"Define trust," commanded the teacher. The little fellow at the head of the class, who reads the papers, replied: "Trust is a big snake!" "Where did you learn that?" asked the teacher. "In the paper," replied the boy. "It said a trust was an anaconda." "That wasn't what I saw in my paper," said a [illegible] pupil, "for it said a trust was [illegible]." "It's a monster," said the third boy. "Where on earth did you get that idea?" asked the astonished teacher. "Why, it says the papers," replied the number three, "it goes the papers one better and informed it was an octopus!" "Trust means combination," said the teacher. "In the future I hope the class will put their trust in the dictionary and not in the newspapers."—Ex.

THE HIRED MAN OF OLD.

This is a day when the "hired man" who is engaged to work on the farm for the season reports for duty, provided, of course, that there is somewhere a farm on which such a relic of a by-gone age as the hired man is to be found this year. What an institution he used to be in the days when we were young! A thoroughbred Yankee; not a drop of imported blood in his veins; strong and lithe, and active and fearless; intelligent, fairly well educated, skilled in husbandry, and, as a rule, industrious beyond the belief of this ten-hour generation.

From the time he drove his ax into the woodpile in the dooryard on the 1st of April until the close of the season, after harvesting, he expected to work, and did work, not from sun to sun, but from dawn to darkness, and then did the milking and fed the pigs afterward. His day was fourteen, fifteen, even sixteen hours long, and it never occurred to him that it should be shorter. He was equal to all. He could do anything. He was smart with a scythe, handy with a hoe, cute with a cradle and experienced with an ax. He knew how much grain and grass seed were required to the acre, when grass was fit to cut, and when it was hayed enough to "go in," and he did not need to be told when to drop turnip seed in the corn field, or how to put corn in the shock.

He could build a wall, make cider, thrash the farm, make a bedstack, or doctor a sick horse. It was safe to leave him to work alone. And he put his [illegible] wages, $12, possibly $15 a month for eight months, and saved three-fourths of it. Then when he had worked eight or ten seasons and accumulated by [illegible] hundred dollars, he probably married the "hired girl" who had been at work for $1 a week and saved half of that. Bought a farm on [illegible] little by little, educated his children and sent them to the city to preach or to practice law, or to work in the store or shop, while he stayed on the old homestead.—Manchester, N. H., Mirror.

A dog at Racine, Wis., tried to jump through a swiftly revolving fly-wheel, and, it is said, "partly succeeded. A part of him got through and the other parts went off in different directions."

let that cold of yours run on. You think it a light thing. But it may run into a catarrh. Or into pneumonia. Or consumption. Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself.

The breathing apparatus must be kept healthy and free of all obstructions and offensive matter. Otherwise there is trouble ahead.

All the diseases of these parts, head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs can be delightfully and completely cured by the use of Pond's German Syrup. Haven't know this already, thousands and thousands of people can tell you. They have found it out for themselves. They know how it is, these days. Bottle only 75. Ask any druggist.

WHAT AM I TO DO?

The symptoms of Biliousness are well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A dull uneasiness in the head, a bad taste in the mouth, a coated tongue, a loss of appetite, constipation, costiveness, sometimes diarrhœa, yellow skin, pain in the side, back and joints, and a general feeling of weariness and lassitude. Sometimes the bowels are alternately loose and costive. Sometimes the head is hot, with dizziness, and a dull pain in the forehead, or back part of the head, and the blood is hot, with quick pulse. Sometimes the skin is hot, dry and feverish, with eruptions. In some cases the skin and eyes are yellow, with yellow spots on the body. The urine is high colored, and in some cases contains a deposit like brick dust. There is usually a loss of appetite, but not always; some have a voracious appetite. Sometimes the patient complains of a weak, empty feeling in the pit of the stomach, which is relieved by eating, but not always. There is usually a feeling of having neglected some duty, and a vague fear of impending evil, which makes the patient miserable. It is not pain that he complains of, but he is miserable, and cannot tell why he is so. In some cases the patient complains of a dull pain over the right eye, and in others the pain is in the back part of the head, and in others it is in the joints and limbs, and in others it is a general pain through the system. In some cases the patient is constipated for days, in others he is relaxed every morning. In some cases the skin is dry and in others it is moist and clammy. In some cases the patient is nervous, irritable, and in others he is dull and sleepy. In some cases the patient sleeps well at night, but is drowsy and tired in the morning. In some cases he has a dry, hacking cough, which is mistaken for consumption. In some cases the patient has all the symptoms of consumption, and is thought by his friends to be in the first stage of that disease, and he does not think his lungs are sound. In some cases the patient has a few of these symptoms, and in other cases he has a great many of them. In all cases the disease is attended with a more or less disordered state of the digestive apparatus, and the liver is the seat of the disease. Ask your druggist for Dr. Sanford's Liver Invigorator. Price $1.00.

A despatch from Warsaw, Poland, says that the managers of railways at Warsaw, Granica and Ivan Gorod have received a military order directing them to accumulate, without delay, on each line, 6000,000 tons of coal. Other advices say that Russia is in a ferment of war preparation. The Military and civil authorities of Poland have been instructed to ascertain what quantities of corn, flour and forage they will be able to supply in a given time.

An Austrian baron who desired to commit suicide consulted a physician about a complaint about his heart in order to find out exactly where it was. He then fired five shots into his body, aiming at his heart, and they being unsuccessful, he blew out his brains with one shot.

A Stab in the Dark

Sometimes fails of its murderous intent. The insidious and dastardly attacks made upon the reputation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters by persons who seek to palm off cheap and fiery tonics as identical with it, or "the same thing under another name," or "equally as good," in most instances react disastrously upon the unprincipled traders upon popular credulity who thus palm them, converting their speculations into ruinous failures. The Bitters is a pure, wholesome and thorough medicine, adapted to the total cure and prevention of fever and ague, bilious remittent, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, debility, nervousness and kidney troubles. Its every ingredient, unlike those in the imitations of it, is of an ascertained standard of excellence, and while they, by reason of their fiery properties, react injuriously upon the brain and nervous system, of both those organs it is a sedative and invigorant. Refuse all those harmful imitations.
