Wilson on Roads.

Secretary Wilson said some good things on this subject at the World's Fair good roads' convention held at St. Louis. Part of his address follows:

"Road building in the United States has in the past occupied the same position in the minds of men as all other gricultural subjects have held. It has been left to the localities of the several states and territories to make such roads as their intelligence and ability enabled them to construct. There has been no chair in any college or university where practical road building has been taught as a part of a young man's education. This has been the case with most agricultural matters. A large percentage of the taxes paid by our people into the treasuries of their respective units of government has been for education but very few have had in view the training of the people who cultivate the soil and who use the public roads more than other classes.

"Road making has not improved very materially since Macadam applied broken rock, but it has become an economic question of great importance to the American people.

"We have established within the department at Washington an office for the study of road material. We are calling upon young men who have graduated in engineering instituting to take practical work with us, so that we may be able to supply the demands coming from all parts of the country for men skilled in road making.

"Our laboratory is designed to assist each locality in determining the use of materials it may happen to possess. Few of our towns and cities have facilities for doing work. Many of the failures in road building in the past are due to the use of material unsuited to the condition and climate and traffic.

"The work of the department of agriculture along the line of road building is intended to be educational and experimental as it is along other lines in which it is engaged. I am well satisfied that the condition of the public roads at the present time is a correct indication of the amount of educational work that has been done along the line of road building. If what the department is endeavoring to do now with regard to helping to build object lesson roads (which has been done in half the states of the union) and the study of road material for the information of the people, had been done when our government was organized, the people would have understood how to build roads long before this time—would have understood the values of the materials in all parts of the United States. And I am well satisfied also that when the people are thoroughly informed in the several states and territories with regard to the science of road building, there will be no hesitation in levying taxes to carrying on the work.

"Each section of our country has problems peculiar to itself, and to the end that all should have consideration the department of agriculture has a science agent in each of our great divisions, bringing them into touch with the laboratory at Washington.

"The question will be with us always and road making will be cheapened as research adds to our knowledge of materials. The undertaking of road making will grow as related sciences are developed."

Air-Ship Dangers.

In the May World's Work the following thrilling experience in one of his air-ships is related by Santos Dumont: "Once when I was flying over Paris, a rope running from the long frame of the 'engine room' suspended, got caught in the pulley, fortunately in the long frame, not in the 'engine room.' I walked along the frame, fixed the pulley, and got back to my seat in four or five minutes. How hight was I then? Oh, about a thousand feet, but I held onto the braces. If anything happens to my engine, I am a balloonist, and, therefore, in a similar predicament to a sea captain whose ship has lost its propellers, or broken its engines. He must hoist the sails or be at the mercy of the elements. The valves at the end of the balloon regulate the effect of the temperature upon the gas. If I have difficulty in rising quickly, I throw over some ballast or let out water from the 'engine room.'

Gopher Exterminator.

E. R. Thompson, of Carson City, Nevada, was in Corvallis Friday. Mr. Thompson is known in the state in which he lives as the man who exterminated the alfalfa gopher. These little pests became so troublesome a few years ago that the United States took up the matter and spent a large sum employing scientists to investigate and provide a means of protecting the farmers against their ravages.

Mr. Thompson, a farmer, was experimenting with one thing and another when he finally hit upon phosphoric acid. It worked so perfectly that where the preparation was placed the ground was literally covered with dead gophers. Wheat was thoroughly soaked and a very small quantity mixed therewith. It was necessary to do this at night as the rays of the sun would set it on fire, also it had to be mixed very quickly as the affinity of this acid for water would also cause it to burn. The mixed wheat was scattered about the ground at night and the next morning the result was as aforesaid. Mr. Thompson said that although he offered men $20 a day to assist him in his factory he had to do the work all alone. The farmers were so afraid to handle the preparation that on one occasion a farmer who was taking some home brought two wagons fastened together about 50 feet apart. He rode in the front one and placed the poison in the one behind. He also said that a sure preventive for phosphoric burns was gold dust.

Mr. Thompson said that the same scheme applied to this state would effectually rid it of ground squirrels.

Natural Ice Is Passing.

For several years past the business of the ice man of former days has been decreasing steadily, and at the present rate ere long he will find his occupation gone. It is no longer necessary to wait for cold weather to secure a supply of the refrigerating product; it can be produced easily and cheaply in the warmest weather by chemical processes.

In the State of Maine, where in former years the harvesting of ice for market in more southern latitudes was carried to enormous proportions, the total quantity cut during last winter, which embraced perfect conditions, for the securing of a large crop, was but 485,000 tons against 700,000 tons gathered in the winter of 1902-3.

The advantages offered by chemistry and modern machinery for the production of ice and the perfect control of temperature at whatever degree desired, when and wherever needed, irrespective of climatic conditions, renders their mechanical acquirements cheaper than can be obtained from natural ice when transportation from remote districts of storing and the great wastage of original bulk through melting is taken into consideration. In all manufacturing necessity for cooling and maintaining unform degrees of temperature, as well as certainty of control of such conditions, together with their greater economy, present systems of artificial refrigeration are crowding nature out of the field of competition and reducing the latter to chiefly local value.

