Joni Harms concert Aug. 2

A free family-style event inspired by Tom and Charlotte Bell takes place at Waterfront Park Aug. 2, from 5-7 p.m. The Bell Family is generously sponsoring Joni Harms, a renowned country Western artists from Canby. Joni has just returned from a tour in Ireland, has won many awards, and has released eight albums. She is excited to play in Hood River and will feature country music for children and adults to enjoy. Come out with a picnic and enjoy the new waterfront amphitheater.

August Summer Concert Series at Mt. Hood Meadows

Get ready for a free live music concert series every Sunday in August on the Paradise Deck at Mt. Hood Meadows Ski Resort, from 1-3 p.m. Regional and Northwest artists will bring folk, rock, world and pop to the stage.

Aug. 2: Jen Winklepleck

Mt. Hood Meadows' very own Vertical bartender Jen Winklepleck will be showcasing her amazing voice, featuring bluegrass and rock songs.

Aug. 9: Tim Snider

A Portland local, Tim Snider brings a World-Folk hybrid aimed at the heart, the brain and the feet.

Aug. 16: Jon Davidson

A Portland local, Jon Davidson's music is engaging acoustic alt/pop with heart.

Aug. 23: The Fenderbenders

Les Vaughn and Ted Matzen make up the Fenderbender duo. Their show will be a rare performance featuring a wide variety of original love songs, country music, Johnny Cash and Elvis Presley covers.

Aug. 30: Redwood Son

Now a veteran of the regional Pacific Northwest music scene, Redwood Son was named best new artist at the 2011 Portland Music Awards. Redwood Son fuses vintage tones with contemporary styling. His songs promise to bring a more mature approach to the same timeless folk tunes.
