Owing to the lack of interest manifested by the citizens, the ladies of the W. C. T. U. find it impossible to start the reading room on the small subscription offered. We wish to thank those who so kindly offered their assistance, and we trust in the guidance of kind providence in the upbuilding of Roseburg in the near future to have what is so much needed—a good public reading room. PRES. W. C. T. U.

God's Regular Army still hold nightly meetings at the barracks. The meetings are quite largely attended, mostly by novelty seekers, while the hoodlum element crowd around the entrance way, frequently obstructing the sidewalk. We presume the managers are honest and sincere people, trying, in their way, to do good, but so far the evil which their meetings give rise to more than offset the good. They ought to have a special police to keep better order or else move on to other fields.

Evangelist Ross of the M. E. Church, South, in his sermon Sunday evening, exhibited great pride in informing his congregation that his birthplace was in the state of Georgia, and that he is the son of a "high-bred gentleman." He went so far as to classify "poo white trash and nigga's" together. What about the teachings of the poor Nazarine who was born in a manger? The teachings of Christianity are that "The Lord won't hear a hightoned prayer," and "You can't go to heaven in a rocking chair."

Notice is hereby given that the copartnership heretofore existing between J. A. Hein and C. G. Meyer under the firm name of Roseburg Brewing Co., is this day dissolved. C. G. Meyer will continue the business, collect all accounts and pay all bills of the late firm.

THE EVIDENCE.

The testimony of the witnesses on behalf of the State vs. R. B. Matthews was not completed Saturday till too late for Saturday's PLAINDELER, and only a summary conclusion was given. Below we give the evidence in as concise form as practicable, omitting language not suitable for publication:

Miss Grace D. Smith after answering the usual preliminary questions, said: I was sixteen last July. Attended meeting at the barracks Thursday night and left for home about 10 o'clock in company with Miss Nelly Wilson. Matthews overtook us at Woodward's corner and went with us to the corner by the South Methodist church. I then went with Nelly across the school house yard and she went on home. I returned back across the school house grounds, when I got on the south side in the shadow of the house Matthews met me. He took hold of me. I asked him to let me go. I wanted to go home and started, but he caught me and pushed me up to an open window in the basement and tried to shove me through. I caught hold of the window sill. He shoved me through and dragged me up stairs to the first floor. I tried to prevent going up stairs by holding on to the banisters. He tried to open the door at the head of the stairs. It was locked. He then took me down stairs and back by a wood pile where he held me for over an hour. With coaxing and threatning he tried to accomplish his designs.

Ques. Did you at any time make any outcry for help?

Ans. Yes, I screamed and cried for help several times. I hallooed for mamma. He laughed at me. He threw down his overcoat on some wood and asked me to lie down on it. I started to leave, he caught me and sat me down on his overcoat. I kicked and screamed and scratched his face and neck and bit him, I think on his left arm. He tore my clothes and broke a button off my drawers. He kept me there for over an hour—till after the overland passed. He still held me till parties in search of me frightened him. He then released me and I jumped out and ran for home.

Cross examined by W. W. Cardwell.

Did you not say to Mr. Mathews while you were in the basement, "Let us go down to the Poket house and then you may?"

Ans. Yes. I wanted to get out of the basement and go home, but he would not let me, saying, "If you get out you won't."

Mrs. O. L. Willis, who lives across the street from the school house, heard screams at about 11 o'clock—the screaming woke her up. The screams were in the direction of the school house, but thought at the time it was that of a boy.

Nelly Wilson, Miss Smith's lady friend with her at the meeting, corroborated Miss Smith's testimony up to the time of leaving her at the school house. She received a note from Mathews next day, begging her to see Miss Smith and ask her to say nothing upon the trial except what she would have to. Mr. Cardwell, Mathews attorney, called for and demanded the return of the note. The note was not given up. It was read at the trial, and is as follows:

ROSEBURG, Jan. 10, 1895.

FRIEND NELLIE: Please see Grace and tell her not to say anything more than she has to. Respectfully Yours,

R. B. MATHEWS.

Wm. Callahan testified to seeing Mathews at a saloon about 1 o'clock that night and saw scratches on his face and neck. Mathews said they were caused by hoboes that had assailed him down by Benedick's shop.

Louis Poket saw Matthews at about 12 p. m., went with Mathews to find his hat and found it in the basement of the school house where Mathews said he lost it in a tussle with a girl; that he tried to get his work in but some one hallooed and he had to leave and that he failed to accomplish his purpose.

Wm. Carlon saw scratches on Mathew's face, that Mathews claimed were made by hoboes.

Wm. Van Buren and Walter Patterson testified substantially the same as Carlon.

Chas. Kenyon was with Geo. Haynes in search for Miss Smith at 11:30 and in their search went to the school house. Saw near the basement window two persons' heads. Heard struggling. Ran around to that side of the house and saw Miss Smith running down the side walk with her clothes torn—followed about 30 yards behind her.

Willis Moffit delivered a note to Mrs. Wilson next day but could not recognize the note shown him as being the one delivered to Mrs. Wilson.

Mrs. Wilson, mother of Miss Nellie, recognized the note as being the one Moffit delivered to her for Miss Nellie. It was sent by Matthews to Miss Nellie, asking her to intercede with Miss Smith in his behalf.

W. G. Woodward heard screams in the direction of the school house at about 11 o'clock, Thursday night.