So far as misappropriation of funds is concerned, Senator Mitchell says the reports do not show that Bancroft has done anything of a serious nature since December last. The investigation at that time showed he had taken money from the cash drawers and left his I. O. U., but as the department condoned that action, Senator Mitchell says Bancroft cannot now be criticised on that account. Since that time the only money irregularity reported by the Inspectors deals with funds derived from sale of waste paper. Out of $28 so derived, Bancroft is said to have paid $3 for hauling, which was legitimate, but expended $4 for rubber stamps, without authority of the department, and this expenditure was disallowed. He is criticised by the Inspectors for spending funds without authority, but because of the small amount involved, Senator Mitchell believes this offense will not be regarded seriously. Until he has given further consideration to the facts disclosed by reports, Senator Mitchell cannot tell what action he will take. He wishes to make out a complete case before presenting it to the Postmaster-General. He probably will not make a strong plea for Bancroft's retention, in view of the determination of most of the postal officials to force him out of office. But if he is convinced Bancroft must go, he will probably ask that he be allowed to resign, and not be discharged. If he has to name a new Postmaster, Senator Mitchell says he does not know which one of the various aspirants he will select.

An Unprededented Inborsement.

The lightness of the vote, which will not greatly exceed 90,000 in the state, out of a registered total of 106,000, is to be regretted; but the proportion of Republican ballots to the whole number is as large as could have been expected, probably 5 out of 9. On a complete vote this would have given a Republican plurality of 25,000; as it is, it may reach 20,000. No such indorsement has ever been given a National Administration. McKinley's plurality in 1900 was 13,000. The combined pluralities on Congress in 1902 were 15,000. In the Second District the inevitable has happened; in the First District the slanderers of Representative Hermann have been rebuked.

Oregon's early history identified her people with Republican policies, and to them her later annals have bound her more and more firmly. The cause of the Union was dear to those who framed the state, and today the vigorous policies of Theodore Roosevelt toward Pacific Coast development and Pacific Ocean commerce are approved as heartily here as anywhere. On the state ticket, fortunately, no excuses appeared for little resentments to obscure the chief issue and raise the incidental to the supreme place. Again Oregon has done credit to herself in giving honor to a Republican President.

The result in the First District is peculiarly gratifying. Mr. Hermann's vote is the best answer to the unaccountably malevolent and unjustifiable assaults made upon him. Representative Tongue's long service had built up a support for him that reached a highwater mark of 23,585 at the election of 1902, against 16,213 for the Democratic candidate, a plurality of 6372. In 1900 Mr. Tongue's plurality had been but 3000. Starting in again at the beginning, Mr. Hermann mustered at the special election of June, 1903, a total of 15,313 to 13,042 for the Democratic nominee, or a plurality of 2281. This slender advantage he has now increased to probably 7000 plurality. The indorsement will strengthen his hands in Congress and inspire him with fresh zeal for his district and state.

The effect of this election upon the Nation will be to establish President Roosevelt yet more firmly in public opinion and to dishearten his enemies and detractors of every sort. It will justify also the confidence reposed in the people of Oregon by the Republican leaders at Washington when they granted the appeal for an appropriation in aid of the Lewis and Clark Centennial. It is well that this is so; for it may be necessary some time to go before Congress with other requests on behalf of Oregon; and it would have proved awkward in that day to be remindad that the state could not be depended on.—Oregonian.

An Oakland capitalist has been sued for $100,000 as alleged damages for the laceration of the maidenly feelings and aspiring hopes of a trapeze performer, who wanted to change the rope of the arena for the knot of matrimony. Is'nt it strange how a rich man can inflict immeasurably more serious damage than a poor man when it comes to the sensitive feelings of a gentler sex.—San Francisco Call.

Toledo Reporter: A carload of young oysters from the Atlantic coast passed through here Wednesday and are being "planted" in the bay near Yaquina. These oysters will not multiply in Pacific waters, but after they get a start in life, grow rapidly. Within a couple of years this carload will have grown into several carloads, and its commercial value will be a handsome figure. The Frieght charges on the car, it is reported amounted to nearly $900—and that should give the oysters a decidedly rich flavor.

On Monday Senator Mitchell concluded an examination of the papers on file in the Postoffice Department in the case of Postmaster Bancroft, including the reports of the Inspectors, but he will not be ready for several days to discuss the matter with the Postmaster-General and the President. He failed to find in the reports of the inspectors anything which, in his judgment, would warrant Bancroft's dismissal, but nevertheless, is not satisfied the department will take the same view. The most serious showing made by inspectors against Bancroft, he says, is in the matter of administration of the office, which is shown to have been lax and unsatisfactory in many ways. Bancroft's attempt to dismiss his assistant, Burckhardt, is also condemned, as well as his dismissal of Clerk Steele.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by A. C. Marsters & Co.

A WIFE'S CONFESSION.

Of course every one knew when they were engaged and every one pretended to be surprised when they heard it was suddenly broken off. It was first said she had broken it off, then that his heart had changed, but finally she confessed that she had been so irritable, so depressed and blue that she had fairly driven him away. Her good looks were vanishing. She was getting thin, pale, and hollow-cheeked, with dark circles around her eyes. Suddenly all society was pleased again to hear of the engagement being renewed, and it was not long before a beautiful and radiant bride was taken to the altar. She had regained her good looks, her former happy disposition and strong nerve all through a secret a friend gave her. A few bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is what made two more lives happy and a radiant bride more beautiful than she had ever appeared before.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Mrs. O. O. Scripture, of Prescott, Ariz., L. Box 536, writes: "For nearly two years I was a great sufferer with ulceration and enlargement of womb, also suffered severely with dyspepsia and was run down—a perfect wreck. I doctored for several years; got no better, until about seven months ago I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I can stand on my feet and work hard all day. I feel that life is now worth living, and shall ever feel grateful to you and shall always recommend your medicines to all who are suffering in any way."
