infantry and three of cavalry. All of the troops bound for Paquosa Springs will probably be in the country to-morrow morning.

DENVER, Oct. 5.—Ouray, head of the Ute nation, sends the following order to his people by a runner:

To Chiefs and Captains, Headmen and Utes at White River: You are hereby requested and commanded to cease hostility against the whites, injuring no innocent persons or any others further than to protect your own lives and property.

The Causes of the Ute Outbreak.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Herald's Washington special says Schurz will arrive tomorrow. It is understood that he will at once prepare a statement showing the Ute outbreak to be unprovoked so far as the conduct of his department is concerned, and is the result of an attempt by civil authorities of Colorado to arrest Indians on their reservation. It is understood that he has assigned as one of the causes embittering the Utes against government authority is the invasion of their reservation by prospectors and others. The Herald publishes a correspondence between the war and Indian departments and says that by mistake, a request of the interior department for troops to be sent to the White River agency, was sent by Adjt. Gen. Whipple at Chicago to Pope, when it should have been sent to Crook, commanding the department of the Platte. The agency being in the very northwestern part of Pope's department it has been found necessary on grounds of economy to draw troops from the department of the Platte when required for an emergency. When the order to send forward troops reached Pope, he promptly sent it to Crook. The request of the Indian office for troops was dated September 15th. The Tribune to-day reports the receipt of a file of newspapers from the west within a few days which mentions several excursions on the part of miners into the Ute reservation.

The Columbia Chronicle has reduced their subscription price from $3 to $2 per year, and announces that they propose to stay with the enterprise.

From Heppner.

BY OUR CORRESPONDENT.

EDITOR "E. O."—

As we did not appear last week in your columns, and on account of the neglect I send you what few items that might have been written up.

Work has begun on our restaurant and will be completed in a week or two. Mr. J. J. Campbell will be the proprietor, and proposes to give satisfaction and good accommodations at 25 cents per meal.

Mr. Jerry Crowder has at last retired, and started a few days ago with his family, to attend the State Fair. We wish them both a pleasant trip.

Rain fell here a few days ago and gave a lively appearance to everything.

A new barber has taken Frenchie's place. His name is not yet known, but he gives good satisfaction, and will, as long as he shaves "three days under the skin."

Mr. B. has taken a great interest in our town. Last Saturday he had all the boys in town employed scraping and sweeping out Main street, which adds greatly to the appearance of our walks.

Our lock-up or jail was completed last week, but has not been dedicated yet.

The new school building is most completed and is receiving a second coat of paint. The building is two stories, large and commodious and an ornament to our town as well as a useful institution.

The boys are talking about naming the brewery just completed, "The Lone Star."

Mr. E. Sloan's team, last Saturday, took a notion to try it alone and started down Main street from the Upper end of town, like lightening, and came near running into several horses. They took a turn up First street, crossing several back yards and tearing up everything as they went. Not much damage was done but the wagon was scattered in all directions.

A few nights ago a fire broke out in one side of the blacksmith shop, about 9 o'clock, next to W. J. Leezer's hardware store. A few moments later and one side of Main street would have been laid in ashes with considerable loss. This makes the second time that a fire has broken out in that place.

Heppner is the only town in Eastern Oregon that is burning stone coal, and probably in Oregon. The coal has been tried here in coal stoves and proves to be the genuine.

W. J. Leezer was the first man to ship coal stoves up the Columbia river for the upper country.

No weddings among us for quite a while, but plenty of courting last week and several arrests were made.

Mrs. J. B. Lindsey and daughter of Pendleton are here visiting the Doctor.

Last Sunday night a fire was discovered to be burning up stairs in Mrs. Smith's Hotel. When rushing up, the room was found to be burning at a rapid speed, which was almost impossible to put out. The fire started in a bed in the room, but as yet is a mystery as to how it started.

Last Sunday evening while Oscar Miner was out hunting, shot himself accidently with a pistol, the ball lodging in his hand, only making a slight wound.

There was a gentleman in town yesterday looking for a location to start a paper. We are ready to give him all the encouragement he wants, and after he gets started we will all try and kick up a little excitement to afford him some news. H.

The Dalles Mountaineer says there are over 300 men employed on the Cascade locks and canal, and the force will be increased. The foundation for the locks will be laid this fall, and by next high water boats can be brought up from below by being hauled through the cut.

What does it take to constitute a great man? is the question we ask. If it is thievery, trickery, and such, how many great men have we? If Grant is a great man and the only man that can bring peace to an undivided country, in the whole world, the country is not worth saving. Such talk as this is an insult to the intelligent public.

We are in receipt of an invitation to attend the Grant reception at Portland. If Grant desires to see us on business he had better come to Pendleton, as he seems to have nothing to do but show himself around the country, and we have been humbugged enough by these little one horse shows. Grant is an illustrious American and great captain, but we never worship any man and he is only a man.

About a year ago, three families of Spokan Indians, headed by an intelligent and shrewd siwash know as Wm. Three Mountains, renounced their tribal relations, and taking up land just below Deep creek falls, commenced the work of farming. Last Spring they were joined by nine other families, and all are now prospering remarkably. They have broken and fenced with their cayuse ponies about fifty acres of land, and this year have bountiful crops of grain and vegetables. They are also building very creditable log houses, have made roads, and are now getting out timbers for a school house and teacher's house. The Spokan Times says: "Much credit is due to their surrounding white neighbors for the good will, assistance and encouragement heartily given them, and the best of good will exists between the two settlements."

Joseph's band of Nez Perces are again represented as greatly dissatisfied with their present situation on the Salt fork of Arkansas river. They complain of the unhealthy location of their reservation, and declare that they may as well die in an endeavor to reach their old home in the north west as to waste away with disease in a strange country. But the probability is that if they were back at their old home in the northwest they would find it more unhealthy than their present locality. Something like thirty or forty of the principal ones are now under indictment for murder in Nez Perce county, Idaho.—Oregonian.

Grant is coming to Oregon. He will leave his wife at San Francisco, and will in all probability visit Vancouver, where he formerly resided, and it may be that he will meet some half-breed Indians that he would not like his wife to see for fear she might see a resemblance to the General. The Grant Boom is deepening and widening, and republicans who formerly had no good word for him are now ready to fall down and worship him. After all Grant is a much better man than some take him. He has many good qualities. He stays by his friends and we think deserves much credit for the raise he made from the lowest depths of degredation and debauchery to the presidency of the United States. Although he is not a statesman he is a good general, a brave soldier, and as a military chieftain every American should feel proud of him. Welcome home Ulysses.

The Catholic Church has a membership of 220,000,000.
