The Revised Ten Commandments.

An Iowa paper puts forth the following ten commandments, which, while they are not the original ten, will be a great help to a town if strictly observed:

I. Thou shalt not go away from home to do thy trading, thou, nor thy wife, nor thy sons, nor thy daughters.

II. Thou shall patronize thine own merchants and they shalt patronize thee. Make haste, therefore and purchase that which shall cause thy countenance to shine with intelligence and bring prosperity to both.

III. Thou shalt employ thy own mechanics, that they be not driven from their homes to find bread for their little ones. Thou shalt also consider him that is thy neighbor above him that dwelleth in a strange town.

IV. Thou shalt not ask for credit as goods cost much money and the merchant's heart is wearied with bills. His children clamor daily for bread and his wife abideth at home for the want of such raiment as adorneth her sisters. Blessed, yea thrice blessed, is the man who pays cash.

V. Thou shalt not ask for reduced prices for thy "influence," for behold guile is in thy heart; and the merchant readeth like an open book, he laugheth thee to scorn and shouteth to his clerks, ha, ha!

VI. Thou shalt do whatever lieth in thy power to encourage and promote thy welfare, thine own town, thine own people.

VII. Thou shalt not suffer the voice of pride to overcome thee, and if other towns entice, hearken not unto them, for thou mayest be deceived.

VIII. Thou shalt spend thy earnings at home that they may return whence they came, and give nourishment to such as come after thee.

IX. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy town wherein thou dwellest, but speak well of it to all men.

X. Thou shalt keep these commandments and teach them to thy children to the third and fourth generation that they may be made to flourish and grow in plenty when thou art laid to rest with thy father.

Chitwood Splinters.

[Received too late for last week.]

Almost everybody in this community is busy making hay or picking berries.

We never seen wild blackberries so plentiful before as they are this season, and the fair sex are very busy picking and canning.

Some of our young folks were disappointed in not getting to go to the celebration at the Siletz, owing to the rainy weather and muddy roads, but they seemed to be pretty well satisfied when they learned that there was no Indian feather dance, as that was the main thing they wanted to go for.

The Victor Sandstone company are still stripping the dirt off the mountain side, which makes the huge ledge of rock loom up in grand shape.

Mrs. A. L. Chitwood is in Corvallis visiting her mother and sister.

If you want to see a fine garden just come over and cast your eyes on Uncle Jimmy Chitwood's truck patch, and you will see something nice, and which he and his wife's hands have planted and cultivated with a hoe. Even in their old age they have not out lived their usefulness.

In the State insane asylum at Salem there are 136 employees. The authorities refuse to give a list of the names of the employees, or the amount of salary received by each of them. It is claimed that nepotism reigns supreme in that department of the state service. A resident of Salem furnishes the Salem correspondents of the Oregonian the following list of appointments of relatives of state officers employed in that institution, but the correspondent does not vouch for the accuracy of the list: "Governor Lord, four nephews. Secretary of State Kincaid, three nephews and 28 cousins; Treasurer Metchan, one son, six nephews, and 34 cousins, Chief Justice Moore, a son and daughter, a nephew and two cousins; Attorney-General Idleman, a brother and three cousins; Assistant Treasurer Hodgkin, a son and six cousins; Superintendent Pains, whole family."

The tariff bill has been agreed upon in conference and has already passed the house. By the time this paper reaches its readers it will have probably passed the senate and have been signed by the president. The country will then be under a new tariff law, and the long scheduled wave of prosperity will undoubtedly make its appearance if it don't get sidetracked again some place. At least the country will have a period of rest and surcease from tariff talk.
